FIND POWERFUL DRUG IS REMEDY FOR PNEUMONIA

Useful in Fighting Dread 'Type 3.'

New York, Nov. 21.—[Special.]—High hopes were expressed today for the success of a new drug which has been unusually effective in pneumonia tests. The chemical apparently leaves no poisons and is administered orally as simply as swallowing an aspirin tablet.

Dr. Lionel E. H. Whitby, who discovered new drug for pneumonia treatment.

Pathologists said good results have been obtained in treating pneumonia in Bellevue hospital, the Rockefeller Institute, Johns Hopkins hospital, the Columbia Presbyterian Medical center, and Lenox Hill hospital.

It has been found to be effective against many types of pneumonia, including the baffling and highly fatal type 3, for which no serum ever has been found. There are thirty-two known types of pneumonia.

Serums Present Problem.

Science has been able to produce serums which are effective for about a dozen known pneumonia types and are helpful in some others. But both horse serums and rabbit serums, which are commonly used, require a complicated laboratory technique for manufacture. They are not regarded as specific in all cases and horse serums frequently cause a serum sickness.

The newly discovered chemical compound is a drug specific, acting directly on the pneumococcus germ which causes most types of pneumonia. It is a cousin of the famous sufanilamide, which has been found to be a specific cure for the deadly streptococcus germ.

Doctors do not claim the new drug is a cure-all. They point out that thus far it has been used in only a few cases. But those cases were in several important and reputable hospitals and resulted in marked success.

Warn Against False Hopes.

An announcement of the tests at Bellevue hospital was made by Dr. Russell L. Cecil, one of the foremost pneumonia authorities in the country, before the Kings County Medical society. Dr. Cecil is connected with Bellevue hospital, is a professor at the Cornell university medical school, and is chairman of the New York committee for pneumonia control.

He reported on the cases of two elderly patients, one 78 and the other 65 years old, who had the fearful type 3 pneumonia. Both recovered, Dr. Cecil said, after treatment with the new drug.

Dr. S. S. Goldwater, commissioner of New York hospitals, corroborated the reports of success at Bellevue. He joined Bellevue staf physicians, however, in warning that any statement that the new compound is a specific for all types of pneumonia is unfortunate and likely to cause harm by arousing false hopes in pneumonia victims and in their families and friends.

Results Called Promising.

Spokesmen for the medical information bureau of the New York Academy of Medicine said the drug showed very promising results.

From Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore came the statement of Dr. Perrin Long, an outstanding pathologist, that the drug is better than any used so far against pneumonia.

The new chemical has not been placed on the commercial market, having been released only to hospitals for experimentation. It was discovered by Dr. Lionel E. H. Whitby of London, assistant pathologist of the Blandsutton Institute of Pathology at Middlesex hospital.

Gale Sweeps Nome; City Battles to Save Sea Wall

NOME, Alaska, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Volunteers patroled gale swept streets here today after an all-night battle to prevent the Bering sea from tearing foundations from the entire length of Front street. Some of the sea wall was swept away and part of a wharf collapsed before the storm, raging three days, moderated.

WORKERS REBEL AGAINST STRIKE AT STOCKYARDS

A large number of the stock handlers employed by the Union Stock Yard and Transit company were planning last night to defy a strike order, issued by a C. I. O. union, and return to work today. The strike, called at 6 a. m. yesterday, tied up the huge Chicago stockyards. It made impossible the delivery of 52,000 head of live stock, which arrived during the day, to packing houses.

All these animals—15,000 cattle, 25,000 hogs, 10,000 sheep, and 2,000 calves—were stranded in the yards' pens. No handlers were available to feed and water them. The chores were being done by members of the Live Stock exchange. Commission men, salesmen, and farmers hitched up teams and hauled grain and hay to the animals.

Seek to Clear Yards Today.

A committee from the Live Stock exchange, headed by President Charles R. Rice, conferred last night with the strikers on the possibility of clearing the yards today. They pointed out that the situation was unfair to the shippers who sent in their animals from the country, unaware that any trouble was brewing. These shippers would have to stand a daily feed bill of $6,000 or more, it was estimated, until the live stock can reach the packers.

The strike leaders said they would not object to the commission men personally weighing live stock and clearing the yards of all cattle arriving up to 5 p. m. today. In return the Live Stock exchange delegation agreed not to receive any more animals after that and to warn against any shipments being sent in.

Union Demands Listed.

Officials of the striking organization, known as Live Stock Handlers union No. 567, have been negotiating for an agreement with the Stock Yard and Transit company for weeks. Their demands are: A 40 hour week, with time and a half for overtime, a wage increase for 65 men getting less than 62½ cents an hour, a written contract, a closed shop and a checkoff [collection of union dues by the employer]. The officials claimed that the company had refused to bargain with them in good faith.

This was denied by O. T. Henkle, general manager of the company. He said that some of the points had been conceded, but that others could not be accepted. Unofficially it was indicated that the firm would not grant the closed shop and the checkoff. However, Henkle insisted that the negotiations still were pending, and would be resumed as soon as the men return to work.

The defiant employés, who wish to end the strike, are members of Live Stock Handlers union No. 517, an af-

GENTLEMAN DISCUSSING WITH FRIEND THE STATE OF THE WORLD

40 FARMERS COMING TO CITY TO SEE THAT STEERS ARE CARED FOR

Schleswig, Ia., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Forty-five carloads of prime beef steers bound for the Chicago market were loaded here late today by farmers who then boarded the train to make certain the stock is unloaded at the market tomorrow.

The forty farmers who planned to accompany the stock said they would unload their own steers and care for them if necessary in view of the strike at the Chicago stockyards.

Ed Reimer, feeder who supervised the loading here, said most of the cattle are entered in the International Live Stock show which opens in Chicago this week-end.

RULE ATTORNEYS MUSTN'T TELL—EVEN TO COLLECT

Attorneys mustn't tell their clients' secrets—even when their clients don't pay them—the Appellate court observed emphatically yesterday. It reversed a Municipal court jury which award a $150 judgment to Louis A. Smith, attorney at 111 West Monroe street, against Roy Hefter of 5217 North Damen avenue. Smith represented Hefter in a divorce action. And when Hefter didn't pay, the Appellate court held, Smith told the secrets Hefter had told him to the jury.

Dink, a fox terrier, believes in making the best of things. Her two puppies were still born recently. When her owners, Mr. and Mrs. George Patrick, 178 North Leclaire avenue, were unable to find another pup for Dink they brought home a kitten. Dink was delighted. She nurses the kitten, watches over it, and even tries to pick it up, dog fashion. The kitten, Tommy, seems as pleased as Dink.

Storm Stays Voyage of 738 Convicts to Devil's Island

ST. MARTIN-DE-RE, France, Nov. 21.—(AP)—The first group of convicts condemned to exile since France decided to resume sending prisoners to her Guiana penal islands still was ashore tonight. A storm which prevented their boarding the prison ship La Martiniere, gave the 738 prisoners a short reprieve before leaving in iron cages for the colony, which includes notorious "Devil's Island." Officials set the departure for Tuesday morning.

Strange Events Land Broker's Son in Jail Cell

Hubert Heintz, tall and handsome former Winnetkan, found himself in a detective bureau cell last night as the result of a strange set of circumstances. These revolved around a $100 robbery, an automobile license, two shades of hair—dark brown and golden yellow—and a mustache.

Hubert Heintz.

Heintz, member of a wealthy north shore family, hopes to clear up the embarrassing elements at a hearing on a writ of habeas corpus in the Criminal court today. Heintz is a son of Philip F. Heintz, 495 Willow road, Winnetka, a member of the New York and Chicago Stock exchanges and the Chicago Board of Trade.

Robbery Starts His Trouble.

The case of young Heintz grows out of the robbery on Nov. 4 of the Household Finance corporation branch at 3150 Lincoln avenue. Police had been searching for him since then solely on the strength of an automobile license. He surrendered yesterday and refused to talk.

According to the police report made by Mrs. Gertrude Wietholter, 4024 North Ashland avenue, the cashier, the robber was a man 30 years old, about 6 feet tall, and weighing 190 pounds. She added that he was good looking, dark and smooth shaven.

Auto License Traced.

As the bandit walked down the stairs from the second floor offices he shoved his revolver into his coat pocket. He was seen by a customer of the finance house. The customer whose name is withheld by police, suspected a robbery had been committed. He trailed the man to an automobile, and noted the license number which he gave to police.

Police traced the license to Mrs. M. B. Clark, 4456 North Ashland avenue, wife of Dr. Tracy Clark, a physician, with offices at 10 South La Salle street. Heintz is their son-in-law.

"I let my son-in-law borrow the car," Mrs. Clark said. "He told me he was going on to Joliet."

Police started a search for Heintz. They watched his home at 6447 North Rockwell street without success. Then yesterday Attorney Frank Kennedy telephoned his brother, Bernard Kennedy, a policeman, that he planned to surrender Heintz. Accordingly he turned Heintz over to the detective bureau.

Police gazed upon a man 30 years old, 5 feet 10½ inches tall, weighing 189 pounds, and good looking. Mrs. Wietholter said he resembled the bandit except for complexion. The patron who had jotted down the robber's auto license number also failed to identify Heintz. He denied police suggestions he might have erred in taking the license.

Seek Brunet; Find Blond.

Police had been looking for a dark man as described by the cashier. Heintz is fair, with golden yellow hair. He was sporting a little mustache last night. Because of this contrast—the police assumption being that a dark man would have dark hair—the police doubted for a time that Heintz was really Heintz.

They sent to Winnetka for two men who know him. The two, Bethel Schultz, a Winnetka policeman, and Robert Nicholson, a Winnetka filling station owner, came down and identified him as Heintz.

Admittedly puzzled, detectives took several strands of Heintz's hair for chemical analysis today. Meanwhile Dr. Clark, Heintz's father-in-law, declared:

"Heintz is a natural blond."

WOOS HER NINE YEARS, THEN WEDS WIDOW, BUT SHE STILL LOVES HIM

Mrs. Margaret Klaus told Judge Joseph Hermes yesterday that she loves John Gierash still, although:

He neglected to marry her after wooing her nine years, he kept $6,000 he borrowed from her, he married a widow with seven children last Saturday, and then he had Mrs. Klaus arrested just for threatening to shoot him. He's a real estate dealer, 50 years old, living at 4836 South Hermitage avenue. Mrs. Klaus, who is 45, lives at 5306 South Justine street. When the judge placed her under a $1,000 peace bond she said:

"I still love him, your honor. But the person who shoots him ought to get a medal."

Boys Confess Stealing 500 Brass Door Plates

Two boys were held by the Shakespeare avenue police last night after they had admitted stealing more than 500 brass plates from house doors on the northwest side recently. They are Henry Peszek, 17 years old, 2846 North Ridgeway avenue, and Stanley Marchlewski, 15, 3604 North Hamlin avenue. Both were seized in the 2600 block on North Kedzie avenue after having taken eighteen plates last evening. They said they had been selling the plates for junk at 4 cents a pound.

Widow Jailed for Helping Husband Die

White Plains, N. Y., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—A Westchester county matron was held in jail tonight on an unusual manslaughter charge after she had told an amazing story of nonchalantly helping her well-to-do husband to commit suicide. An old law says any one who aids another to take his life is guilty of first degree manslaughter.

Arrow points to site of suicide.

"He was washed up financially and physically," Mrs. Marie Burckhalter, 44 years old, told police in explanation of her aid in helping her mate fulfill his wish for death. She is the sole beneficiary in a $10,000 life insurance policy he carried.

Father of Two Sons.

Her husband was Eugene Y. Burckhalter, 47 years old, president of the Southern Chemical corporation in Mount Vernon. There are two sons, Donald, 20 years old, and William, 17. They were not at home when their father died Saturday of monoxide gas in the garage at their home in Hastings-on-the-Hudson.

Mrs. Burckhalter, a tall, slender brunette, admitted that for the last five years she carried on a friendship—platonic, she insisted—with another man. She and Burckhalter were divorced in 1929 and remarried in 1936, for the sake of their sons, the woman said.

Tearless and icily calm, the widow told her fantastic story. She not only was unmournful, she was almost flippant at times. Her wisecracks about her late husband, when police questioned her a few hours after his death, caused a renewed investigation that resulted in her arrest.

Suicide Husband's Idea.

Mrs. Burckhalter said she suggested the suicide method, but that the plan to kill himself was her husband's idea.

Saturday afternoon, she said, she accompanied her husband to the garage and handed him a vacuum cleaner hose, which he ran from the exhaust pipe through a hole in the rear window of the car. As a final kindly gesture she directed their maid to mix an eggnog, her husband's favorite drink, and took it to him.

Burckhalter then got into the car and she helped him start the motor. They said their good-bys.

Questions Husband's Nerve.

"Well, you've been a good pal to me," Burckhalter said kindly.

"You haven't got the nerve to go through with it," was his wife's response.

She left the garage and went shopping. When she returned twenty minutes later she looked in the garage and saw her husband was unconscious, then called neighbors.

Mrs. Burckhalter told Elbert T. Gallagher, chief assistant district attorney, that her husband had been drinking heavily. Dr. Amos O. Squire, Westchester county medical examiner, found no evidence of alcohol in Burckhalter's brain.

Melville Kittel, 34 years old, a salesman from California, was in Mrs. Burckhalter's home at 3 a. m. Sunday when police went there to question her. He is the friend with whom she had been having recent dates. Kittel was questioned, but not arrested.

JUDGE AFFIRMS WIDOW'S RIGHT TO HIS ESTATE

Deathbed Marriage Is Ruled Valid.

David E. Shanahan was mentally competent at the time of his deathbed marriage to Mrs. Helen Troesch Shanahan, Judge George W. Bristow ruled yesterday. The ruling upheld the validity of the marriage. It also, in effect, upheld the right of Mrs. Shanahan, the veteran Illinois legislator's former secretary, to the $850,000 estate he willed her the day of the wedding.

Judge Geo. W. Bristow.

Shanahan's two cousins, the Misses Mary and Margaret Flynn of 5135 Kenwood avenue, had sought to invalidate the marriage in order to lay the groundwork for reinstating a previous will. The earlier will would have given the Flynns, who are sisters, 80 per cent of the estate and Mrs. Shanahan only 20 per cent.

Cousins to Appeal Ruling.

Attorneys for both sides had agreed before the trial that they would not contest the second will in case the marriage was held valid. Eugene P. Kealy, attorney for the cousins, said, however, that he would appeal Judge Bristow's ruling to the Illinois Supreme court.

A crowd which filled the Circuit court room heard Judge Bristow give the victory to Mrs. Shanahan and defend her against the charges made by Shanahan's cousins.

Judge Bristow, whose home is Paris, Edgar county, heard the case, involving the marriage alone, without a jury. The hearing required thirty-two days. On Nov. 9, last year, a jury disagreed as to the validity of both the marriage and the will after a trial that lasted three weeks.

Judge Bristow charged that witnesses for both sides had committed perjury.

"But," he said, "there is abundant evidence that Mr. Shanahan was in possession of his full mental faculties at the time of his marriage."

Dies in Hospital at 74.

Shanahan, forty-one years a legislator and five times speaker of the Illinois house, died in Mercy hospital at the age of 74 on Oct. 18, 1936. His deathbed marriage thirteen days earlier to Mrs. Shanahan, who was 41 years old, was then disclosed. The story of the new will came out.

In both trials attorneys for the cousins sought to show that Shanahan was in a stupor during much of his long illness. There were charges that he was unduly influenced; that he did not want to marry, and that the signature on the will was open to question. Even the hospital records of Shanahan's illness were challenged. Witnesses for Mrs. Shanahan told stories of Shanahan's fears that his cousins were robbing him, and accused the cousins of taking $80,000 from one of his safety deposit boxes.

Among the witnesses for Mrs. Shanahan at both trials was former Governor Louis L. Emmerson.

Long Romance, Lawyers Say.

Michael Ahern and Irwin Walker, attorneys for Mrs. Shanahan, sought to show that the marriage was the culmination of a romance of many years.

Judge Bristow reviewed the evidence that Shanahan had been in a stupor much of the time.

"But," he said, "the only way in which this marriage could be held invalid would be by regarding the four witnesses and two priests who saw Mr. Shanahan on his wedding day as perjurers. And in my twelve years on the bench I have never heard more straightforward testimony than that given by three of these witnesses.

"Now for a picture of Helen. Here are a rich man and his secretary. Some, perhaps, might think her a gold-digging secretary.

"But for twenty years or more they maintained a relationship that was very close—a holy, pure and clean relationship. There was nothing clandestine about it.

"He held her in highest respect. For a secretary to maintain herself on this level for twenty years is highly commendable.

"He gave her gifts—an automobile and a ring. There was nothing secret about it. Every one in her family knew it.

"Here was a man who was close, penurious, and miserly. That he provided the best for her care and comfort is far more significant than if he had sent her silly letters."

Judge Bristow said he believed Mrs. Shanahan decided to marry Shanahan on his deathbed because of baseless stories circulated that he had cut her off without a penny in his will. She wished, Judge Bristow said, to protect her interests.

Mrs. Shanahan, whose home is in Springfield, was surrounded by women extending congratulations after the trial.

WILKERSON PUTS OVER HEARING ON FAKE ARSON CASE

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday continued to Dec. 5 a hearing on a petition for a federal grand jury investigation of the fake arson confession case. Attorney Joseph T. Harrington asked the inquiry on the ground he could not get justice for his clients in the state courts and that one of State Fire Marshal Sherman V. Coultas' amateur sleuths impersonated a department of justice agent.

Warren Canaday, first assistant United States attorney, recommended that the charge be investigated by the department of justice.

Attorney Harrington, who represents Frank Kolesiak and Emil Guerrieri, said he is still trying to get warrants in the state courts for Coultas and others. Kolesiak and Guerrieri charge they were kidnaped, falsely imprisoned and tortured until they confessed setting fire to the Hotel Center, 1422 Madison street last April. The September grand jury found them innocent.

Gov. Horner is making a personal investigation of the conduct of Marshal Coultas in this case.

U. S. COURT GETS TRANSIT MERGER REPORTS TODAY

Transit attorneys will report today to Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson on their efforts to work out a basis for merging the surface lines and the elevated system. Attorneys for the two systems met with Walter A. Shaw, traction adviser to Judge Wilkerson, for further consideration of the consolidation plan which Shaw proposed several weeks ago.

The elevated reorganization committee has agreed to the Shaw plan but surface lines interests contend it is unfair to car lines securities holders. Judge Wilkerson has warned surface lines representatives that if a unification plan is not accepted, the street car properties will be sold in foreclosure proceedings.

ROBBED OF $600 RING.

Louis L. Penner, president of a wholesale woolen firm at 301 West Jackson boulevard, was robbed of $3 and a ring valued at $600 by two gunmen in front of his home at 4814 North St. Louis avenue last evening.

DELAY INDUCTION OF 3 APPOINTEES TO COURT POSTS

Induction of three new Roosevelt appointees to Chicago posts was deferred yesterday until tomorrow because their commissions failed to arrive at the expected time.

They are Attorney General Otto Kerner, who is to become a judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals; District Attorney Michael L. Igoe, who is to become a judge of the United States District court, and William J. Campbell, who is to become the new district attorney. The three presidential commissions are in the possession of Joseph B. Kennan, assistant to Attorney General Cummings, who telephoned Igoe that he had delayed his departure from Washington to attend a dinner for his chief last night.

Because of this delay, Attorney General Kerner postponed his resignation from his present office, and that in turn put off Gov. Horner's intended appointment of John E. Cassidy of Peoria as the new attorney general.

Relief Cheater Is Jailed for Failure to Repay

George Manos, a relief cheater living at 8036 South Union avenue, was sent to jail for 90 days yesterday for failure to repay the relief money he obtained through fraud. He was convicted before Municipal Judge Eugene L. McGarry in August, 1937, of defrauding the Chicago Relief administration of $184. Evidence was presented yesterday that Manos had repaid only $16 of the money due.

SLAYING SUSPECT GIVES UP AFTER HUNT OF 2 WEEKS

Accused of Shooting During Fight Over Car Parking

Rubin Jersky, sought for two weeks as the killer of Donald Warden in a fight over parking an auto, surrendered yesterday to Capt. Louis Klatzco of the Fillmore street police. Warden was shot to death Nov. 3 during a quarrel with four men in front of his home at 1143 South Central Park avenue.

A coroner's jury recommended that police arrest Jersky as the killer. Charles A. Bellows, Jersky's attorney, accompanied him to Capt. Klatzco's office. Jersky refused to answer any questions concerning the slaying or his whereabouts since then.

Shortly after Jersky surrendered Bellows filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus on his behalf. It was made returnable before Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley in Criminal court at 11 o'clock this morning.

Quarrel Over Parking Car.

Warden quarreled with his attackers because one of them had parked his car partly on Warden's lawn. Witnesses said Warden was fighting off two men when a third man joined them. They beat Warden and then kicked him.

He got up and ran into a gasoline filling station at 1147 South Central Park avenue. Warden tried to seize a gasoline pump nozzle with which to beat off a man chasing him. He stopped his attempt when Abe Litberg, a station attendant, yelled at him to let the pumps alone.

Starts Back Down Stairs.

Two of the men followed Warden as he ran back to his home, where he dashed up the steps and onto the porch. A fourth man, who joined the other three, called: "You coward, why don't you come down and fight?"

Warden rolled up his sleeves and started back down the stairs. The man who had taunted him shot him.

Sergt. Joseph Fallon led a crew of eight detectives in canvassing the neighborhood. They found that Rubin Jersky, his wife, and his brother, Irving, left their second floor apartment at 1136 South Central Park avenue, across the street from Warden's, a few minutes after he was killed. They drove away in haste.

Witnesses told police both Jersky brothers participated in the battle. Litberg testified at the inquest that Rubin fired the fatal shot. Mrs. Annette Good Warden, 27 years old, the slain man's widow, testified that her husband had engaged in numerous arguments with motorists who parked on his lawn.

Rubin Jersky has a police record dating to 1931 when he was freed on a robbery charge. Two years later Rubin and two of his brothers, accused of being members of an automobile theft ring, were charged with assault to commit murder after a shooting near Salt Lake City, Utah.

Jacob Jersky, one of the brothers, was shot by policemen in Chicago in 1936 while trying to evade capture for his return to Utah. The assault charges there were nol prossed later. In January, 1936, Rubin served ten days in the Bridewell for reckless driving. A fourth brother, Hyman Jersky, 27 years old, was placed on probation in 1933 for tampering with an automobile.

ASK RELIEF COST INVESTIGATION IN INDIANA COUNTY

The county council of Lake county, Ind., yesterday voted to ask Gov. M. Clifford Townsend to send his relief commission into the county to investigate what the council considers exorbitant costs of relief. The council also voted a $1,400,000 bond issue to meet relief bills incurred by townships in the county.

A bond issue for $1,000,000 was passed and sold for the same purpose last August. William R. Thele, representing Chicago wholesale grocers, told the council that the grocers are holding $286,000 in relief warrants from townships in the county.

The two bond issues represent relief expenditures in excess of the regular tax levies for this purpose. The bonds are to be retired over the next decade by township taxes.

PLEADS GUILTY IN KIDNAPING OF BROKER'S WIFE

Charles W. Griesemer, 19 years old, pleaded guilty yesterday when he was arraigned before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker on charges of kidnaping Mrs. Adele Schreiner, a grain broker's wife. He took her across the state line into Indiana in violation of the Lindbergh kidnaping law, the government charges.

When Griesemer pleaded guilty, Assistant United States District Attorney Martin Ward warned him that he may be sentenced to die for his crime. The diminutive parole violator and gunman replied he did not care; that he did not intend even to engage an attorney. Griesemer has confessed that he shot William Smith, a St. Paul salesman, in a robbery Nov. 1. Commissioner Walker held him to the federal grand jury in $25,000 bond on the kidnaping charge.

DOCTOR GETS OFF LIGHT IN SECOND FIRE THIS YEAR

When Dr. Robert Patchell arrived yesterday at his home at 3724 South East avenue, Berwyn, he found several firemen leaving.

"You fellows look familiar," Dr. Patchell said. "What's wrong now?"

Several months ago Dr. Patchell's home was partially destroyed by fire, which caused $1,200 damage.

G. O. P. BLOCKS PLOT TO STEAL SPEAKER'S JOB

Legislators Elect Vote to Stand Together.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Unanimous action to block a Democratic scheme to steal control of the Illinois house of representatives was taken yesterday by the Republican representatives-elect from Cook county. The Democrats lost control in the election two weeks ago.

Twenty-one of the 22 Republican winners were present or represented and the missing one was reported to be in full accord with the party plan. A motion was adopted which pledged the entire delegation to go into the Republican caucus Jan. 3 and support the candidates for speaker and other house officers chosen in that caucus.

House Divided 79 to 74.

The same motion expressed resentment of the scheme to seduce two or more Republicans to vote for a Democratic candidate despite a party division of 79 Republicans to 74 Democrats.

At another Republican meeting later in the day the fifty ward committeemen constituting the Chicago city managing committee made known their intention to put up a real fight in the mayorality election next year. They postponed discussion of specific policies in the February primary until another meeting next Monday.

The temper of the legislators-elect as they gathered at the morning meeting in the La Salle hotel was one of indignation. Some of them were inclined to doubt that an unprecedented attempt to steal the speakership would be made but they were told flatly by the better informed ones that such a proposition had been made in all seriousness.

Mutiny Called by Moore.

The result was that when they went into session they wasted little time in making their positions known. The meeting had been called by Edward F. Moore, chairman of the county committee. As soon as he had made an opening statement, Moore anounced that he would withdraw, leaving the members-elect by themselves. Protests against his leaving led to a unanimous request that he remain. He did so.

"At no time," said Moore, "have I doubted the loyalty or sincerity of the Republicans elected to the house of representatives. My only appeal to you is to let every one know—and the eyes of the state and nation are on this meeting today—that you send forth a message in unmistakable terms that you are Republicans and will remain Republicans."

Edward P. Saltiel [31st] started the brief discussion by saying there could be no need for a lot of conversation, that it would be political suicide to throw aside the gains made in the election and that every one present should pledge himself to participate in th party caucus and to vote for the caucus nominees on Jan. 4 when the new assembly convenes.

He and Elmer J. Schnackenberg [13th] then collaborated on the wording of the motion embodying the pledge and the declaration of resentment against the Democratic scheme.

Only One Member Absent.

The only man absent or unrepresented was Arthur T. Broche [1st]. His close friend, Peter C. Granata [17th] said that Broche would have been present and would have voted for the resolution except for a sudden illness. William J. Warfield [5th] was not in the meeting but sent word of his approval of the program directly to Chairman Moore. Mrs. Charles Krutchkoff conveyed his pledge to the meeting.

At the meeting of the city managing committee in the same hotel in the afternoon Chairman Moore told his associates that it was up to them to work out their own mayoralty program, that there would be no attempt to influence them or control them in any way.

NEW LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL WEIGHS TAX MUDDLE AID

May Help Chicago to Solve Delinquencies.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—Aid for Cook county in solving its problem of 390 million dollars in tax delinquencies was promised today by the legislative council. Acting as a steering committee for the general assembly, the newly formed council is meeting here to prepare bills for the regular session starting Jan. 3.

The council voted to send its research staf to Chicago to confer with the citizen's committee on tax collections headed by Graham Aldis. After studying the findings of the citizens' group the staf will lay the facts before the council so that a bill may be drawn.

Edward J. McCabe, chief deputy assessor from Cook county, said the bill will probably attempt to make more effective the law providing for foreclosures in cases of unpaid taxes. McCabe, as a Democratic state representative, was one of the council members attending the meeting.

Experiment in Efficiency.

The council is an experiment intended to make the legislature more efficient. By having factual evidence on proposed laws digested before the legislature meets, it is hoped to shorten the travail of embryo additions and corrections to the statutes.

T. V. Smith, state senator, university professor, and congressman elect who sponsored the council, flew from Havana, Cuba to be on hand today. He said the plan is bound to be a success, and that it has already proved its usefulness.

Awaiting the council members were seven bulky reports compiled under Dr. Charles M. Kneier, who was drafted from a professorship at the University of Illinois to head the research division. Dr. Kneier appeared to be a man who knew all the answers.

Revenue Act Revisions.

One 106 page document represented Dr. Kneier's recommendations for revising the Illinois revenue act to eliminate errors and inconsistencies which have crept into the law during repeated amendments. This would also aid tax collection officials.

The first bill came out of the council today. It would make it a misdemeanor for any public official in Illinois to employ workers from outside of the state on public construction projects. Exceptions would be made for federally aided projects where federal rules would bar such a restriction.

Discussion was begun on a report concerning legislation for the new Illinois oil fields. This controversial subject was put over until tomorrow. Lieut. Gov. John Stelle said there was no logic in considering any proposal that might reduce the number of private jobs since the council had just commended an effort to protect Illinois workers on public projects.

A proposal that the staf dig into Cook county and Chicago school administration was made today by Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski [D., Chicago], council chairman. A request was also made for reports on changes which would have to be made in Illinois laws to get federal funds for dependent children and the blind.

Would Change Court Districts.

Changes in the boundaries of two Circuit court districts were recommended by the council today. After hearing witnesses tell of waiting as long as four years for cases to be heard, the council decided that two districts should be created out of the 17th district. One would consist of Boone and Winnebago counties and the other Lake and McHenry counties.

Another change urged by the council would transfer Whiteside county from the 14th [Rock Island] to the 15th district in the northwest corner of the state.

The council's aim is to change the district boundaries which were established on the basis of the population in 1890, so that each one will contain between 150,000 and 200,000 persons. Action was deferred on other proposed changes.

BRITAIN OPENS UP COLONIES AS NEW HOMES FOR JEWS

German Refugees Offered Limited Havens.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 21.—The British government's plan for helping Jewish refugees from Germany was disclosed before the house of commons this afternoon by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain. The scheme is limited in scope. Furthermore, the government revealed a tendency to stall until it is seen what other countries—notably the United States—do.

Chamberlain, who referred to the Jews as "involuntary refugees from Germany," said he could promise no more permits for Jews to come to England. He said that empire help in colonies also was limited, but added that some settlements might be established in Tanganyika, Kenya colony, Nyasaland and Northern Rhodesia in Africa, and that colonization possibilities in British Guiana, on the northeast coast of South America, would be investigated.

Palestine Ruled Out.

Palestine, the prime minister declared, could not immediately provide a solution of the refugee problem. Forty per cent of the immigrants entering the Holy Land in the past 12 months, he said, came from Germany.

The British government's plan conveyed the suggestion that while there is plenty of room in developed parts of the colonies for Jewish refugees it was doubtful as to whether Jews would go to these outlying countries where hard labor is required.

Chamberlain refused to be drawn out by questions on what contributions the dominions will make in helping Jewish refugees on the grounds that they are outside the British government's control. He said the British do not intend to risk prejudicing their own interests or those of the populations already existing in colonies, protectorates, and mandated territories to aid the Jews.

Rejects Mass Immigration.

Chamberlain emphasized that although the colonial empire covered a vast territory and is sparsely populated, it would not be capable, for climatic and economic reasons, of absorbing a large number of refugees.

Colonial administrations, he indicated, only would coöperate in any settlement schemes provided they are carried out and financed by "reasonable organizations."

Chamberlain said the governor of Tanganyika, a former German colony, had offered to consider the settlement scheme. The governor, he said, reported that 50,000 acres of land were available there for Jews.

Approved Test Scheme.

The small experimental scheme in Kenya colony, East Africa, devised by Jewish organizations in London, has been approved by the governor there, Chamberlain asserted. He said there is the prospect of some small scale settlement operations in Northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland. At most it appears that these territories will absorb only a few hundred Jewish exiles.

The government, the prime minister said, has invited refugee organizations, with the assistance of British government advisers, to survey British Guiana, where 10,000 square miles of sparsely occupied territory are available. The prime minister, in a reply to questions, admitted that the territory included an area condemned by league of nations investigators three years ago as a place to settle Assyrian refugees.

Chamberlain turned down the idea of letting Jews enter England on the grounds that voluntary aid organizations could not take care of them.

Sir Samuel Hoare, home minister, informed the house of commons that an anti-Jewish movement exists in England. This movement is said to be the real reason for the ban on settling more Jews in England.

"There is an underlying current of suspicion and anxiety about alien immigration," Hoare said. "Below the surface there is the making of a definite anti-Jewish movement."

At the conclusion of a debate, in which Germany's campaign against the Jews was attacked, a motion calling for an international effort—particularly by the United States—to aid the Jews was passed without a vote being taken.

Reichsfuehrer Hitler is reported to be angry over the British attitude. In political circles there even was talk that he is planning to recall Dr. Herbert von Dircksen, Nazi ambassador to London.

Seek $100,000,000 in U. S.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—(AP)—The British government's decision to offer new homelands for refugee German Jews in parts of Africa and British Guiana was reported to have been reached with one understanding. It is that private capital in the United States would raise $100,000,000 to help the Jews reach, settle, and lease their new homes.

[Rabbi Edward L. Israel of Baltimore, national vice chairman of the united Palestine appeal, called on American Jewry to assess itself a "voluntary fine" of $100,000,000 for rehabilitation of Jewish refugees.]

The refugee plan was originally drafted by Joseph P. Kennedy, United States ambassador to London.

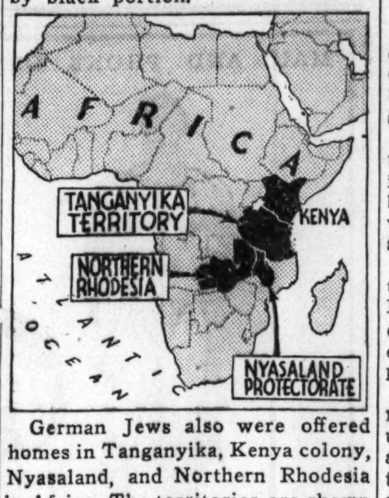
Britain accepted the plan in defiance of warnings in the controled German press that settlement of German Jews in Tanganyika, which was German East Africa before the war, would be considered "a transparent maneuver" to dodge Germany's colonial demands.

Ambassador Kennedy was jubilant over the attitude and action of Britain. The first job, he said, "was to find places to put the Jews. Now we will see how sorry the world is for them. It's a case of getting money now."

Haven for Jews

(Story in adjoining column.)

Britain yesterday offered to settle German Jewish refugees in British Guiana on the northeastern coast of South America as shown by black portion.



German Jews also were offered homes in Tanganyika, Kenya colony, Nyasaland, and Northern Rhodesia in Africa. The territories are shown in black. Germany was angry because Britain had opened up Tanganyika, a former German colony, to the Jews.

JEWS FACE LOSS OF REAL ESTATE IN GERMAN 'FINE'

Nazis May Seize Property to Get $400,000,000.

BERLIN, Nov. 21.—(AP)—The German government controled press today began a new campaign against Jews. It urged that Jewish real estate be confiscated "in case cash and other objects of value owned by Jews are not sufficient" to meet the $400,000,000 penalty levied for the assassination in Paris of Ernst von Rath, German diplomat, by a Polish Jew.

This was construed as an indirect admission that figures on Jewish wealth—placed at $3,200,000,000 by Propaganda Minister Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels—may be inflated.

To Separate Jews and Gentiles.

Dienst aus Deutschland asserted a decree soon would be issued whereby Gentiles and Jews no longer would be permitted to live in the same apartment building.

Adolf Hitler's Voelkischer Beobachter was even more emphatic, declaring: "The solution of this problem brooks no delay, for otherwise clashes with German tenants become inevitable."

The newspaper was supported by the president of the National Real Estate Federation who published a demand for "restoring German real estate completely to the German people."

The newspaper Nachtausgabe estimated 3,767 Jewish retail stores fell under the anti-Semitic ban in Berlin alone. According to official intimations, two-thirds of these will not reopen even under "Aryan" managements, but must be liquidated altogether.

May Summon Reichstag.

The remaining one-third is available almost for a song. Only the actual value of goods on hand must be paid for and items such as office furnishings and equipment will be thrown in gratis.

Both Germans and Jews were amazed at the British plan for Jewish refugees to settle on former German colonial soil—a project to which Germany is strongly opposed.

There was even talk that Hitler would summon the reichstag quickly to protest impressively against allotting former German territory to Jews.

Jewish leaders acclaimed as "wonderful" Prime Minister Chamberlain's statement in London which opened up the prospect of Jewish havens in British Guiana and Africa, including Tanganyika, the former German East African colony.

But, like the Germans, their attention quickly was focused on the problem of German opposition to their settlement on soil which Germany lost in the world war and insists she must have again.

"Won't Hitler be so enraged about Tanganyika that he won't let any Jew out of Germany?" one leader asked.

Another said the Nazis already had informed German Jewry that Hitler would not permit any Jews with visas to emigrate to Tanganyika or any other former German colonial possession to leave Germany.

"This problem means new persecution to start with," one Jewish leader said.

FORMER PREMIER OF BELGIUM SEES WORLD CONFUSED

The present period in world history is a confused one, Paul Van Zeeland, former premier of Belgium, told an audience in Orchestra hall last night. He spoke under the auspices of Northwestern university.

Mr. Van Zeeland said that the "old order of Versailles is gone," the league of nations is valueless except in minor fields, and the net result of world conferences has been inaction, plus confusion.

Americans know more about Europe than Europeans do, Mr. Van Zeeland said. This is due to the American press, radio, and other means of public education, he added.

BOOST TAVERN LICENSE COST.

A boost of $150 in liquor licenses was voted by the Des Plaines city council last night. Mayor Hobart M. Abbe voted to break a 5 to 5 tie. The present licenses cost $350.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or chew poorly—your stomach pours out too much fluid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over.

Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-ans for Indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in 5 minutes and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for Indigestion.

GERMANY FIGHTS MAGYAR PLAN TO SEIZE RUTHENIA

Stay Out of Czech Area, Hungary Warned.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 21.—Two bones of contention remain in central Europe. The first involves Ruthenia [sub-Carpathian Russia], autonomous state on the eastern tip of Czechoslovakia, where disorders and agitation have been going on for weeks.

Poland and Hungary want to wrest this strip of land from the dwindled Czechoslovak republic. Germany has declared this will not be tolerated. She has just signed an agreement with Czechoslovakia permitting her to direct the construction of roads through this region in compliance with her strategic ambitions.

Berlin Annoyed by Duce.

Berlin believes that Premier Mussolini of Italy is showing altogether too much sympathy for Hungary's desire to annex Ruthenia. Budapest and Warsaw have been warned by the Nazis that they will not permit them to change the Czechoslovak-Hungarian borderline. Germany and Italy fixed at the Vienna arbitration conference. Poland is supporting Hungary's campaign to annex Ruthenia because it would give the two nations a common frontier.

The Ruthenian government has offered rewards for the capture of Hungarian soldiers on its soil—a striking development in view of the decision which the Germans and Italians boasted would fix central European frontiers for all time.

The second bone of contention involves the weapons and equipment of the Czechoslovak army which, according to German standards, are excellent. Germany would like to buy part of the Prague government's military equipment.

The French and British oppose the sale of the arms at low prices. There are, for instance 40,000 new light machineguns. They were ordered by China but remained in Czechoslovakia. They are Bren machine guns and were built according to an English Enfield license to an arms factory in Brunn. Political circles are wondering if Britain will let Germany get hold of these guns at bargain prices.

Believe Nazis Will Get Guns.

In Berlin and Prague it is believed that neither France nor England will have anything to say about it and that Germany will get what she wants.

Meanwhile the final seal was placed on the agreement depriving Czechslovakia of the territories claimed by Germany. The boundry was fixed here by the international commission set up by the Munich agreement of Sept. 30. Czechoslovakia lost 106 more villages and 60,000 inhabitants to Germany. German forces will occupy the new areas Thursday, while the Czech army on the same day will occupy 27 small communes exchanged for the territory given to Germany in the "border rectification." The commission was composed of representatives of Germany, Italy, Britain, France, and Czechoslovakia.

Hitler Awaits Carol.

Reichsfuehrer Hitler is looking forward to the visit of King Carol of Rumania. Without an understanding with Carol, the Nazis maintain it is impossible to "guarantee the economic stability Germany is striving for."

The Nazis are offering prices above the world market level to lure Rumanian economists into signing an economic four year pact with Berlin.

"If Rumania fails to come to terms with Germany," Nazis leaders said, "the Iron Guard in Rumania is bound to revolt because only through economic coöperation with Germany can Rumania avoid difficulties."

The pro-Nazi Iron Guard, whose leaders have been arrested and jailed, is still as active as ever in Rumania.

2,000 AMERICANS BELIEVED KILLED IN SPANISH WAR

BARCELONA, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Reliable sources estimated today that 2,000 Americans had been killed fighting for the government in the Spanish civil war. Estimates of the number of Americans who entered government Spain from about December, 1936, until last spring varied from 3,000 to 6,500.

Between 650 to 750 Americans still are enlisted. American authorities already have listed 400 for demobilization and repatriation and from 200 to 300 more are expected to be listed this week.

Before demobilization at their camps, the men then must be checked by members of a league of nations commission and the actual date for their going home set by Spanish authorities.

SERBIAN REGENT JOINS IN BALKAN TREK TO LONDON

Fourth Ruler to Discuss Aims with British.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Prince Paul, regent of Jugo-Slavia, arrived today in London, the fourth Balkan ruler to come in recent weeks for important discussions with British government leaders. He was accompanied by his wife, Princess Olga.

Informed observers saw in the visit another step in Britain's efforts to strengthen her influence in the Balkan states, threatened with German economic and political domination.

Although the Jugo-Slav regent's vist was described officially as "purely private," informed persons attributed to it at least economic significance. He followed King Carol II. of Rumania, who made a state visit here last week, accompanied by Crown Prince Michael.

Carol Gets a Promise.

An authoritative source disclosed that the Rumanian king obtained an official British promise to "reëxamine" the question of granting his country financial and economic aid, including possible credits for the purchase of airplanes and small type warships.

Prime Minister Chamberlain told the house of commons that his talks with King Carol covered "matters of common concern both in the political and economic fields," but declined to disclose results.

Greece, whose King George II. was in London early this month, would like to obtain credits for rearmament purposes. Observers believed similar aid to Jugo-Slavia might be discussed with Prince Paul.

Miniature British Navy.

Some foresaw the growth of a miniature "British navy" in the near east as a result of the prospective British financing of naval construction by nearly every Balkan country.

France recently granted commercial credits to Bulgaria, whose King Boris III. visited London in September. Last spring Britain extended a credit of $80,000,000 to Turkey.

The Jugo-Slav regent and his consort were met at Victoria station by the duke and duchess of Kent. The duchess is a sister of Princess Olga. They drove to Buckingham palace, where the visitors will stay.

FASCIST EDITOR ASKS WHY U. S. DOES NOT OFFER JEWS A HOME

ROME, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Virginio Gayda, Fascist editor, considered to be Premier Mussolini's spokesman, today asked why the United States and other nations which lament the treatment of Jews in Germany and Italy do not offer them sanctuary.

In the newspaper Giornale D'Italia, Gayda named Britain and her dominions, France, Belgium, the Netherlands, Switzerland, and several latin American countries as well as the United States among those which, he said, had failed to make their compassion for Jews concrete.

"Why, then, are the great democracies unwilling themselves to open their doors and repopulate their territories with Jews for whom they pretend to dedicate so much verbal pity and civilized solidarity?" asked the editor. "Suspicion is growing that all the shouting conceals a vacuum. No one, in short, wants Jews."

Nazis Convict 2 Austrians Who Put Down 1934 Putsch

SALZBURG, Germany, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Two former Austrian army officers were convicted of murder today on the allegation that they were responsible for an order that no prisoners be taken in crushing the Nazi uprising of 1934. Col. Johann Stochal, charged with giving the order, was sentenced to eight years at hard labor. Capt. Josef Rosenkranz, charged with carrying out the order, was sentenced to six years.

FRANCE CRACKS DOWN ON SERIES OF 'SIT' STRIKES

Police Oust Workers from 2 Occupied Plants.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 21.—French police moved swiftly today and crushed two "sitdown" strikes. The quick action reflected the government's determination to set aside the 40 hour week law for the time being and push ahead with its emergency economic program.

The first strike action began with the picketing of the Hutchinson Tire company plant at Puteaux. Four hours later police had cleared the plant of 1,000 workers and police guards replaced the pickets.

The second strike action was by workers in the Saint Gobain Chemical plant near Roubaix who protested the longer work week. Police cleared the plant of 250 workers.

May Shut Parliament.

Meanwhile, a third strike was in progress among 600 workers in an arms factory at Denain, near Valenciennes. A massmeeting of 20,000 metal workers backed the strikers.

The firm handling of the small wave of strikes was said to foreshadow a strong authoritarian plan to be put into effect by Premier Edouard Daladier. This may include dissolution of the chamber of deputies.

Parliament is to meet next month and an expected event is a dispute between government parties and the Socialists and communists over the 1939 budget and the recent decree laws.

Daladier is said to be determined to "go through to the end" to strengthen France's finances.

Await Chamberlain Visit.

Paris was preparing for the visit on Wednesday of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax of Great Britain. It is expected they will discuss with the French improvement of Franco-British relations, the reception of Jewish refugees from Germany, continued coöperation between the military generals stafs of France and Britain, and plans to fight Hitler's demands for return of colonies.

There was a disturbing rumor that Britain has decided it will not train a large army to aid the French on the continent in the event of war.

SLOVAKS DRAFT LAW TO RESTRICT JEWS' ACTIVITIES

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Slovak newspapers tonight said that the autonomous government at Bratislava was preparing "radical anti-Semitic laws" which would eliminate Jews from government services and restrict their business activities.

Large Jewish landholders, the press said, would be dispossessed, no Jew would be permitted to engage in journalism or work as an actor, Jewish doctors would be barred from state employment in any form, and Jewish attorneys would be restricted to Jewish clients.

Other measures in preparation were reported to prohibit Gentiles from dealing with Jewish business men and bankers and to require Jewish places of business to be marked as Jewish.

REBELS RIP HOLE IN NEW LOYALIST FORTIFIED FRONT

HENDAYE, France, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Spanish rebels reported tonight they had opened a breach in the center of a newly fortified government line on the Segre river in northeast Spain.

The government acknowledged the rebels had advanced northwest of Seros in three days of heavy fighting in the sector occupied two weeks ago by government troops. The rebels attack was aimed toward Aytona, about five miles from Seros.

Rebels said their assault waves rolled against a line of trenches hastily dug by government troops after their surprise capture of a foothold on the west Segre shore on Nov. 7. Government dispatches said the rebels had been repulsed with heavy losses everywhere except in the center.

Queen Wilhelmina went to the railway station to greet him. Prince Bernhard, consort of Crown Princess Juliana, met the Belgian party at Rotterdam.

HOLD WISCONSIN DOUBLE TAX ACT CONSTITUTIONAL

Highest Court Rules 5 to 3 for Retroactive Levy.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—Dividing 5 to 3, the United States Supreme court today upheld a provision of the radical La Follette tax program in Wisconsin.

The majority opinion, delivered by Justice Harlan F. Stone, held that a retroactive law enacted by the Wisconsin legislature in 1935, imposing a tax on corporate dividends received in 1933, did not violate the equal protection and due process clauses of the 14th amendment.

Not only was the tax retroactive, but it imposed rates different from those applicable in 1933 to other types of income and did not permit deductions which were allowed in computing the tax on other income.

The tax was levied as an "emergency" measure for unemployment relief purposes under the administration of Gov. Philip F. La Follette, who was repudiated by the voters when he sought a fourth term on Nov. 8.

Justice Roberts Dissents.

A vigorous dissenting opinion by Justice Owen J. Roberts, concurred in by Justices James C. McReynolds and Pierce Butler, denounced the La Follette tax law as evidencing "arbitrary discrimination" in violation of the equal protection guarantee of the constitution.

The "emergency" statute imposed an income tax additional to and separate from the general income tax at a graduated rate on the income of all individuals for the year 1934. Among other things, it was provided that no deduction was to be allowed for corporate dividends, which were deductible under the general law.

Section 6 of the act imposed on corporate dividends received in 1933, which had been deductible under general law, a graduated tax of 1 per cent on the first $2,000 of net dividend income, 3 per cent on the next $3,000, and 7 per cent on all above $5,000. Under this section, which was challenged in the Supreme court, Earle S. Welch paid under protest a tax of $545.71 in May, 1935, and the issue was carried to the courts.

Majority View Set Forth.

"We think that the selection of such income for taxation at rates and with deductions not shown to be unrelated to an equitable distribution of tax burden is not a denial of the equal protection commanded by the fourteenth amendment," said the majority opinion.

"It cannot be doubted that the receipt of dividends from a corporation is an event which may constitutionally be taxed either with or without deductions . . . even though the corporate income which is their source has also been taxed.

"The fact that the dividends of corporations which have to some extent borne the burden of state taxation constitute a distinct class for purposes of tax exemption . . . and that in consequence such dividends have borne no tax burden, is equally a basis for their selection for taxation.

Defends Right to Change.

"Any classification of taxation is permissable which has reasonable relation to a legitimate end of governmental action. Taxation is but the means by which the government distributes the burdens of its cost among those who enjoy the benefits.

"And the distribution of a tax burden by placing it in part on a special class which by reason of the taxing policy of the state has escaped all tax during the taxable period is not a denial of equal protection.

"The equal protection clause does not preclude the legislature from changing its mind in making an otherwise permissable choice of subjects of taxation. The very fact that the dividends were relieved of tax, when the need for revenue was less, is basis for the legislative judgment that they should bear some of the added burden when need is greater."

Raps Emergency Argument.

Justice Roberts' dissenting opinion referred to the argument that an emergency condition made the tax necessary. He said the unemployment relief emergency was no different than if the state had found itself short of funds for the payment of official salaries.

"And it goes without saying that an emergency does not create power but is merely the occasion for the exercise of existing powers in conformity to constitutional opinion," the minority opinion added.

Justice Roberts said the reason for allowing the deduction of dividends received from corporations was plain—to prevent double taxation. Corporations pay an income tax, and if shareholders must pay on their dividends, the same income is taxed twice, he pointed out.

Explains State's Rights.

"It readily may be conceded that Wisconsin is, and always has been, free in the imposition of an income tax, for good and sufficient reason, to treat the recipients of dividends on a basis different from the recipients of other sorts of income," the minority opinion continued. "The state also was free to revoke, alter, and amend the provisions for deductions as its views of fairness and policy might dictate.

"This case presents no such situation. After the taxpayers had returned and paid their tax under the existing system and according to the long established public policy of the state, the state sought additional revenues. Instead of levying an exaction upon the citizens generally or certain classes of citizens, the state went back and sought to tax a small class of income tax payers by reason of the purely arbitrary and adventitious fact that they had been allowed a particular deduction in a past year.

Cites Manner of Imposition.

"The previously granted deduction was not withdrawn but, on the contrary, the income represented by that deduction was picked out from all others, was classified by itself, and taxed in a manner wholly unrelated to the income and the taxes of the recipient of these dividends under the general law under which he had computed and paid his tax.

"The illegal discrimination and the arbitrary character of the act condemn it under the equal protection clause not because it selects a particular class of citizens for the imposition of the tax but because, in doing so, it reaches back and singles out for a new and wholly different sort of income tax those few only to whom a specific deduction was allowed in the general computation for their taxable income for the year 1933."

Justice Black Upset Again.

In another case today the Supreme court confounded the Rosevelt radicals by refusing to reverse itself and subscribe to the economic theories of Justice Hugo L. Black, President Roosevelt's first appointee. Last May 2 the court affirmed—by a vote of 5 to 1, with Black alone dissenting—a decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals holding that the General Talking Pictures corporation and the American Transformer company had infringed patents granted by the so-called patent pool to the Western Electric company and Electrical Research Products, Inc.

A rehearing was sought and obtained and the government intervened as a friend of the court to uphold Justice Black's theories. The case was said to have an important bearing upon the administration's monopoly crusade, the argument being that control of patents fosters undue concentrations of economic power. The radicals freely predicted that the dissenting opinion of Justice Black would force the Supreme court to reverse itself.

Reed Joins in Dissent.

In a 5 to 2 decision, however, the court today reaffirmed its original opinion and the radicals were further rebuffed by the fact that Justice Louis D. Brandeis, of whom they profess approval, delivered the majority opinion. Black again dissented and Justice Stanley F. Reed, President Roosevelt's only other appointee, concurred in the dissent. Justice Reed did not participate in the original case and Justice Roberts eliminated himself on both occasions.

Justice Brandeis' opinion explained that the American Transformer company and about 50 others were granted nonexclusive licenses relating to vacuum tube amplifiers in the private, noncommercial field. They were to manufacture and to sell the products only for radio amateur reception, radio experimental reception, and radio broadcast reception.

Manufacture and Sale Cited.

Knowing that it had not been licensed to manufacture or to sell amplifiers for use in theaters as part of talking picture equipment, the opinion said, the Transformer company made for that commercial use the amplifiers in controversy and sold them to the Pictures corporation. Furthermore, the opinion said, the Pictures corporation ordered the amplifiers and purchased them, "knowing that Transformer company had not been licensed to make or sell them for such use in theaters."

Black's dissenting opinion said that for 100 years, with only one exception which subsequently was overruled, the court has held that when an article described in a patent is sold it is no longer within the limits of the monopoly and the patent owners cannot impose conditions upon its use. To which Justice Brandeis explained that the articles in question were not manufactured and sold under the patents, but in violation of the express terms of the license.

Slaying Trial Opens

Carl Livingston. Isaiah Leebove.

Harrison, Mich., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Thirteen jurors were chosen tentatively today to hear the murder trial of Carl [Jack] Livingston, portly oil field operator accused of killing Isaiah Leebove, wealthy former associate.

A jury of fourteen, including two alternates to be excused upon completion of testimony, will hear evidence in the hotel taproom shooting last May 14 of Leebove, the former "mystery man" in Michigan politics and one time New York criminal lawyer.

Leebove, friend of former Gov. William A. Comstock and who extracted a fortune from Michigan's oil fields, was shot while he sat with friends in a Clare hotel taproom.

KILLED BY TRACTOR.

Decatur, Ill., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—William Poffenbarger, 67 years old of Mount Pulaski, died today en route to a hospital here after he had been crushed beneath the wheels of a tractor he was using while plowing.

SUPREME COURT TESTS RIGHT TO FIRE SITDOWNER

Accepts Fansteel Strike Case for Review.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—The United States Supreme court today agreed to review the case of the National Labor Relations board against the Fansteel Metallurgical corporation of North Chicago, involving a sitdown strike. In this case the court will determine for the first time whether the labor board may compel reinstatement with back pay of employés discharged for engaging in a sitdown strike that admittedly was illegal.

The labor board requested the Supreme court to review the case after the Seventh United States Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago had set aside a board order which found the Fansteel company guilty of unfair labor practices and ordered it to reinstate 92 men who were discharged during the sitdown strike of February, 1937. The board also ordered the company to recognize the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, a C. I. O. affiliate, as the sole and exclusive bargaining agency of all employés.

Court Order Defied.

The strikers seized two key buildings of the North Chicago plant and refused to come out when ordered to do so. They defied a court order to vacate. In enforcing the order, deputies finally used tear gas to evict them. The company discharged the sitdown strikers. Thirty-seven of them were convicted of contempt by the Lake county Circuit court and sentenced to terms of 10 to 180 days. The Illinois Supreme court refused to review the conviction.

The opinion of the Circuit Court of Appeals at Chicago said there was no denial by the board that the company had ample cause to discharge the sitdown strikers.

"Indeed, in the argument before this court, the board admitted that the men in conducting a sitdown strike and resisting the officers 'did a foolish and illegal act,' " the court's opinion said. "Certainly it cannot be denied that an employer is waranted in discharging his employés when they take and retain exclusive possession of his property against his will."

Points to Law Violation.

The opinion said the sitdown strikers "violated the law which they now seek to enforce against the petitioner."

In appealing the case to the Supreme court, the labor board contended that the Fansteel company brought the sitdown strike upon itself by refusing to bargain collectively with the C. I. O. union members.

"If employé misconduct terminates their status as employés and exempts employers from their duties to refrain from coercing employés and to bargain collectively with their representatives, and prevents the board from issuing remedial orders to correct unfair labor practices, a large field in which the board's activities are of vital importance are put beyond the powers intended to be conferred on the board by congress," said the board's petition.

Fashionably thin girls may worry over this, but plump ones will doubtless smile. Mrs. Rita Usatuck of 5514 Schubert street told Judge Philip J. She's 19 years old, and weighs 114 pounds.

FIND 2 SUICIDE NOTES IN AUTO; HUNT CHICAGOAN

Rockford police yesterday sought Joseph Taluc, 2328 Thomas street, Chicago, after two apparent suicide notes were found in the abandoned car. One note said: "I am going swimming. So long." The other, addressed to "Dearest Betty," said "I don't know what to do at a time like this. I know I've done many wrong things. Please forgive me." His mother, Mrs. Josephine Taluc, said her son worked for the Commonwealth Edison company and that he and his wife, Betty, were estranged. She said Taluc was on his way to Roscoe, Winnebago county, to visit his three year old son. Taluc is 28.

JURY TO RESUME PENN GRAFT QUIZ IN TWO WEEKS

Gov. Earle and 13 More Democrats Accused.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—Judge Paul N. Schaffer, assigned by the Pennsylvania Supreme court to handle all questions pertaining to charges of corruption in the administration of Gov. George H. Earle, today ordered a grand jury investigation to get under way on Dec. 5.

Judge Paul Schaffer.

The action came after the judge had waited what he termed a reasonable time for Guy K. Bard, Earle's attorney general, to make a fourth appeal to the Supreme court.

Bard had demanded that District Attorney Carl B. Shelley of Dauphin county, a Republican, be removed on the grounds that he was actuated by political motives, Judge Schaffer, a Democrat, denied this motion two weeks ago. His order for the grand jury inquiry may be halted by a new appeal on the part of the attorney general within the next three months, according to Supreme court procedure.

September Jury Recalled.

Sherif W. W. Caldwell of Dauphin county, the seat of which is here in Harrisburg, was directed to summon all members of the September grand jury to convene on Dec. 5 when the judge will submit his instructions for the investigation. This grand jury can return indictments up to the middle of January.

An abandoned bank and an apartment house have been rented for the inquiry. District Attorney Shelley said he had a special staf of twenty-four persons already at work tabulating and preparing the evidence at hand and expected to increase the number of investigators to seventy-five.

Gov. Earle, who was defeated for the senate in the recent election, heads the list of fourteen Democratic leaders and cabinet officials listed in the charges. The revelation of scandals in the Earle administration was of the Democrats' own making since the accusations first were made by rival factions in the primary campaign.

Richer By Millions.

A petition filed with the Supreme court by Shelley accuses the fourteen of "a system of crime involving conspiracy, bribery, extortion, corrupt solicitation, blackmail, misfeasance, malfeasance, nonfeasance, and misdemeanors in office." It is charged that the Earle crowd enriched themselves by several millions of dollars in graft during the four years of their régime.

Senator Joseph F. Guffey, who backed an unsuccessful slate of candidates with the C. I. O. during the primary and fought Earle, is not among the formally accused because he is a federal official and not a civil officer of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania. His name has been mentioned frequently in connection with the disclosures, however.

Meanwhile, the special legislative committee consisting of five Democrat and two Republican members of the house were preparing to hear Gov. Earle tell his story. The governor has admitted he borrowed $26,500 from Matthew H. McCloskey Jr., Philadelphia contractor who received 10 million dollars worth of public works contracts. The contracts were awarded by the state general authority headed by Earle.

The committee today listened to a categorical denial of the charges by David L. Lawrence, state chairman of the Democratic party and boss of the Allegheny county [Pittsburgh] machine. Earle is expected to follow Lawrence.

The grand jury investigation was halted for six months by a series of legal and legislative maneuvers. Gov. Earle called the special session of the legislature last summer and created the legislative committee packed with Democrats for the purpose of beating the grand jury to the investigation.

JAIL FORMER CLERK OF PIKE COUNTY ON 5 EMBEZZLEMENT COUNTS

Pittsfield, Ill., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Fred E. Sitton, former circuit clerk and recorder of Pike county, was held in jail today to answer to five indictments charging embezzlement and failure to turn over funds.

Sitton was removed from office by the circuit court July 25, when shortages of $7,000 in his accounts were shown by audits of his books. The grand jury returned five indictments against him on Nov. 15.

Today he appeared with his attorney in circuit court, where Judge A. Clay Williams fixed his bond at $6,500, which Sitton did not post.

LIVE STOCK SHOW WILL BRING BEST ANIMALS TO CITY

11,121 Head in Competition Starting Saturday.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Trains and trucks loaded with prize winning animals from state, provincial and regional shows in the United States and Canada are rolling toward Chicago. The stock will compete in the 1938 International Live Stock exposition, opening at the Union Stockyards Saturday. The first shipments of show cattle, hogs, sheep and horses are expected to arrive today.

Final tabulations show that 11,121 animals have been entered in the various competitions, B. H. Heide, general manager of the show announced yesterday. This excludes 500 horses entered in the light horse show. Nearly a third of the number to be exhibited are pure-breds in the breeding classes.

Strike Won't Interfere.

The animals will be placed in stalls in the International amphitheater and nearby pens of the yards used in handling the regular shipments to the Chicago market.

A strike among live stock handlers employed by the Union Stock Yards and Transit company will not interfere with the unloading of the show animals. This advice to farmers and ranchmen en route to Chicago with show animals was sent out last night by O. T. Henkle, vice president and general manager of the stockyards company. He said the animals would be unloaded promptly and taken to comfortable buildings and pens to be bedded, watered, and fed.

British Authority on Way.

Heide received word yesterday that William J. Cumber, the British authority who will award the grand champion beef animal prize, has reached New York. Judge Cumber is from Theale, Berkshire, England. He plans to arrive in Chicago for Thanksgiving day.

Heide's records show that breeders have entered 3,584 purebred breeding cattle, hogs, sheep, and draft horses. Of this total there are 1,331 cattle, 989 sheep, 758 hogs, and 506 draft horses.

In the carlot section 303 carloads of cattle, 36 carloads of hogs, and 27 carloads of lambs will be shown. There will be 3,615 head of fat cattle and 1,240 head of feeder cattle in the carlot contests. Feeders have entered 900 hogs and 1,350 lambs in the carlot section.

Herefords Dominate.

Herefords dominate the fat cattle and feeder divisions. Seventy-seven stockmen have entered 166 carloads of the whitefaces. Angus rank next with 54 carloads from 31 farmers. There are 21 carloads of shorthorns entered by eight exhibitors.

Thirty states and three Canadian provinces—Ontario, Quebec, and Alberta—are represented in the competitions. The feeder cattle come chiefly from Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, Washington, Nebraska, and Texas.

The thirty-six carloads of hogs come from Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, and Wisconsin. The 27 carloads of lambs come from Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Colorado, Michigan, Minnesota, and Ontario.

In the twentieth annual hay and grain show, held in conjunction with the exposition, thirty-three states and six Canadian provinces are represented in the various contests. Forty-one countries will participate in the wheat and corn education exhibits of the show. Grain growers in each of the forty-eight states in this country are represented.

The United States department of agriculture is sending fifteen sections of new ephibit material to the International. Federal scientists will depict in simple, popular form the latest live stock findings and recommendations of the government. One feature of the exhibit will be fourteen kinds of silage made from grasses and legumes.

Coming to Chicago

MARCELLA GREICIUS.

Kewanee, Ill., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—Marcella Greicius, 18, was crowned queen of the Tri-Counties District Corn show and will attend the International Live Stock show at Chicago, Nov. 30, as special guest of the Saddle and Sirloin club. The trip is arranged by the Kewanee Chamber of Commerce. She will be accompanied by Ellen Rule of Neponset and Helen Richter of Anawan as princesses of the corn show.

DOCTOR'S HORSES TO BE EXHIBITED BY HIS 7 CHILDREN

The five daughters and two sons of Dr. Walter G. McGuire, 4822 Ellis avenue, will participate in the horse show at the International Live Stock exposition next Saturday evening in the International amphitheater. They will exhibit prize horses owned by the physician. The daughters are Patricia, 12; Julia, 14; Josephine, 16; Frances, 17, and Mary Elizabeth, 19. The two sons are Walter Jr., 11, and John, 20.

Second Man Surrenders in Filling Station Murder

The Warren avenue police are holding Joseph Lumino, 24 years old, 2455 Lexington street, as a suspect in the killing of John T. Parker, 57 years old. Parker was slain about a year ago in a holdup of a filling station at 523 South Oakley avenue. Lumino was named as an accomplice by Jack Moro, 20 years old, 3149 Princeton avenue, who confessed his share in the crime last Tuesday. Lumino surrendered to the police.

HANDLERS REBEL AGAINST STRIKE AT STOCKYARDS

filiate of the American Federation of Labor.

"We are willing to man the yards with our members in the morning," said Thomas Devero, business agent. "We have a majority of the men now employed in the yards. All we ask is that policemen stay out of the pens. We don't want to work under police guard and we will furnish our own protection. We have the right to work and we'll do it."

Normally the yards employ about 600 handlers, who unload railroad cars and trucks, drive the animals to pens, feed and care for them and weigh them as they pass to the packing houses. There has been a strong rivalry for union control between the Committee for Industrial organization and the A. F. of L.

Report Members' Shift.

Last summer an election to determine a bargaining agent was held. Of 560 votes cast, 281 were for the C. I. O. leadership. For the Live Stock Handlers Benevolent association, a local group, there were 263 votes. The rest of the ballots were spoils. Recently, it was said, the Benevolent men swung over to the A. F. of L. So did a few of the C. I. O. group. The latter although officially the only bargaining agent, may have less than half the total of the workers.

Live stock shippers in the middle west were notified yesterday not to send any more animals in. Some live stock, however, was on the way and will arrive today. It was said that if the strike continues in full force, the commission men will have to expand their duties and drive cattle and hogs as well as feed them.

Packing House Work Goes On.

The yards tieup will not result in the shutting down of operations in the packing houses. They have large supplies shipped to them from the rural areas direct. These animals do not pass through the stockyards at all. The yards are operated as a unit and the packers do not own them. From the standpoint of buyers and sellers of live stock, they are simply a convenient place for bargaining.

No danger of a meat shortage exists, it was said. In addition to the direct shipments of meat on the hoof, large packing companies can divert dressed meat from their plants in various cities, so the wholesale meat trade may be supplied.

Most inconvenienced by the shutdown are the commission men and the farmers. The former get no commissions and the farmers lose markets and their most dependable source of quotations.

The last strike of handlers was in 1934. It lasted twelve days. In that strike, however, no objections were made to the clearing of the pens at the start. The company officials said yesterday that no notice of intention to strike was given this time.

Large details of police were kept in and near the yards yesterday, but there were no disorders. The A. F. of L. forces made no attempt to work and are to decide on a course of action at a meeting this morning.

Stricken in School Pool, High School Boy, 14, Dies

Kenneth Schimpf, 14 years old, 327 Webb street, Calumet City, died yesterday while swimming in the pool at the Thornton Township High school in Calumet City. Peter Stastiak, 18 years old, 589 Price street, Calumet City, saw Kenneth flounder and pulled him from the pool. Efforts to revive him failed.

MOTHER OF TWO DENIED SHARE OF FERNEKES ESTATE

Mrs. Jennie Hausner, avowed ex-wife of the late Henry [Midget] Fernekes, yesterday lost a court battle to claim a share of an estate for the two sons she says she bore the gangster.

The estate, valued at between $10,000 and $25,000, was left by the Rev. Harris Darche of Kankakee. He was an uncle of Fernekes. Judge John F. O'Connell of the Probate court ruled that Mrs. Hausner had no proof of her marriage to Fernekes. Hence, the judge said, the sons could not inherit Fernekes' share of the estate. The sons are Donald Darche, 18 years old, and Robert Darche, 15.

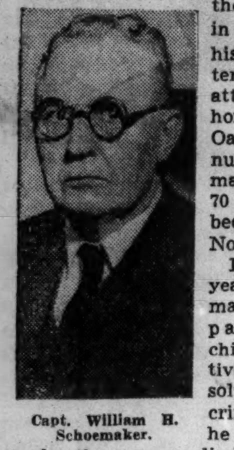
'SHOES,' FORMER CHIEF OF CHICAGO DETECTIVES, DIES

Capt. W. H. Schoemaker on Force 33 Years.

Capt. William H. Schoemaker, whose career as a law enforcer was one of the most colorful in Chicago police history, died yesterday of a heart attack at his home, 6237 North Oak Park avenue. Capt. Schoemaker, who was 70 years old, had been ill since Nov. 9.



Capt. William H. Schoemaker.

During his 33 years as a policeman he rose from patrolman to chief of detectives. He helped solve many major crimes. In 1936 he was retired under the new age limit law. At the time of his death he was an investigator in the office of the state supervisor of paroles.

Member of Pioneer Family.

Capt. Schoemaker was born in Chicago. His grandfather, Conraad, operated a ferry at Dearborn street during the 1840s. His father was decorated for bravery in the civil war after losing a leg in action. The family home was near Madison and Dearborn streets, the present site of the Boston store.

The captain's first job was that of printer's devil on the Chicago Daily News. Later he joined the circulation department of THE TRIBUNE.

When Schoemaker decided to join the police force in 1903, his application was accompanied by a recommendation signed by a former managing editor of THE TRIBUNE. Schoemaker had been on the force only a short time when he was cited for bravery. During his career he was cited twenty-three times. Three times he received extra pay for meritorious service.

Named Sergeant in 1911.

He became a sergeant in 1911. In 1916 he was made a lieutenant. Promotion to a captaincy followed nine years later, but meanwhile, in 1924, he had been named chief of detectives, a post he held until 1927.

In 1931 Capt. Schoemaker was reappointed chief under the Cermak administration and served until ill health forced him to retire in 1934. After recuperating he was put in charge of the Marquette station, the last post he held as a Chicago policeman.

One of his outstanding feats was the arrest almost single handed of four of the Rondout mail robbers in 1924. From these men he obtained confessions that led to the arrest of others in the gang. The first four offered the captain a bribe of $25,000 which he accepted, then made the arrests and turned the money over to the government. The "bribe" was part of the million dollar loot.

Helps Solve Mail Robbery.

Capt. Schoemaker also distinguished himself by his brilliant work in solving the Evergreen park mail robbery of Charles [Limpy] Cleaver fame.

Schoemaker inspired both fear and admiration among gangsters. They liked him because they knew he was honest and a square dealer. Once when he was lying ill in a west side hospital he looked up to find two notorious hoodlums—killers both—standing at the foot of his bed.

"I though my time had come," he said later. "But they said, 'We are sorry you're sick, Chief, and thought we'd come in and say howdy.' Then they sat down and chatted for a while and the next day they sent me some flowers."

Capt. Schoemaker was affectionately known as "Shoes" to his comrades in the department and to newspaper men. He as a favorite of the latter because he never was known to trick or mislead them. Many times he refused to give out information, but he was always square when he did talk.

100 Per Cent Policeman.

His superiors called him "the 100 per cent policeman." His knowledge of human nature helped him achieve this reputation. This knowledge once enabled him to solve a murder.

A sullen young suspect was taken to the detective bureau and the chief looked him over. He had the youth locked up several hours then sent for him.

"Hungry?" asked Schoemaker. "What do you like best?"

"Roast duck," was the reply.

"Fine," said the chief, "I like it, too. Let's go get some."

At a nearby café Schoemaker ordered roast duck and all the trimmings. They ate. Then Schoemaker said:

"Well, son, what about it? Don't you want to tell me what you know?"

"All right, chief," the youth agreed. "I was with the gang that shot the guy."

Funeral Services Tomorrow.

Capt. Schoemaker is survived by his widow, Anna Margaret; a daughter, Estelle, and son, William, a patrolman assigned to the confidence game detail. The funeral will be held at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow from the chapel at 6754 Northwest highway to St. Thecla church.

3 EX-CONVICTS HELD FOR QUIZ ON 50 HOLDUPS

Three ex-convicts were held last night by the Shakespeare avenue police as suspects in more than 50 recent holdups. Two of them will also be questioned about the murder of Policeman John A. Olson, who was shot to death Oct. 20 at Harding and North avenues while guarding a $2,000 pay roll.

The three held are Raymond Walden, 26 years old, 2336 Washington boulevard, and Arthur W. Pauly, 29, of 2147 Washington boulevard, who will be questioned in the Olson killing, and Barney Fredricksen, 34, of 1453 North Artesian avenue. Pauly and Fredricksen were released from Joliet penitentiary last June and Walden was freed two years ago.

Earlier in the day three other men were released after they had been in custody for questioning about the Olson murder. They were Jerry Catenazzo, 28 years old, 1340 Erie street; Michael Catenazzo of 515 North Wood street, and Rudolph Stefanick, 21, of 1746 Grand avenue. Jerry Catenazzo charged that he had been beaten by police.

Mrs. Roosevelt Adds Porto Rico Garments to Wardrobe

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Forty-one handmade garments, the work of Porto Rico's government sponsored Coöperatives Handcrafts, Inc., were en route today to the White House for Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. The shipment, due to reach Mrs. Roosevelt this week, included slips and nightgowns in color schemes of white, opaline, and tearose. The order was placed by Mrs. Roosevelt for her 1939 wardrobe and represented a cost of "several hundred dollars."

JEALOUS GIRL, 17, KILLS SELF WITH SUITOR'S PISTOL

Suicide Follows Quarrel Over His Wife.

Despondent after a quarrel with her married sweetheart, Virginia Bowman, 17 years old, shot herself to death with his revolver yesterday in her home at 2021 North Spaulding avenue. The man, Loren Earl Boudreau, 20 years old, was a boarder in the apartment, but was not present at the time of the shooting.

Boudreau told Shakespeare avenue police that Miss Bowman, an attractive brunette, was jealous of his wife, Mary, from whom he has been separated for a year. Yesterday morning, he said, he was writing a letter to his cousin, Mildred Boudreau, at Michigan City, Ind., when Virginia drew out a letter she had received.

Quarrel Over Letter.

"I asked her if it was from one of her other boy friends," Boudreau said. "She said it wasn't. She asked me if I wanted to read it. I didn't. Then she accused me of writing to my wife. 'I don't know why you doubt me,' she said, 'when you want to go back to your wife. You don't love me any more.' I told her my letter was only to a cousin. She left the room. So I went out to mail the letter."

Virginia then went into Boudreau's bedroom, took his .32 caliber revolver from a drawer, and shot herself in the right temple. Boudreau's brother, Elmer, 18 years old, was in another room at the time and heard the shot.

He ran into the bedroom and saw the girl lying on the floor. He hurried to the street and encountered Loren and Virginia's brother, Edward, 19 years old, who were just returning to the house. All three rushed to the bedroom, carried the girl to Elmer's car, and took her to the office of Dr. Joseph A. Roth, 3700 Armitage avenue, where she was pronounced dead.

Girl's Parents Separated.

Virginia's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Bowman, are separated and the girl had been keeping house for her mother and brother. Mrs. Bowman is employed as a housekeeper on the northwest side and only comes home on Thursdays and Saturdays. Informed of her daughter's suicide, she fainted.

Loren Boudreau, who is employed by the Continental Can company, said he met Virginia six months ago at a dance hall and had roomed at the Bowman home since then. He was held for further questioning.

Boudreau's wife lives with her father, Earl J. Long, at 2641 Oak street, Franklin Park. She told the police that Miss Bowman had no reason to be jealous of her. She said she planned to divorce her husband.

HARD WRITING—EASY READING

By CALEB

CLASSICS NEVER arrive by accident, or in haste. Samuel Butler was twelve years writing "The Way of All Flesh." Thomas Gray spent seven on his "Elegy in a Country Churchyard." Three years went into "Anthony Adverse"; ten into "Gone With the Wind."

Stevenson's first "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" vanished in the fire. It was his second version which appeared in print. His letters tell endlessly of the omitting and rewriting which, unrevealed to the public, brought him the laurels of his final fame. Chateaubriand rewrote his "Atala" seventeen times; the opening chapter of "Mutiny on the Bounty" was its twentieth writing; the author of the "Sentimental Journey" filled two hundred quires of paper to produce one small book.

In despair, Conrad wrote to his editor that, since the eleventh of the month, "I have written one page. Just one page. . . . To be able to think, and unable to express, is a fine torture." (This from a master of English prose!) And no less a genius than Anatole France insisted that when he had written a passage six times it could still have been someone's else—but that the seventh rendering was Anatole France.

"Only hard writing," in the words of that consummate stylist, C. E. Montague, "makes easy reading." And why not? Language is so plastic, words so elusive and innumerable, that your true writer finds he cannot, dare not, play with them and expect, ever, to deliver good work.

Much writing, of course, has no end but the ephemeral. Newspaper writing is frankly journalism, not literature. It is for the day only: this day. Similarly, columns, songs, newsservices, editorials, sales bulletins, advertisements—being of the hour, the moment, are usually so written. But when you dip into a "War and Peace," a "Les Miserables," or an "In Memoriam," you find the fruits of long labor spent on beauty, drama, truth, that are to be long remembered. Long-time writing wrought to become lifetime reading.

This, and a host of ideas akin to it, came to me this morning as I browsed through our book department, one of the largest in the world. And I suddenly thought, too, of all the authors, living and dead, little or great, famed or forgotten, whose best moments and finest thinking were here available to any reader for a few dollars' possession-fee!

Is there, in all the world, any institution outside our great libraries, where one can enter so quickly, or linger so ennoblingly, among the company of the immortals?

COLDEST WAVE OF SEASON DUE; SNOW PROBABLE

Mercury Expected to Drop to 20 Degree Low.

Don't get too far away from your overcoats today. The mercury is expected to dive to a season's low of 20 degrees by tonight, according to Forecaster C. A. Donnel. The previous low for this fall was 29 degrees on Nov. 14.

To add to the wintry touch, there is about an even chance that snow will fall some time today. Snow fell yesterday in northern Michigan, northern Minnesota, South Dakota and eastern North Dakota.

Hits Zero In Many Places.

Thermometers read eight above zero at Devil's Lake, N. D., 6 above in Montana; 12 above in Cheyenne, Wyo., and 14 above in Pierre, S. D. In the western part of Canada, Donnel said, it was zero in many places.

Yesterday's temperatures in Illinois were from 42 to 60 degrees. In Wisconsin the mercury varied from 24 up. Thermometers in Wisconsin are expected to reach an even lower level than those in Illinois by tonight.

Raise Storm Warnings.

Storm warnings were displayed for all Lake Michigan shipping yesterday afternoon in preparation for an expected 30 mile an hour wind from the northeast. A similar warning had been issued earlier for the upper reaches of the lake above Milwaukee, Wis., and Ludington, Mich.

The cold wave which will ride in today on a northwest wind, is expected to weaken its grip by the end of the week, Donnel said. The wind yesterday was from the south and southwest and the mercury rose from 44 degrees at midnight to 61 in the early afternoon.

4 STOP LIGHT BANDITS ROB JEWEL SALESMAN OF $8,000 GEMS, AUTO

Roy Jovien, a jewelry salesman, yesterday was robbed of $8,000 in gems and his automobile. Four bandits jumped into his car when he stopped for a trafic light at Albany and Ogden avenues. Two of the men drew guns and forced Jovien to enter their automobile which was waiting nearby. One of the gunmen then drove away in Jovien's car while the other bandits took his jewel cases and pushed him from their automobile at Washtenaw and Ogden avenues. Jovien, who lives at 1929 South Wesley avenue, Berwyn, is employed by the Emil Braude Jewelry company, 29 East Madison street.

PICK JURY TO TRY BOOKIE BANDIT IN FATAL HOLDUP

A jury qualified to inflict the death penalty was being selected yesterday before Judge Robert Jerome Dunne in the Criminal court to try Charles Lane, 30 years old, on a charge of murder. Lane and William Wright, 24 years old, were charged in connection with the robbery on Sept. 22 of a handbook at 3633 North Halsted street, during which the manager, a woman customer, and a robber were slain.

When court opened yesterday, Wright waived a jury trial and his case was put on call for later. The men are charged specifically with the murder of John Bozula, the manager. The others slain were Mrs. Lucille Budassi, 18 years old, of 622 Patterson avenue, and James Duval, alias James Gilfoy, one of the robbers.

PRESIDENT BACK IN WARM SPRINGS TO REST 2 WEEKS

Plans Conferences on Problems.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt was back in his second home tonight for a two weeks' sojourn. While here he will consider his legislative program in the light of Democratic setbacks in congress at the Nov. 8 election.

Mr. Roosevelt came to the Little White House on Pine mountain, the heart of the infantile paralysis resort he founded, from Chattanooga, Tenn. He had paused there for a sentimental journey to civil war battlefields in the area and a brief inspection of Chickamauga dam, one of the links in the Tennessee Valley authority, his administration's great experiment in state socialism.

Welcomed by Residents.

At the station in Warm Springs the President was greeted by residents of the community, who have known him since he came to swim in the medicinal waters sixteen years ago.

On his way to his cottage he halted briefly at Georgia hall, the administration building of the foundation, where patients gave him a hearty welcome. He was at the wheel of his own car and turned it from the hall to Pine mountain.

During his stay here he will meet party leaders to consider his legislative program. He will work on a budget message he will send to the 76th congress, consider filling vacant high posts, and meet with Hugh R. Wilson, American ambassador to Berlin, whom he called to discuss what the relations of this country are to be to Germany in view of the latest persecutions of Jews by the Nazi government.

Among the visitors will be former Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan who was defeated for reëlection. It is expected that one of the prize plums of the many vacancies will go to him. Murphy may be nominated for the Supreme court vacancy caused by the death of Justice Benjamin Cardozo or for the cabinet vacancy when Attorney General Homer S. Cummings retires in January. It is expected that he would face a stiff fight for senate confirmation due to his conduct in the sitdown strikes in the automobile plants in 1937.

Murphy might be named solicitor general if Robert H. Jackson, the incumbent, is appointed attorney general. It is possible that he might be returned as high commissioner of the Philippines, a post which he resigned to run for governor. Paul V. McNutt, the present high commissioner has announced he will resign shortly, presumably to press his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for president in 1940.

Mr. Roosevelt retired early to rest after a full day. He arrived in Chattanooga at 9 o'clock in the morning. He left his private car within a few minutes for a motor trip to Chickamauga dam, which is designed to provide a minimum navigation channel of nine feet in the Tennessee river, to control flood waters, and to produce incidental power.

In brief, informal remarks he praised the workers on the TVA project for their "contribution to civilization." He said their work would enable their grandchildren to lead better lives.

From the dam he toured the neighboring battlefields of Chattanooga and Chickamauga. His car moved slowly over the ground on which Bragg defeated Rosecrans to bring the Confederates their only major victory in the west and then to Lookout mountain and Missionary Ridge and other sectors of the battle of Chattanooga where Grant turned the Confederate tide.

NEVER SLEEP ON AN "UPSET STOMACH"

OFTEN NEUTRALIZING EXCESS STOMACH ACIDS CAN MAKE THE WHOLE WORLD SMILE IN THE MORNING

YOU DON'T NEED A DOCTOR to tell you not to eat too much — smoke too much — or drink unwisely. It's the easiest rule to learn — and the easiest one to break.

But by doing one simple thing — you can relieve the effects of over-indulgence — escape "acid indigestion" that can ruin the whole next day.

Here's what you do. It's so easy — and results are amazing.

Just Do This

Take 2 tablespoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water — AT BEDTIME. While you sleep, this wonderful alkalizer will be sweetening your stomach . . . easing the upset-feeling and nausea . . . helping to bring back a "normal" feeling. By morning you feel like a million.

Then — when you wake — take two more tablespoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia with the juice of a whole orange.

Thousands Use This Way

This is a quick, simple and easy way to overcome the bad effects of too much eating, smoking or drinking. Thousands use it.

Try this way. See how clear your head feels next day. Notice the absence of dullness and "depression" due to excess stomach acidity.

You'll be amazed at your feeling of well being.

But — when you buy, make sure you get the Real Article. Never ask for "milk of magnesia" alone — always ask for "Phillips'" Milk of Magnesia — the kind many doctors endorse. Keep a bottle always handy in your home — and "alkalize" excess stomach acidity while you sleep.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—The federal writers' project of the Works Progress administration is dominated by communists, who with the aid of United States officials are inserting soviet propaganda into the literary output of the WPA.

Evidence to this effect was laid today before the Dies committee investigating un-American activities.

Ralph Desola, 29 years old, of New York City, a member of the communist party from 1933 to 1936 and now an employé on the writers' project, testified before the committee. Of approximately 300 men and women employed on the project in New York City, Desola declared, fully 80 per cent belong to the Workers' alliance, which is under communist influence. A number of project supervisors and officials are official members of the communist party, he said, naming more than a dozen whom he knew to have such connections.

Propaganda in Histories.

The writers' project of the WPA puts out a number of publications, the most important of which are the "Guide Books" or histories of various states and localities, setting forth the historical background of sections of the country, together with other information.

Chairman Martin Dies [D., Tex.] interrupted Desola's testimony at one point to comment upon evidence given by government officials at secret hearings of the committee concerning communist propaganda inserted in these "Guide Books."

"The committee has received evidence from government officials, at hearings which were held in executive session to guard the names of the witnesses, concerning communistic phraseology inserted in these books," said Dies.

Class Hatred Stimulated.

"It has been testified by those in a position to know that when material for the New York state guide book was sent to Washington for approval, orders were given here to insert statements tending to stimulate class hatred."

The witness said he did not know of such orders. In the early days of the writers' project, he stated, specific orders were given not to inject the "class angle" into state histories.

"Why were those orders necessary?" Dies asked.

"Because of the known communistic sympathies of the majority of those employed on the project," Desola answered. Asked to be specific, he named the following as members of the communist party whom he encountered at party meetings when he was a member:

Nicholas Wirth, managing editor of the New York city writers' project.

Lou Gody, project supervisor.

Verne D. Ward, project supervisor.

Louella Henkel, project supervisor.

David Rosenberg, project supervisor.

Bernard Conal, field worker.

Communists Direct Strike.

Desola testified that a sitdown strike on the writers' project in New York City in May, 1937, was engineered by communists. The employés set up cots in the headquarters of the project and refused to budge until their demands were answered. Communist agitators wearing red arm bands directed the strike, he said.

The committee also inquired into the activities of the Soviet-American Securities Corporation of New York, which handled the sale in this country of soviet bonds valued at 10 million gold rubles [about $8,500,000]. The former president of the corporation, who gave his name as Robert E. Halpern of New York City, appeared in answer to a subpena, but proved a reluctant witness.

Halpern denied that he was a member of the communist party. He denied that he ever went under the name of "Bob Hall" as a communist. Desola was recalled and swore that Halpern was known to him as "Bob Hall," a member of section 24 of the communist party, to whom he often had reported when he was a member of the same section.

Halpern persisted in his denial. Both witnesses were kept under subpena while investigators checked Halpern's statements. The committee decided to ascertain from the state department whether the activities of the Soviet-American corporation—especially if its president were shown to be a communist—constituted a violation of the agreement into which this country entered with soviet Russia prior to our recognition of that government.

Halpern said the entire soviet gold bond issue was sold in this country. He said he did not know what profits were made by his firm in connection with the sale, inasmuch as most of the issue was disposed of before he became president.

Halpern now is import manager for the Hanover Sales corporation of New York, he said. The business of this corporation, he said, is importing and exporting on behalf of the Spanish loyalist government.

Puts Saposs Article in Record.

Chairman Dies inserted in the record a lengthy article written in 1931 by David Saposs, chief economist of the National Labor Relations board. Excerpts from the article were made public yesterday, quoting Saposs as being in favor of "organized force" to overthhrow the government. Saposs replied that the quotations were not his own, but had been written by him in reporting the views of the minority of the Socialist International congress in 1931.

"Let the article speak for itself," Dies commented. "It is very clear that the sentiments expressed were those of Saposs himself, and not of somebody else. Saposs is typical of the economic crackpots who have come to Washington."

Los Angeles, Nov. 21.—(AP)—The real issue today in the Jeffers divorce suit was whether a dog's salary could be used to pay $82 a month temporary alimony. Gladys N. Jeffers sued Alvie Jeffers, who owns the movie dog, Asta, in the movie "The Awful Truth." Judge Goodwin Knight is to decide whether Asta's earnings may be used to pay alimony. Mrs. Jeffers charges her husband threatened her life and drank excessively. In a cross-complaint, he alleged she drank too much, swore at him and neglected their household.

MOSCOW SEEKS TO LURE U. S. INTO WAR ALLIANCE

Wants America to Drop Policy of Neutrality.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Nov. 21.—Although disappointed because President Roosevelt has not carried out his suggestion that aggressor nations should be quarantined, the soviet government notes with satisfaction that relations between the Moscow and Washington, D. D., régimés steadily are growing more interrelated and intimate.

This expression of satisfaction is being published in the soviet press. It uses the occasion of the fifth anniversary of the recognition of the U. S. S. R. by the United States to print long articles about the collaboration of the foreign policies of Maxim Litvinov, soviet foreign commissar, and Cordell Hull, United States secretary of state.

Reds Want Alliance.

The enormous network of propaganda and revolutionary organizations, which the soviet government either influences or controls in the United States, is said by diplomats here to have been ordered to begin a new drive to force the American government to abandon its policy of neutrality. The bolsheviks, diplomats say, want Washington to make a political and military alliance with the soviet government against so-called aggressor countries.

The Moscow Izvestia warns the United States against continuing to heed or follow tne British foreign policy. It reminds America that in 1931 British diplomacy sabotaged the proposal of Henry L. Stimson, then secretary of state, about counteraction against Japanese imperialism.

Sees Policy Becoming Harsher.

"After the capitulation of Chamberlain [British prime minister] at Munich, the United States now finds itself in a position where it must form its own American foreign policy," Izvestia continues. "The fact that the problem of American foreign policy has become harsher is revealed by the intensifying fight raging around this question in America. After the Munich agreement American reactionists, including isolationists and all varieties of Trotzkyist agents of Japanese imperialism, considerably increased their activity. The congressional election reveals that the reactionaries had a certain success, but this only intensified the activities of Moscow's friends in America for more intimate relations with the soviet government.

"The stormy events of the last five years have shown that the United States and the U. S. S. R. can collaborate successfully in international matters."

WITNESS SHOT, LEFT FOR DEAD, IN RACKET CASE

Postpone St. Louis Trial Until He Recovers.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—The bombing trial of Isadore Londe, described as the toughest gunman in the old Egan gang, known as "Egan's rats," was postponed today because the state's chief witness against him was shot by assassins Friday night.

The witness is Louis Lee Baker, 39 years old, colored. He was expected to give damaging testimony against Londe, a paroled convict, who is charged with bombing a cleaning shop during a strike dispute.

In an attempt to safeguard their ace witness, authorities hid him on a farm near Sikeston, Mo. But last Friday night two gunmen lured him to an abandoned clubhouse in St. Louis county. There he was shot three times and left for dead. He was found, however, and now is in a hospital and is expected to recover.

Officials Are Stirred.

The attack stirred official circles and resulted in an order that the city's entire detective force of 240 men engage in the hunt for the gunmen. Several persons have been arrested and are being held for questioning, but the assailants still are at large.

When the Londe trial was called today in Circuit court Prosecutor Robert Y. Woodward asked that it be postponed until Baker recovers sufficiently to testify.

Fears that a second state witness had met a similar fate to Baker's were expressed following the temporary disappearance this morning of Otis Gordon, colored, who also was to testify against Londe.

Gordon's absence was disclosed as the bombing case was called for trial. Woodward said the man was in hiding because of fear since the Baker shooting. Gordon finally was located by detectives searching the city for Baker's assailants.

Gordon lived above a cleaning shop which Londe is accused of bombing and was said to have heard the explosion and to have seen two men drive away from the scene. It is presumed he is ready to identify Londe.

Criminal Record Since 13.

The defendant has a criminal record dating back to 1913 when he was only 13 years old. He was sent to a reform school at 14 and served a term in a reformatory at 17. In 1922 Londe was shot three times in a gang affray and several subsequent gang killings were attributed to reprisals for the attack on him.

In 1924 he was convicted of robbery in Detroit, Mich., and sentenced to a term of 10 to 20 years, but he and two fellow convicts shot their way out of the Marquette, Mich., prison in 1925. They were later recaptured and Londe remained in prison until 1936, when he was paroled.

At bankruptcy proceedings of a garment company here owned by Londe's two brothers, Morris and Louis, Morris testified he gave Louis $50,000 on the representation it was to be paid for Isadore's parole. Michigan authorities investigated, but decided there were no grounds for revoking the parole.

Mrs. Rose Penwitt was wishing she knew where her husband, Clarence, was. She needed the $127 he was behind in his temporary alimony payments. And just then a brick crashed through the window of her home at 6037 Harper avenue. Attached was a note from him, asking her to meet him at 105th street and Langley avenue.

She telephoned her attorney, Victor Frolich, according to the story she told Judge Robert C. O'Connell yesterday. Frolich had a deputy sherif keep the appointment for her and serve papers on Penwitt. The judge will decide today whether Penwitt should go to jail or not for failing to pay. The Penwitts are both 37 years old.

VAN NUYS ASKS COURT TO HALT VOTE RECOUNT

Contends Senate Must Pass on His Status.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 21.—(AP)—United States Senator Frederick Van Nuys, reëlected in the closest off year contest in a decade of Hoosier politics, asked State Supreme court writs of prohibition today to halt recount proceedings instituted in seven counties by his Republican opponent, Raymond E. Willis.

A three judge court heard conflicting points of law stressed in a lengthy oral argument and adjourned without fixing a date for a ruling. Two other judges, reëlected in the Nov. 8 voting, did not participate.

Will H. Thompson of Indianapolis, chief of the Van Nuys counsel, argued the United States senate is sole judge of its membership and holds final and exclusive jurisdiction in any contest for a seat. Circuit courts, he said, lack power to determine the winner in a senatorial race.

Robert D. Armstrong, head of the G. O. P. state committee's legal staff, directing the recount action, contended the sole issue before the court to be whether the Circuit courts should be prohibited from allowing a recount. He said candidates are guaranteed a recount if they furnish affidavits they believe mistakes or fraud prevent true returns.

State street took on more Christmas color yesterday as workmen began decorating light standards with huge Christmas wreaths and mammoth Christmas candles.

The wreaths were made from Christmas trees which arrived a few days ago from Whiteside, Mich. They were the season's first shipment. Skilled workers have been converting them into hundreds of wreaths.

State street will be decorated from Lake street to Congress street. The decoration system was planned by John Root, architect, and E. D. Tillsen, lighting expert. The completed effect is expected to be one of the best ever seen in State street during the holidays.

KENTUCKY YOUTH STICKS TO IDEALS OF FOREFATHERS

Era of TVA and Relief Is Frowned Upon.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Berea, Ky., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—Up through Cumberland Gap and along the Wilderness road aventurous youth has pushed its way since Daniel Boone opened the trail in 1770. From the plateaus and valleys of North Carolina and Virginia, the great Anglo-Saxon migration of freedom loving people set this way, put the final rivets into the American war for independence, overflowed the blue grass meadows and on to the Ohio country and the establishment, at last, of a republic founded on the rights of man.

What of the effect today, with Buffalo and Indian ambush gone and the dark Kentucky forest traversed so easily on rolling rubber? Is there a choir invisible here, formed of that shadowy company of pioneers, of which the Lincolns, the Todds and the Hanks were a part?

Middlesboro Industrial City.

One of the first impressions, as the bus winds its way up the gap into the Yellow river valley is the industrial center of Middlesboro. In 1888 the gap and the valley still were isolated in the wilderness, reached by bridle path and broken wagon roads. Then Alexander A. Arthur, a Canadian and a relative of President Arthur, prospecting here, found evidence of coal. And it is coal that has marked the social and individual development since.

Middlesboro became a boom town under the impulse of English engineers and English capital. The railroad was tunneled under the Wilderness road, and black spots sprang up in the earth, and the song of the birds was hushed.

The American association, a colonial venture of London bankers, took over the countryside, building streets of red brick stores, taverns, bank, and factories. Harrogate was built in the countryside where visiting nobility might live in acustomed splendor. The Four Seasons hotel was built at a cost of millions.

Boom Comes to End.

The London bankers failed and the great boom came to an end. This was a capitalistic adventure in colonization which failed. The great hotel now is the site of Lincoln Memorial university, whose graduates are key men and women in transforming the life of many mountain communities. The community has shaken down into normal American individualism, with factories and mines in many hands.

Joe Green is a young man who works for the Atlas Mining company seven miles up the narrow valley. He is a strapping young fellow, with clean overalls, a pleasant smile, whose ideas are concerned with his own work and living conditions.

"Work has been good for three weeks now," he says cheerfully. "Before that we only got one or two days work a week. My wages are $5.75 a day. Some loaders get as high as $9 or $10 a day. I have known a man to make $20 in one day. I worked on the road for $1 a day under Hoover, but I never have been on relief. When there is no work in the mine I hustle around and get another job or help dad cut mine timber. I'll get something. Some don't want to work.

Grows Corn; Fattens Hogs.

"Our camp is pretty good. Some houses are in need of repair. I have a four room house. The rent is $2 a month a room. I can do what I want with the land around it. It is bottom land and I have ten acres in corn this year and am fattening hogs. I sold one for $45. I have calves, potatoes, and truck."

Joe is married and attends the Baptist church in town every Sunday. He voted for Roosevelt, but says:

"I think I'll change next time. I like his words, but he hasn't done much. He is for labor, I think, but I don't like this big dam. It is bad for the coal business. Besides, the Republicans might keep a tighter hand on money and keep us out of war."

Joe is thinking of the TVA power development in the great valley that spreads out below the Cumberlands. If everybody uses electricity it will be bad for his business. That is all. He has not thought about the constitution. The thoughts of youth may be long, long thoughts, as the poet said, but this observer notes that they turn on the price of coal, or hay, or foodstuffs, or jobs.

All Union Workers.

Everything is 100 per cent union here, this young miner says. They never have had trouble such as that in Harlan over the hills, because the owners here did not fight the union. In Harlan the mine owners and the "law" were one, he says, and they beat up and killed union organizers. That now has worked out into a contract with the United Mine Workers.

James Franks, 16 years old, is coming out of Wallin's Creek on his first great adventure. He is a tall, well shaped boy, with the strong hands of the worker, a compact head, determined chin, reddish brown hair, and light brown eyes.

"I want to get out of this holler," he said, as he rode along the old Wilderness road out of the hills. "I don't want to stay on one job. I know men who are willing to stay in the mines or on the section all their lives, but I want a job with a raise or I'll move on.

"I said I'd never go into the mines after dad lost his leg there. Some slate fell on it. The company gave him $24,000, a pension, free house rent, light, and water as long as he lives. They were good, but that is not a leg.

Brother is Union Organizer.

"My brother is an organizer for the United Mine Workers. Lately I have seen him sign men up right in the company store. Six months ago he could not get on the property. But the trouble is not all over. Some of the owners say they will not take the union men even though the operators' association agreed."

James is a product of the Pine Mountain Settlement school, as well as of the mines. He has been there part time for five years, working his way, and now is on his way to Berea, where he will continue work for his education. He carries a paper parcel and a suitcase reinforced with wire.

At school, he said, he studied history and governments from all standpoints.

"We were told to see all sides, then pick our own," he said. "I would take democracy as the best government, if it could be practiced. The ideas of Roosevelt are good if he can work them out. I am against the third term.

"I like to study science the best and want to be a pharmacist. But not in Wallin's Creek. I want to get out in the world.

"As to religion I like the Christian church best. The Holiness people are all over the mountains. I have seen them wrap snakes around their necks. But I don't like their ideas."

At home the Franks family have four acres. One of James' last jobs there was to put up fodder for the cow for the winter.

"The hills are getting smaller," he observes, as the bus winds up to the Berea plateau. There still are many little cabin homes in the hollows but James regards them with no qualms.

"They are as happy as if they had a million," he said. "But I am through with that life."

At Berea there is a $13,000,000 plant, the product of capitalism and Christian devotion. There are 1,800 students who will form the future for James. He needs $35 in cash to enter, then he is assigned to labor of some sort for ten hours a week. He has to take an efficiency test first.

It's New World for James.

"I think that is better than getting in on high school credits," he says. "They get by in cramming. In this way you have to know."

The bus rolls along the wide green campus, past classic halls of white pillared doorways, where boy and girls sit on the steps or wander, perhaps hand in hand, under the trees, for this is the Sabbath rest. His eyes become wide and wondering. This is the new world for him. He passes the new class building and chapel built partly through the donation of William Danforth, St. Louis foods manufacturer, where it is written in the stone:

But James does not put it that way. What he says is: "O, boy."

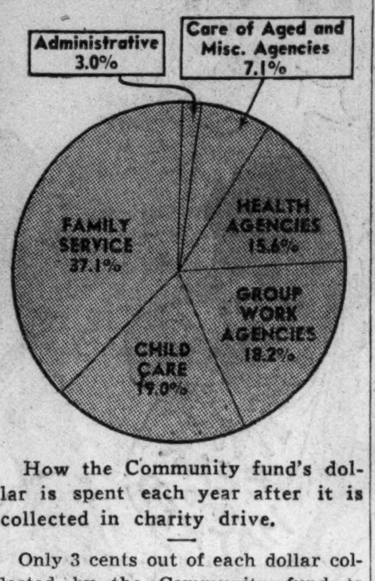
Chest Fund Dollar



How the Community fund's dollar is spent each year after it is collected in charity drive.

Only 3 cents out of each dollar collected by the Community fund is used for administrative purposes, including cost of the campaign and the year around direction of the fund, Ralph A. Bard, campaign chairman, said yesterday. The money being raised now will be distributed among 175 agencies in 1939.

The way each dollar is spent was determined by an official audit. Family service agencies, which include such agencies as the United Charities of Chicago, the Jewish Social Service bureau, and the Associated Catholic Charities, were allotted 37.1 per cent.

Child care agencies are to receive 19 per cent. Group work agencies, which include boys' clubs, Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. and similar groups, receive 18.2 per cent, health agencies 15.6 per cent, and protective, care of the aged, and miscellaneous agencies 7.1 per cent.

More than a million dollars of the $3,550,000 goal is not yet pledged, Mr. Bard said, as the sixth week of the annual drive opened.

HIGHEST COURT GIVES SETBACK TO C. I. O. IN DISPUTE WITH HAGUE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21.—(AP)—The C. I. O. received a setback today in an attempt to have the United States Supreme Court take its civil rights dispute with Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City out of the hands of a federal circuit court at Philadelphia. The high court denied a C. I. O. petition that it take immediate jurisdiction over the controversy.

The federal district court for New Jersey, at the request of the C. I. O. and the Civil Liberties Union, had restrained Jersey City officials from denying the two groups the right to hold public meetings. Mayor Hague then petitioned the circuit court Nov. 9 to postpone the effectiveness of that restraining order. The C. I. O. criticized Presiding Judge J. Warren Davis for assembling a five-judge court at Philadelphia in place of the customary three judges, asserting that his action had created suspicion that the court had been "packed" in favor of Hague.

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—Jessie Barker, 22 years old, of Louisville, Ky., will arrive in Peoria tomorrow to claim the estate of more than $1,400,000 left in trust by her father, the late Jesse Barker, who was found dead in his home Oct. 7, 1917. Barker was the son of Walter Barker, Peoria banker.

A hearing is to be held before Circuit Judge Joseph E. Daily, to go through the formality of making proof that she is alive so that W. G. McRoberts, Peoria attorney, and trustee of the fortune, may be authorized to turn it over to her.

Under the provision of Barker's will, the trust estate for his daughter was to be held for her until 21 years after his death. Mr. McRoberts and a group of Peorians went to Louisville on Oct. 6 to verify that Miss Barker was alive at the instant when she became entitled to possession of the trust fund. However, she did not receive the estate at that time, as a court order first is necessary, which will be entered today.

CRISTOBAL, Canal Zone, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Four youthful Germans accused of photographing Canal Zone fortifications in violation of the United States espionage act pleaded not guilty today in federal court. The case was set for jury trial on Dec. 7, with each defendant to be tried separately. The four, one a girl, were arrested Oct. 16.

NEGRO LYNCHED IN SOUTH FOR RAPE OF WOMAN

Jackson, Miss., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—Wilder McGowan, colored, was lynched today at Wiggins, a southern Mississippi town, by a mob of men who had hunted him all night with bloodhounds for the rape of a white woman, 74 years old.

The searching party trailed McGowan to the home of his grandmother, where he spent the night. He had left before the mob arrived and the hounds picked up the scent of the fresh trail and soon overtook him.

The mob came upon McGowan when he was preparing to get into a truck to drive to Gulfport. He was dragged from the truck and hanged to a tree a short distance from his grandmother's house.

THE DIES COMMITTEE WORK.

Mr. Dies, the Texas Democrat, and his supporting committee members—two ran out on the inquiry—have valuable work yet to do. Mr. Dies says it is to reveal the position of revolutionaries in the government itself. The strength of the communists in the C. I. O. has been disclosed. The C. I. O. is so closely identified with the New Deal that it is regarded as a governmental agency itself, with the National Labor board as an instrument of its policy.

The fellow travelers of the communists are in the government. Some of them travel so closely at the elbows of Mr. Browder's party members that the distinction is rather one of announced affiliation than of idea and method. Mr. Dies has mentioned two such officials, David Saposs and Paul Sifton. Saposs is advantageously placed as chief economist for the labor board, which gives John Lewis such hold as he has on industry. Sooner or later the labor board itself will get an investigation, and it may be at the hands of the congress which meets in January. Sifton is assistant to the wage administrator.

Harry Bridges, who has tried to make himself the boss of the American marine on the west coast, is an Australian fellow traveler whose deportation has been held up by Mme. Perkins. Bridges, since he has been in trouble, denies that he is a communist. Immigration officers, who recommended that he be sent out for abuse of the privileges of an alien, say they have proof of his party membership.

The collectivist program of the Roosevelt administration stands out in all its acts of congress and administrative orders. The communist support is attracted by this program. The New Deal and the communist party are kinfolk. The combination was hard hit in the recent election. It will try everything in the next six months to recoup, to get through the next session of congress and put its delegates in the Democratic convention in 1940. This is the year which will test the strength of subversion.

The country needs all the information the Dies committee can get. The greatest danger has been lack of information.

THE TRAGIC MISTAKE.

The biggest headache in Europe must come when the anti-Fascist countries recall what they did to the German republic when it was virtually in their hands. The Weimar constitution was, it is to be admitted, the faulty work of men who hadn't grasped the principles of the liberty they undertook to preserve. The socialist ideals of the founders betrayed them into a fatal concession of power to autocracy. They thought of it as being exercised in an emergency by themselves. Their mistake was in thinking they would control. That is the man trap concealed in any concession to absolutism in a system of government.

The German democrats, beset by communists on the left and Fascists on the right, might still have preserved their government if the spirit of Versailles had not prevailed in France—unchecked in Great Britain—until the German republic fell under the economic and political blows which it was unable to withstand. It is easy now to see what would have been the wise thing to do.

Those Germans who were killed or driven into exile should have been supported by all the encouragement France and Great Britain could give them, and by force if necessary. Instead of that the force was used to crush them. France, Great Britain, and Italy humiliated the republic until it became shameful in the opinion of the Germans themselves. The Germans' sense of injury was aggravated, their economic condition was allowed to become hopeless, and they were exposed to the betrayal which old Hindenburg was persuaded to make. Their despair drove them into the form of government which is now such a problem to much of the world.

The United States has a better record than the other powers which contrived the Versailles peace because that treaty was rejected by the American congress, and although our army of occupation did add some burden to the German republic it is also true that nearly every helpful measure which undertook to give the German democracy any support originated in this country.

In general the treatment the German democrats got was unwise and the consequences have been a world concern. All the errors attributed to monarchical Germany were, in spite of promises, visited upon republican Germany and out of it all came Nazi Germany. It is worth while to recall these mistakes, although to remember them will not do much to relieve the present situation. Nevertheless, mistakes should not be allowed to lapse in the understanding.

Now it is to be feared that the criticism expressed in so many other countries actually plays into Hitler's hands. It gives his propagandists the opportunity to instill again in the German mind that the national character is unjustly assailed by people and governments who deliberately misunderstand the aspirations and necessities of Germany. The resentment thus created can be used to strengthen Hitler's hold. It shows no sign of weakening and he and his exhorters know how to work upon excitable German nationality.

It would be fortunate if criticism could arouse the conscience of the people, but Hitler uses it for the opposite effect. He exhorts the people to stand solidly by him because they are attacked from the outside. He can allege that envy of the new German strength achieved under him and a desire to keep Germany from its rewards impel the slanders.

THE PAROLED BRUTE.

How long must the people of Illinois continue to be endangered by atrocious criminals turned loose under our parole system?

The latest outrage by a beneficiary of a parole maladministration is appalling, but it is not the first of its kind nor will it be the last if our parole law is not drastically amended or abolished. This case is typical in that the offender was a known criminal. His criminal record dates back to 1935 when he was arrested for stealing an automobile. He was released to the care of his parents by the juvenile court. In 1936 he was sent to St. Charles on a similar charge where he escaped and was retaken and returned to the institution June 11, 1937. Last May he was paroled to the custody of his mother but was again arrested for leaving the state without permission of the authorities. In August he was paroled again, but failing to make required reports was sought by the authorities until arrested for the Shreiner crime. He now confesses not only that crime but that he shot and robbed a motorist who had picked him up as a hitch hiker.

Both these crimes were vicious and the later crime was brutal in the extreme. They disclose a character beyond reclaim. Parole is supposed to be granted on the assumption that the parolee will reform under supervision. There was a very bad guess in this case or there was influence of some sort. The youth was no more fit to be at large than a mad dog and proved in fact more dangerous.

This is not a unique case. Under the laws and administration of parole in this state crimes of the most atrocious nature are frequently committed by individuals who though they have shown persistent criminal character are turned loose on the community.

The parole system has been called by one who knows its workings at first hand the chief resource of organized crime and its ally, corrupt politics. It is also the aid of the individual malefactor. The causes of its failures are more than one but the failures are a continuing and major menace to the law-abiding public. After every atrocity there is a flare-up of public indignation, but soon it dies down and the interests which profit by the system as administered are ever ready to resist the next effort to reform it. Cooperating, unintentionally of course, with the malign profiteers, misguided humanitarians lend their respectability to the opposition to reforms. The common sense of the general public must overcome these influences.

FINGER PRINTING THE ACCUSED.

Charles A. Harnett, New York commissioner of motor vehicles for fourteen years, is indicted on charges of extortion and receiving bribes. Prosecutor Dewey refrained from presenting his evidence to a grand jury until after the election, but acted as soon as he had a few days' rest from the campaign.

Mr. Dewey's record as prosecutor thoroughly protects him from any suspicion that he might be using his office politically. He acts entirely in the public interest. There hasn't been the slightest indication that Dewey has ever brought a charge against a public official to besmirch the reputation of the man or to throw odium on a political body. With this in mind, it is possible to call attention to certain practices which were followed in the arrest of Mr. Harnett in which he was subjected to a customary procedure.

After the indictment he surrendered at the district attorney's office and was taken to the Elizabeth street police station. There a lieutenant wrote his pedigree on the blotter, whereupon he was taken to police headquarters, was photographed, and his finger prints were recorded. Then he went to court to give bond. Harnett could be Jones, Smith, Brown, or anybody else indicted for a crime. The indictment is not proof of guilt and yet the police record contains all the identifications of the accused as if he were already enrolled as one of the criminals of the community.

This, happening to any citizen, does not seem to do justice to the theory that an American is innocent until he is proved guilty. The photograph and the finger prints of such a man in the police records are in no way necessary to the prosecution of the case against him.

CROCODILE TEARS.

At a communist meeting in Madison Square Garden last week Mr. Browder devoted himself chiefly to the anti-Semitic outrages in Germany, though he also offered the grotesque charge that Father Coughlin is "the sanctified spokesman for the anti-Jewish forces."

The communist championship of the persecuted Jews is not motivated by hatred of the Nazis merely, much less by disapproval of terrorism to which communism largely owes its power in Russia. Its object is to get American Jews into the communist movement to destroy American democracy, and it has no regard for the effect this would have in creating anti-Semitism in the United States, where happily it has never gained any political strength. The communist party would profit by these tactics, but at a heavy cost to American Jewry, whose cause is in American toleration, which communism, the most ruthlessly intolerant of isms, would destroy along with all other ideals of American democracy.

Editorial of the Day

PLOWING CHAMPION.
[Detroit News.]

In the various championship contests held this year a heap of honor is due Paul Stiefbold of Illinois. He won the national plowing championship of America.

It would be an inspiration for every youngster in the schools, city and country, to see a picture of the plowing that Stiefbold did. Those long, straight furrows running the length of a very long field and all even in width and uniform in depth are a fine example of good workmanship.

Most youngsters nowadays don't know enough about plowing to realize the difficulty of a plowing contest and the expertness shown by a champion. But there is this to be learned from it: Any job that is worth doing at all is worth doing well. There is an artistic side to almost everything that is done for the common good and there is a possibility of pride in expertness and in the worthiness of the service. The fellow who strives for expertness in whatever he is doing is likely to be picked for promotion; at any rate, he will have the reward of feeling that he has done his best.

MUSEUM OF FOOTBALL YELLS.

In writing about eccentric, old time football yells [11-17-'38] the Linemaster erred grievously in assigning "Brek-ke-kek-kek" to Harvard when it is a tradition of the deadly rival, Yale. Corrections have been turned in by Joseph Seabury, the Deerfield Dope, and Old Harvard Grad. The latter "suffocates with chagrin and burns with scorn."

High school yells of the "flying wedge" period surpassed those of the colleges in originality, ferocity, and lunacy. For example, this echo from the dark ages at Englewood, submitted by Bessie Elaine, '05:

Harem-scarem, rip 'em, tear 'em;
Eat 'em, beat 'em, as we should;
Slap 'em, bang 'em, kill 'em, tear 'em—
We're the boys from Englewood!

Englewood High school also had a yell to end all football yells—a unique and extraordinary medley of nonsense which wins first prize in this competition. This was the "Abraham" yell, of which Contrib. Dodo submits an excellent version:

Abraham!
A room stick, a broom stick,
A nick, a nack,
A chew, a tack;
A sing a song of Romeo,
A hat trim, a rat trap,
A penny get your doodle bug,
A yellow dog, a rim trim,
A razzle dazzle, sizzle sazzle
Siss boom bah!
Englewood High School, rah, rah, rah.

This was never borrowed by any other school, for obvious reasons.

Linebooks on Parade.

Another year leaving port, and the fifteenth Linebook to mark its sailing. Somehow, each year, these things weave themselves into my destiny—the unbearable poignancy of Christmas and the magic of the Linebooks. The first Linebook, long ago, with its droll silhouette outlined against a white cover, quaint against her furs, dispelled young diffidence and gave the pretext to first speak to her. The second, somber in black, but rebound in jolly scarlet lether to tell the queer strangeness of happiness; the high winds of young dreams blown into brief reality. The third, in motley's sophistication, that failed, as the roses failed, to tell all that words could not—the barren pride that faced the threat of darkness in unshareable silence. . . . Victory, too late to matter; and the fourth Linebook, the fifth, and the many, many more that, with each holiday time, held only desolate gayety. But now, almost unnoticed, the healing years have worked their miracle, and I bid godspeed to the Linebook of 1938 and the gold of its sixty-four galleons! Quizzicuss.

[This year's Linebook will make its first appearance on Nov. 25. It will be on sale at all newsstands as usual.]

So Is This.

A reason for calling humorous remarks "gags" may be that they are so often bad chokes.

Thanksgiving Proclamation.

Americans, preparing to become turkey-full and cranberry-full next Thursday will have many reasons for being thankful, too. Supreme in our hearts, perhaps, will be gratitude that we are not at war and that no devastating famine, pestilence or holocaust rules our land.

We shall be thankful for friends, fun, and the sturdy American home that yet survives in spite of countless menacing influences. We shall be grateful that life is still a challenging adventure and not a dreary program by permission of self-appointed planners. We shall give thanks that here in America crackpots, communists, New Dealers, conservatives, and practically every cult, creed, and conglomeration under the sun still has the right of expression regardless of the absurdity of its claims and clamorings.

For the pleasure of telling pestiferous politicians now and then to shut up, for the right to mind our own business, to serve, to strive, and to sleep an extra hour, we shall give thanks. And when the total inventory of the nation's mass gratitude is taken we probably shall find that we have been most thankful for the simple things—open fires, dogs with friendly faces, cats that purr, hopes and memories, handclasps, warm lips, and understanding hearts. For these, and myriads of other blessings, kind Lord, we shall give thanks on Thursday and on every day yet to come!

Siwasher the Second.

Last Saturday night, when the Linemaster was all dressed up to go to a house-warming, his doorbell rang and the house-warming swarmed in on him, saying "Surprise!" These friends and neighbors wore badges proclaiming themselves to be Jake Irmiter, Quizzicuss, Buddy Bligh, Hilary Haw, Incunabulus, Duke Bakrak, Eolus, That Fella Down in Streator, Ray Dieden, S'Amuser, Newcomer, and other contributors. SHOULD TONSILS BE REMOVED ROUTINELY?

EVERY medical man has faced the question repeatedly, "What about Johnnie's tonsils? Should they be taken out?" The answer is, "Yes, if they are infected or should repeated attacks of tonsillitis threaten the heart."

But many parents will ask, "Do not these structures possess some useful function? Why did the good Lord afflict us with them unless they were designed for some good?" No one can gainsay the fact that nature is not only a wise but a skilful architect and there is scarcely anything more beautiful than the smooth play of muscles, the coördination of the working parts of the body. The capillaries of the kidneys, for example, surpass in symmetry the most perfect trees of the forest.

Yes, the tonsils have work to do. They are placed in the mid portion of the throat, where they are attacked easily by bacteria. Is it not possible that they serve as filters, catching and holding infection that might otherwise reach more important organs? In addition, the chances are that they act as laboratories wherein the system manufactures antitoxin against the organisms growing in their vicinity. In other words, can and do they serve as immunizing depots, protecting the child against many germs which, but for their existence, might be responsible for severe illnesses?

We all know that children particularly are prone to suffer inflammation of the tonsils and, as a rule, seizures become less frequent as age advances. Is it not reasonable to assume that the organs have done their job well, safeguarding their owners through the preparation of enough immunizing material to render subsequent infections harmless?

One of our most popular surgical procedures is extirpation of the tonsils. But there is creeping into the thinking of many nose and throat specialists the conviction that enlargement alone is not reason enough for the operation. Perhaps this very overgrowth is a speeding up factor in the development of immunity. Every physician has seen many a sturdy lad with huge tonsils. One may reason that if these masses are dangerous some physical weakness could be discovered. Despite a most careful search no abnormality can be found. After a time—with the policing job completed—they shrink to normal size.

In a recent report P. W. Leathert of Liverpool makes a plea for a much more conservative attitude on the part of nose and throat experts. He presents a strong case in favor of preserving all lymph tissues, because he regards this substance as protective rather than injurious. As an assistant he goes back to our old friend iodine, advising its use as a means of increasing the mucous secretions along the air passages. In his practice small doses of an iodine solution are administered daily for a period of three months and in 70 per cent of nearly 2,000 cases removal was avoided.

Sometimes, however, dams and barriers will give way. The tonsil tissue may be so overwhelmed with infection as to be unable to stem the tide. In such instances—and great discrimination is required—surgery is indicated. In the presence of a slight fever or rheumatic twinges, or pus in the crypts, we must rout these germ harboring pockets without delay. But care must be taken to prepare the patient properly and it is usually wise to wait until the acute phase of inflammation has receded before resorting to the plan.

We know to our cost that rheumatic fever with resulting heart damage and inflammation of the kidneys has been traced directly to diseased throat glands. But long before this stage has been reached the physician, by careful study, can determine when to act. We cannot accept, however, the dictum that all tonsils are bad actors, inimical to health. Some are, and it is the job of the doctor to determine which and when. Universal removal is about as sensible as the old Chinese custom of binding the feet or that of flattening the top of the skull by means of pressure.

CREEPING PARALYSIS.

J. L. D. writes:

1. What is the cause of creeping paralysis?
2. Its symptoms?
3. Treatment?
4. Can it be cured?
5. Does it attack young and old?
6. Are tobacco and alcohol harmful?

REPLY.

1. Creeping paralysis is the layman's term for locomotor ataxia. This results frequently when syphilis attacks the nervous system.
2. Difficulty in walking is the most common symptom.
3. Skilled antisyphilitic treatment is advised.
4. Much depends upon the stage of the malady and the physical condition of the patient. No remedy can replace destroyed nerve cells.
5. Yes, but those in middle life far more frequently.
6. Yes, in so far as they affect the general health.

ESTATE ASSETS.

Dubuque, Ia., Nov. 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My mother, who lived in Iowa, had three children. She was divorced in 1904. She acquired farm land in Illinois in 1918. She passed away in 1926. The estate was never probated and the three children who are her only heirs now wish to take title to this land in joint tenancy. We want to go and take title to this land, but do not know what data will be required according to Illinois law. Would appreciate knowing what procedure will be necessary and if we will need affidavits to furnish proof that we are the heirs. Also, will we need a copy of the death certificate? E. W.

Probate proceedings would be necessary in order to produce a readily salable title. By judicial construction it is held that debts of the deceased would be barred in seven years without probate and hence it seems probable that after the seven years has elapsed you could find a purchaser who would waive probate in reliance on affidavits as to heirship or possibly a statutory simplified proof of heirship without probate.

YOU GOT ME THERE!

Chicago, Nov. 16.—While believing in the youth movement, yet I do not think youth should be allowed to plunge headlong in the wrong direction before knowing where it is headed. Youth will have a great deal of progress to make before it can measure up to the progress of the last fifty years.

Very recently I heard the following questions and answers over the radio—by youths: Q.—Name five governors? A.—You got me there; Who is Anthony Eden? A.—You got me there; What do you understand by the Monroe Doctrin? A.—You got me there; Q.—What state in the United States has the longest seacoast? A.—[After much hesitation] Chicago.

Within the same week I heard a boy who could repeat the names and standings of all the ball players in the big leagues. That shows what can be accomplished by youth when its interest is aroused. The press has two years in which to arouse his interest before he goes to the polls in a major election. If he "trades his heritage for a mess of pottage" don't let it be because of ignorance. A CITY PUMPKIN SEED.

LA GUARDIA'S FUTURE.

New York, Nov. 14.—Another result of Tuesday's election is the changed status of Mayor La Guardia. If with his large following in the American Labor party he had thrown his support to Candidate Dewey, the election result would have been what the geographical majority of the state of New York wanted—Dewey for governor. Instead, La Guardia was either courting support from Washington or promoting his own candidacy for a future campaign. Either way, his refusal to support Dewey at this crucial time will bring him oblivion as a national figure.

This election confirms my belief—shared by many New Yorkers—that La Guardia has proved himself a capable local administrator of the complex affairs of New York City. Outside of this local usefulness he is only a drag on either of the national parties. As a national political figure and turncoat he is through. HERBERT E. BENDER.

FINDS ALDERMEN WORTH WHILE.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—I note the question: "Why do we have aldermen?" My view is that the civic duties of aldermen include the obtaining of improvements, devising and promoting new safety measures, helping to pass beneficial laws.

The money realized from the sale of tickets to testimonials is "squandered" buying food, shelter and clothing for unfortunates, paying gas and electric bills and even rent in some cases, for those in distress. An alderman is elected by the people of his ward, and certainly not by a group of disappointed job seekers who criticize him at every turn and hide behind pen names. Our alderman, H. L. Brody, is an example of how valuable an alderman can be.

ROBERT GALE.

COLD STREET CARS.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—Stepping off a warm street car I got on a car that was so cold I could see my breath, the heaters were so cold. With cold weather coming on there should be a system where cold cars taken off the storage tracks should have full heat turned on until they are warm and then reduce the heat to what it should be so people will not be chilled. There was no heat this entire trip. C. W. W.

AN OLD AGE ALLIANCE.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—In reply to H. S. Ayling's letter in the Voice of the People, I write to say that we organized an Old People's alliance over a year ago. We have now four locals and will be pleased to have Mr. Ayling visit our meetings—every Friday, 2 p. m., at 1328 West Madison street. RECORDING SECRETARY.

A DANGEROUS PERMIT.

Western Springs, Ill., Nov. 18.—The United States Public Health service has recently notified the department of agriculture that it will permit 0.025 grain per pound of lead on apples, pears, other fruits, and vegetables.

This increase in lead tolerance is granted on the strength of experiments conducted for one year, although, as every elementary student of toxicology knows, the poisonous effects of lead do not appear for several years after ingestion, except where large quantities are swallowed accidentally.

If this order is not rescinded it might mean the destruction of the farmers' business, since no housewife with any intelligence would continue to feed her family fruits and vegetables poisoned by lead and arsenical compounds to the extent permitted under the department's order. Already, the danger of slow poisoning [under the department's former tolerance limit of 0.018 grain per pound] was too great.

Apparently the public health service has taken on the inefficiencies of other departments of the government, and to curry temporary favor with the farm vote has permitted orchardists to ship fruit to the market which is unfit for food. It might seem to be a new scheme for reducing the country's surplus population. R. M. CARLETON.

TROUBLES ENOUGH AT HOME.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—Are we to understand that the government, according to latest newspaper reports, intends to dump thousands of pauperized people from Europe on our already bankrupt labor market to compete with American born workers?

According to reliable estimates we have 12 million unemployed workers in this country now, then why should the government import more? Let Europe solve her own problems in her own way and America hers.

Millions of people on relief and working for a mere pittance in the WPA is not solving America's unemployment problem—so why don't the powers-that-be in Washington try to clean their own house before meddling in affairs in Europe?

Twenty years ago we made the world safe for democracy; let's not try it again. Government, like charity, should begin at home. P. M. MEADOWS.

WOULD ASK THE DUCHESS TOO.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—Would it not be a polite gesture if the king of England and his Scotch wife would bring the duke of Windsor and his American wife when they visit America? MARTHA.

DIRECT SELLING.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—Below is a reply to a recent symposium of three professors on "what is going to happen to the small business man."

To the average man of that category listening in it was evident that the learned professors knew very little about our actual ailment. I can assure them that in this country we have ample room for large and small industry, large and small business, and even for chain stores, if operated under proper legislation and restrictions.

The poison slowly undermining the small business man over a period of thirty odd years is being dispensed by unscrupulous manufacturers and jobbing concerns in direct selling to the consumer.

Strangely enough the idea of direct selling to the consumer was not mentioned by the professors. Eliminate this one evil and small business in all lines will be able to prosper.

I shudder to think what would become of the United States if the small business man were eliminated. I. E. D.

PARKING AND DOUBLE PARKING.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—The massacre totals to date: 579 dead, 17,756 injured. Why not, considering the way our streets are used as a garage? I live in the great 4th ward and would like to hear why double parking is permitted on such streets as Woodlawn, Hyde Park boulevard, Stony Island, and Lake Park avenues and many more? Mayor Kelley has a safety first department. They must surely drive on such streets once in a while.

The streets are being used as a garage, not for trafic. As long as this is permitted death faces all who attempt to drive and cross on foot such streets. With all the vacant property available for parking lots there is no reason for street parking, at least on through streets. I am not interested in parking lots or any garage. FRANK FREGO.

TWO STAMP COLLECTORS.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—There is a fad called stamp collecting. Some of the collectors should be called waste paper basket scavengers. I am in an office which employs about fifty people; two women are stamp collectors.

Well, every day about noon you will see these two making the rounds of the waste baskets to see what stamps they can find. Into the baskets with their hands. They almost knock each other down. They don't mind what dirt there is in the baskets. They want the stamps. It's not very sanitary. EDW. JAMIE.

SURVEY BLAMES MOST ACCIDENTS ON PEDESTRIANS

Analyze Chicago Crashes in Which 444 Died.

BY HAL FOUST.

The Illinois highway department yesterday blamed pedestrians for 1,044 of the 1,986 Chicago trafic accidents which resulted in 444 deaths and 2,270 personal injuries during the first nine months of 1938. Faults in walking were charged with six times as many accidents as any other single cause.

Ranking second was failure to concede the right of way, which accounted for 167 accidents, 55 of them involving one or more fatalities.

In third place was "inattention." Innocent of any malice, drivers were engrossed in converastions, tuning radios, or absorbed in business or social problems. Eyes or minds wavered a moment from duties at the wheel. That was the main explanation for 142 accidents resulting in twenty-three deaths and 119 personal injuries.

Reckless Driving Toll High.

Reckless driving, with all of its variations, was charged with 133 mishaps, 57 of which caused one or more deaths. Driving too fast for road conditions caused 98 crashes, 22 of which resulted in one or more deaths. This classification is a broad one, including such designations as driving too fast for other trafic, too fast through an intersection, too fast around a turn, too fast for the weather, and too fast for safety under any of a variety of conditions.

Failure to halt at a stop sign accounted for 90 accidents and disregard of a red trafic signal caused 42, in the state's analysis.

The cause of eighty of the crashes was listed as "driver had been drinking." These included not only the drunks but also those who had had a couple of beers or highballs and who, with perceptions dulled, felt competent or, as was frequently the case, felt overconfident. Twenty-four of the drinking driver accidents involved one or more fatalities.

Offside Driving Perilous.

Motorists on the wrong side of the roadway caused 36 accidents. Drivers making improper turns caused 33. Other accidents, under the state highway department's analysis, were from the following primary causes:

Mechanical defects, 18; improper passing, 14; driver asleep or incapacitated but not from drinking, 13; following too close, 6; insufficient light, 4; driver confused, 2; puncture or blowout, 2; improper parking, 3; vision obscured, 1; failure to signal or improper signal of intention to turn, 1; miscellaneous, 28; and main cause unknown, 28.

Harry H. Harrison, state trafic engineer, said there were supplemental causes for almost all of the accidents. For example, the man who had been drinking or the man who was inattentive would not have suffered had he not committed a driving error. In the state's tabulation, only what appeared to be the principal cause was listed.

CONVICTS DRIVER IN DEATH DESPITE JURY ABSOLUTION

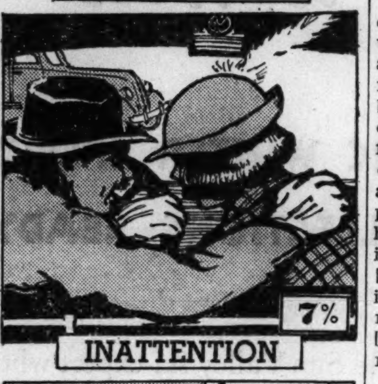
Although the grand jury exonerated Jacob Fries, 1244 Wellington avenue, whose car killed a pedestrian last Aug. 21, he was found guilty in the Safety court yesterday of reckless driving. Judge Stephen Adamowski sent him to the county jail for 10 days and suspended his driving privilege for six months. The man killed was Edward Mullen, 1543 North Washtenaw avenue.

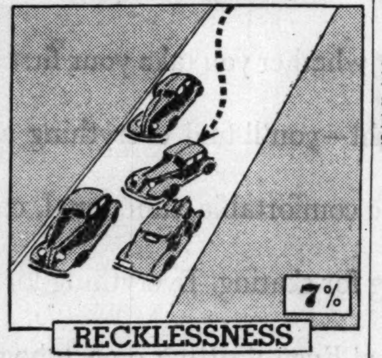
William Kasman, 32 years old, of 6741 South Campbell avenue, was fined $100 and costs and his driving privilege was suspended for 90 days upon his conviction of driving while intoxicated.

Accident Causes

(Story in adjoining column.)

Seventy-five per cent of the Chicago trafic accidents involving death or injury in the first nine months of 1938 were blamed on pedestrians, failure to concede right of way, inattentive driving and reckless driving. Other accidents were blamed on liquor drinking, disregard of stop signs, improper turns, driving on wrong side of street, mechanical defects, and many other faults.





Court Lifts Atlanta Bar Against 'Tobacco Road'

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Atlanta barred "Tobacco Road" today, but a judge's order allowed the robust drama to go on tonight and set the stage for a later legal battle over censorship. The play showed without incident in Savannah and Augusta, hard by the real "Tobacco Road," but a newly created board of film review barred it here after seeing a special performance this afternoon.

NEGLECT OF GIRLS IN RECREATION SETUP ASSAILED

4,000 Delegates Told of Delinquency Gain.

Dr. Philip L. Seman yesterday told delegates to the fourth annual Chicago recreation conference that more provision must be made for girls in the recreational setup. He assailed delegates for thinking in terms of the boys of a community rather than of its youth.

Dr. Seman, chairman of the Chicago recreation commission, spoke at the evening banquet in the Hotel Sherman which ended the day-long conference. He said juvenile delinquency increased 16 per cent in 1937 over 1936. His study, based on records of 27 courts in as many cities, showed, he said, that the majority of boys were in trouble for stealing and mischief-making, while the girls, for the most part, were brought in for emotional offenses.

Analyzes Delinquency.

The principal classifications of offenses follow:

Stealing: boys, 50 per cent, girls, 9 per cent; mischief: boys, 27 per cent, girls, 7 per cent; truancy: boys, 5 per cent, girls, 9 per cent; runaways: boys, 5 per cent, girls, 20 per cent; incorrigible: boys, 5 per cent, girls, 27 per cent; sex offenses: boys, 2 per cent, girls, 17 per cent.

Dr. Seman also criticized the use of police stations for boys' club work when so many public schools are available. Recommendations in a recreation commission report soon will be made public, he said. They include [1] the greater use of existing facilities, [2] provision of more adequate play spaces, [3] the possibility of assembling delinquent tax real estate parcels into sizable public parks, as has been done elsewhere; [4] the making of Chicago recreation conscious, [5] interesting lay organizations, service clubs, church, and other groups in neighborhood recreation groups, and [6] training courses for volunteer recreational leaders.

Stresses Youths' Idle Hours.

Homer P. Rainey, director of the American Youth commission of the National Council of Education, also spoke. He declared that "with the lessening of job openings, older youth finds itself with unprecedented free time."

"The country is filled with young men and women out of school and out of work," he said, "who have time on their hands and nothing to do. There are 4½ million youths between the ages of 16 and 25 who are idle. Even those who are employed have shorter work periods and longer spare hours than formerly and are searching for inexpensive pursuits for their unoccupied time. Satifying recreation, therefore, becomes a problem for young folk and an item of consideration for the socially-minded on a par with education, health, and employment."

Judge Frank Padden spoke briefly on behalf of Mayor Kelly. About 4,000 persons attended the conference, of whom 1,000 were at the banquet.

HURLED TO DEATH AS AUTOMOBILE HITS LIGHT POLE

When the car in which he was a passenger struck a light pole at Avenue O and 124th street yesterday, Irving Block, 25 years old, of 7939 Marquette avenue, was thrown to the pavement and killed. The driver, Elvin Dunlop, 27 years old, of 7930 Wabash avenue, was held for the inquest. Both young men were employed at the Illinois Steel company.

Solomon Talmadge, 46 years old, 1812 Millard avenue, died early today in the Mount Sinai hospital of injuries suffered last night at Ogden and Central Park avenues when he was run down by an automobile. Police held the driver, Thomas Diamond, 1828 South Drake avenue, for the inquest.

Miss Betty Rich of 985 Sheridan road, Winnetka, was injured seriously early yesterday when the car in which she was riding crashed into a truck on route 30 south of La Porte, Ind. Dustin Grannis, 30 years old, of Lake Forest, who was with her, was slightly injured.

Policeman Martin Hannigan of the motorcycle division suffered a shoulder dislocation last night when he was thrown from his motorcycle during the pursuit of a speeder. His vehicle struck a piece of broken pavement at 99th street and Longwood drive.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 765 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 591 were killed in Chicago, where 18,086 were injured during the same period.

BUY NO ANTI-FREEZE
-until you read these facts about DU PONT "ZERONE"*

Make sure you get the best value in anti-freeze. Know what Du Pont has to offer in "Zerone."

First of all, extraordinary anti-freeze protection. Scientific tests prove that "Zerone" would keep water from freezing solid even at 215° below zero. You'll never encounter temperatures like that, so you can be sure "Zerone" used in accordance with directions will protect your car in the coldest weather you'll ever experience.

Materials from which "Zerone" is made are so effective you need comparatively little "Zerone" to achieve protection. That's economy. Properly used, replacements of "Zerone" are little indeed—and that's economy, too.

Furthermore, scientific tests prove the mixture of "Zerone" and water passes off engine heat better than water alone. That improves engine performance.

"Zerone" in a clean cooling system prevents formation of rust and corrosion—avoids power losses, helps save fuel and oil. Those are the facts, so ask your dealer to protect your radiator with "Zerone" today. It's only $1.00 a gallon. Du Pont "Zerone" Division, Wilmington, Del.

MEXICO CROWNS BULL FIGHT THE KING OF SPORTS

35,000 Witness Shows in Capital's Arena.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 20.—[By Air Mail]—Bull fighting in Mexico holds a position like baseball in the United States—it is the national sport.

Every Sunday with the exception of the rainy season in July, August and September a bull fight is held in Mexico City. The fighting in December, January and February is for professionals and the other six months for amateurs. The chief difference is that professionals have won a reputation and command more money.

Bull fighters make themselves. During a fight a kid 14 or 15 years old, who probably has practiced dodging a charging bull back home and thinks he can fight, will jump into the arena, get on his knees and bow to the audience thus begging for a chance. If there are no cheers, the kid is tossed out of the ring, but if his personality clicks, the crowd will cheer and a bull fighter will hand him his cape.

Always to the Lockup.

The kid gets one swing of the cape. If his effort is good, he will be remembered and given another chance later. But good or bad, for his audacity, the police arrest him in all cases and into the lockup he goes for disorderly conduct. As punishment he fails to see the rest of the show, but is released at the end. It is a ritual, kids and spectators all know it and like it.

The bull ring here is architecturally like the old Roman Coliseum, and the seats for 35,000 spectators form a complete circle. The arena is about 250 feet in diameter with a stout sidewall four and a half feet high surrounding it. There is a narrow promenade back of the wall, used exclusively for participants, mainly as a refuge if the bull gets tough.

The boxes and choice seats are immediately above the promenade. Other seats rise on a steep slope to a height of 100 feet. The price of seats is governed by their location on the shady or sunny side.

Six Bulls to a Fight.

The fights begin at 4 p. m. and last about two hours. Six bulls are killed. At the start a bugle sounds and a parade of open cars circles the arena bearing Mexican society girls in a ritual called breaking the ground for good luck. After their exit all actual participants march across the ring in three single file columns, bow to the judges and disperse.

A gate is thrown open and out comes a sleek 2 year old bull, head up and badly frightened. His horns are about twelve inches long and wickedly set. His trouble has already begun. A small ribbon identifying the raiser sending him to market has been attached to his back with an iron pin.

The bull is greeted in the ring by three of the matador's assistants, each colorfully dressed [all the bull fighters are], and waving red shawls. These assistants serve two purposes—they save the matadors' effort and wear down the bull.

Picadores Take Over.

The bugle sounds again and picadores, always two in number, enter the ring from the gate opposite the bull's entrance. The picadores are mounted on very inferior horses which are blindfolded and have a large cotton pad covering one side. Each carries a wooden lance about ten feet long with a metal spike in the end.

The picadores meander around the ring keeping the horse's padded side toward the bull, waiting for a charge. If the charge gets applause, the picador's spike goes into the bull, its horns go into the cotton padding and often the horse. The bull stays on his feet and the horse and rider take a spill. After one charge on each horse, a bugle signals the banderilleros into the ring. There are three of them on foot, each equipped with two darts gayly decorated. The darts are tipped with a sharp metal spike made in fishhook fashion.

When the bull charges these boys step aside and drive darts into his withers. It takes great skill.

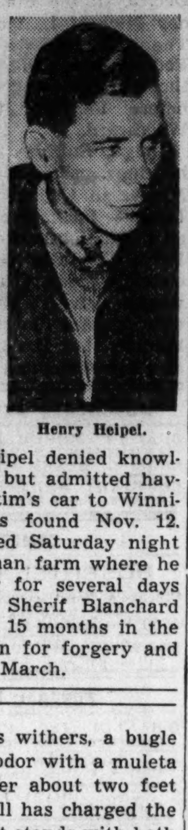
After six banderillas have been inserted in the bull's withers, a bugle brings out the matador with a muleta [red flag] and saber about two feet long. After the bull has charged the muleta repeatedly it stands with both front feet together. This is a signal for the matador to aim his saber like a rifle and lunge.

The motion is very fast from directly in front of the bull. The blade is supposed to penetrate diagonally down the neck just in front of the withers. If the attack is good, the bull will stagger for a few seconds and then collapse. Another stab with a short dirk in the top of the head ends the round.

The crowd goes wild when the matador stands very close to the red flag when the bull charges it. They likewise applaud a bull that puts up many charges. It is a colorful show, but the Humane society wouldn't like it.

EX-CONVICT IS QUIZZED ABOUT SLAYING OF FARMER IN CANADA

Oregon, Ill., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Two Canadian mounted policemen seeking the slayer of a Moosomin, Saskatchewan, farmer, renewed their questioning today of Henry W. Heipel, 24 years old, an ex-convict.



Henry Heipel.

The body of the slain man, J. A. Kaeser, 65, was found last Monday on a prairie near Sintaluta, Sask. Canadian authorities said he had been shot four times in his back, probably by a hitchhiker.

Sherif Delos Blanchard said Heipel denied knowledge of the crime but admitted having driven the victim's car to Winnipeg where it was found Nov. 12. Heipel was arrested Saturday night on the Gene Bowman farm where he had been working for several days as a farm hand. Sherif Blanchard said Heipel served 15 months in the Illinois state prison for forgery and was released last March.

Negro Wounded by Police When He Tries to Escape

Samuel Dailey, 39 years old, colored, was shot in the head and slightly wounded early today by a policeman from whom he fled after a brick had been hurled through a window of Kirkland's Stamp shop, 45 West Monroe street. A bystander notified the police and the squad of John Regan and Dennis Sullivan of the First district seized Dailey at the scene. They placed him in their car, but he leaped out and fled. The policemen fired six shots and one bullet grazed his scalp. He was captured. He gave his address as 3545 Cottage Grove avenue.

Bette Davis Announces Husband Will Ask Divorce

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Bette Davis, blonde film actress, announced tonight she and her husband, Harmon O. Nelson, have separated permanently. Their marriage will end in a divorce court.

"There will not be any reconciliation," she said. "Harmon will apply for a divorce."

Miss Davis and Nelson formally separated on last Sept. 27. They eloped and were married in Yuma, Ariz., on Aug. 18, 1932. Miss Davis is 30 years old.

DIES OF MONOXIDE GAS.

'OPEN DOOR' ONLY AN IDEA OF PAST, TOKIO DECLARES

Assails Bans on Japanese by United States.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Nov. 21.—The Japanese foreign office spokesman today pointed to discrimination against Japanese in the United States as one reason Japan does not like the principle of the "open door" and equal opportunity for trade in China.

"We do not like the terms open door and equal opportunity," he said, and indicated Tokio soon will have something to say about what it considers "inapplicable ideas and principles of the past."

The spokesman referred to the Japanese reply last Friday which denied the American protest of "unwaranted interference" with trade interests in China.

Not Applied Elsewhere.

He pointed out that the Japanese note did not mention the nine power pact [which pledged respect for the open door and integrity of China] nor the principles of the open door and equal opportunity. "These terms are not applied anywhere else in the world, neither in the United States nor in any other country. Why should it be insisted that they continue in China?"

Turning to the charge of discrimination against Japanese in America, the spokesman said "It exists in the lands and laws of the various states and in the national policy of exclusion." He indicated Japan may mention this in future notes to America.

The spokesman said censorship of mail and telegrams, a point raised in the United States' protest, was because of "military necessity." He denied that Japanese vessels on Chinese rivers were carrying Japanese commercial cargoes and refusing to handle American orders. He asserted the rivers cannot be safely opened to commercial shipping.

Flay Japanese Imperialism.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Nov. 21.—The Shanghai American association today issued a statement asserting there can be "no doubt regarding the real intentions and objectives of Japanese imperialism . . . a situation has developed which no longer can be met by orthodox methods of diplomacy and commercial competition."

The statement declared that Japan, without mentioning it in the note to the United States, has in fact abrogated the nine power treaty. "There has been an unmistakable nullification of the principles of the treaty resulting from activity of the Japanese military forces . . . Japan plans to exclude non-Japanese from China."

Chinese Beat Off Attacks.

Chinese reported they had halted the Japanese advance with counter offensives on both the central and South China fronts. Dispatches from the central front said Japanese were beaten back by vigorous attacks northwest and south of Hankow and below Yochow, gateway to Hunan province.

Two Aged Men Burn to Death in Junk Shop Fire

Two men were burned to death early today in a fire which swept the two story frame building housing the American junk shop at 2135 West Lake street. The men were tentatively identified as Ed Baer, 70 years old, and "Dad," 75, who Hyman Lessack, owner of the shop, said slept in the building. The fire loss was estimated at $1,000 by Chief Rodney Dabe of the 6th battalion.

INDICT MEXICAN GENERAL FOR U. S. NEUTRALITY PLOT

2 American Flyers Also Are Named.

Corpus Christi, Tex., Nov. 21.—(AP)—A federal grand jury today indicted the Mexican rebel Gen. Saturnino Cedillo, three other Mexicans and two American aviators on a charge of conspiracy and violation of the American neutrality act of 1937.

The indictment, in effect, cut off a haven for the fugitive Mexican general, a former member of the cabinet of President Lazaro Cardenas. He will be subject to arrest if he forsakes the hills of central Mexico, where he is believed hiding, and attempts to join his family at McAllen, Tex.

Aviators Indicted.

Billed with Cedillo were Cloyd P. Clevenger, and Howard Frederick Klein of New York City, aviators; Maj. Adolpho Pina, Cedillo's personal pilot; a Mexican known only as "Mansivaias," and an unnamed Mexican.

The six persons were accused of transporting two American made airplanes to Gen. Cedillo's ranch near San Luis Potosi in violation of United States' neutrality.

Chicago Men Named.

It is charged that Clevenger and Klein made arrangements with a Chicago airplane manufacturing company for the purchase of the planes. The indictment named Ben Howard and Fred B. Novinger of the Howard Aircraft corporation, Chicago, as material witnesses.

The planes it is asserted, were flown from Chicago to a private landing field at San Antonio, Tex., where the last payment of $7,000 was made on them.

Of the six indicted only Clevenger and Pina are under arrest.

The agreement embraces cooperation in sports, literature, arts, music, drama, radio and similar cultural activities for the purpose of stimulating friendship between the two peoples. The pact is intended to strengthen the anti-communist pact entered into by the two governments.

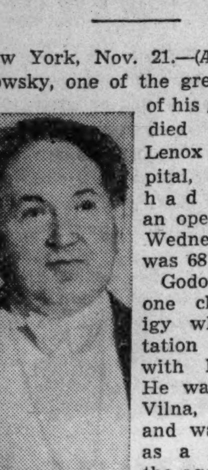
GODOWSKY, WHO WON WIDE FAME AS PIANIST, DIES

Composer Once Chicago Conservatory Director.

New York, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Leopold Godowsky, one of the great pianists of his generation, died today at Lenox Hill hospital, where he had undergone an operation last Wednesday. He was 68 years old.



Leopold Godowsky. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

Godowsky was one child prodigy whose reputation increased with his years. He was born in Vilna, Russia, and was touring as a pianist at the age of 9. But he continued study at the Berlin Hochschule, and later under Camille Saint-Saens, famous French pianist and composer.

Famed as Technician.

In his maturity, Godowsky was regarded as one of the greatest technicians in piano history. He also was a composer of note, a wit, and the friend of nearly all the important musicians of the world. His New York apartment was a center around which much of the city's music life turned.

In addition to long tours as a pianist, abandoned in his last few years, Godowsky found time to hold numerous professorships, and to compose an impressive list of works.

First U. S. Tour in 1884.

Godowsky's first American tour was in 1884. Later he headed the piano department of the Chicago Conservatory of Music for five years, beginning in 1895. Afterward he was director of the Imperial Royal Meisterschule for piano in Vienna, and professor of the highest rank in Austria, appointed by the emperor.

His wife, Frieda Saxe Godowsky, died in 1933. Three children, Dagmar, Leopold Jr., and Mrs. David Saperton, survive. Funeral services will be held here at 11:30 a. m. Wednesday.

WOMAN FOUND DEAD IN STREET IS IDENTIFIED

The body of a woman found dead under mysterious circumstances on Sunday in the 1200 block of Adams street was identified yesterday as Mrs. Martha Davis, 31 years old, the mother of a son, 11.

Mrs. Hazel O'Neill, 1843 Madison street, in whose home Mrs. Davis lived, and James O. Davis, 1639 South California avenue, identified the body. Davis is the nephew of Mrs. Davis' husband, Wren, an unemployed stationary engineer, who lives at the same address with his son, Kenneth, a ward of the Juvenile court. Wren Davis and Mrs. Davis have been separated for ten years.

Some uncertainty still surrounded the circumstances of Mrs. Davis' death, but the coroner's physician, Dr. Jerry Kearns, found that she had an enlarged heart, liver, and kidneys, which may have contributed to her death. Des Plaines street police doubted that she had been slain.

C. P. LIVINGSTON, EARLY KANKAKEE PUBLISHER, DIES

Kankakee, Ill., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—Charles P. Livingston, 97 years old, old-time newspaper publisher here, died in the veteran's hospital at Dwight today. He was the last civil war veteran in Kankakee county and had been a resident here for eighty-four years.

On his return from the war, Mr. Livingston was employed by the Kankakee Gazette, where he had worked as a printer before the war. In 1869 he purchased the Kankakee Times, a weekly, and in 1885 he established the Daily Times, the first daily newspaper in Kankakee county. He is survived by his four children, Charles and Anna of Chicago, John of Miami, Fla., and Emma of Kankakee.

Freddie Bartholomew's Adoption Upheld on Appeal

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 21.—(AP)—The adoption of Actor Freddie Bartholomew by his Aunt Myllicent is entirely legal, the District Court of Appeals held today in a decision denying the attempt of the boy's parents to have a Superior court adoption set aside. Myllicent Bartholomew, who reared Freddie from babyhood, became his legal, as well as actual, guardian early last year, despite the plea of Cecil and Lillian Bartholomew.

ATATURK GIVEN FUNERAL FINER THAN SULTANS'

ANKARA, Turkey, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Funeral honors surpassing those once given to Ottoman sultans were accorded to Kemal Ataturk today in this modern capital he created from a village.

Only a gold medal given him by the nation in appreciation of his leadership in the "war of independence" was displayed.

Distinguished foreign representatives at the ceremonies included the Greek dictator, John Metaxas. Tens of thousands of Turks joined in the elaborate services, for which the government appropriated $500,000. The body arrived yesterday from Istanbul, where Ataturk died. Until a mausoleum is constructed, a burial niche was designated in the ethnographic museum.

ORDER 63 MILK QUIZ DEFENDANTS ARRAIGNED DEC. 5

Arraignment of sixty-three defendants indicted recently by the federal grand jury in connection with its investigation of the Chicago milk and ice cream industries has been set for Dec. 5, United States District Attorney Michael L. Igoe said yesterday. The milk case defendants will face Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan and those in the ice cream cases will go before Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward.

Judge Sullivan yesterday began hearings on objections to a report by Master in Chancery Charles A. McDonald, recommending dismissal of an injunction suit of the Lake Valley Farm Products company and associated concerns against the milk wagon drivers' union. The companies contend that McDonald erred in holding that the litigation grew out of a labor dispute.

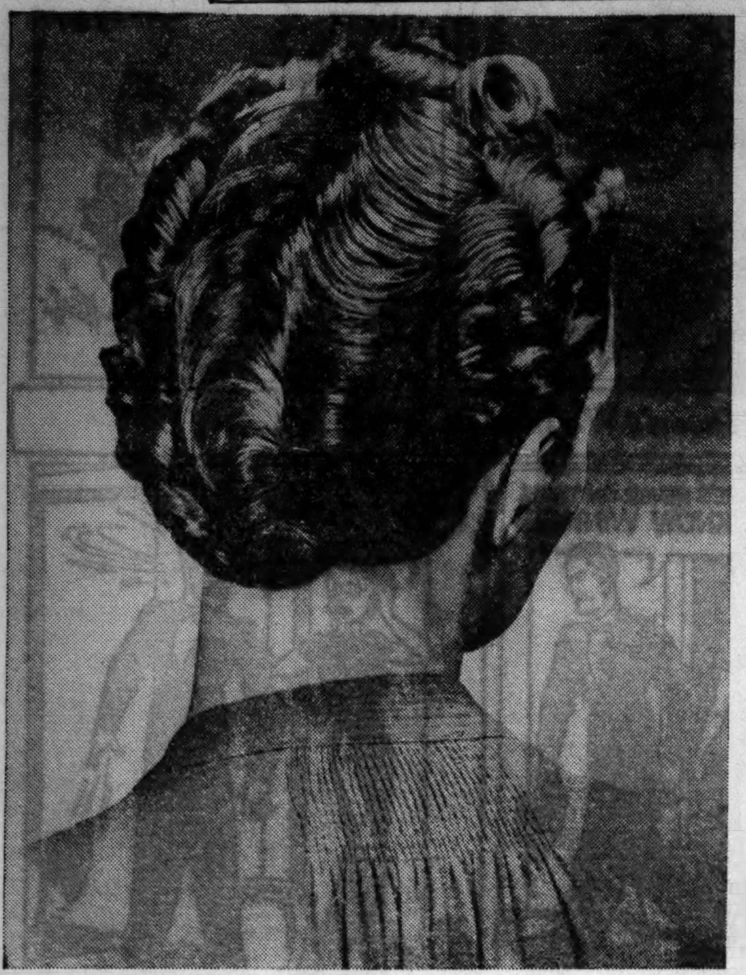
THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS



[TRIBUNE Studio Photos.]

Above are two views of a beautiful, conservative adaptation of the upward trend in hairdress. It is off the neck, the first requirement of the currently fashionable hair arrangement, but it is not impractically piled high. Hair in back is swirled softly from right to left. In the front arrangement there is a distinct feeling of height, but there is no sacrifice of softness. This is a coiffure easy to maintain, and as suitable for business as for dressier occasions.

White Elephant Shop to Mark 20th Birthday

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE world war is blamed for many things, good and bad, so it wasn't startling to hear yesterday from Mrs. Samuel T. Chase that it was the war that really was responsible for the White Elephant Rummage shop.

Every one would agree, I'm sure, that this shop is one of the very best things credited to the war. The shop has given thousands of dollars to the Children's Memorial hospital since the day it was opened twenty years ago, and in addition it has been the means of supplying all sorts of things to people who wanted them at bargain prices. The shop, of course, is stocked with articles that are white elephants to those who donate them, but that are luxuries or necessities to those who buy them.

The shop was the outgrowth of a Thrift shop conducted for the benefit of the Red Cross during the war years, although the woman's board of the hospital had been conducting annual rummage sales for several years before that. The idea of having a permanent sale, however, was the result of the Red Cross' successful shop, so Mrs. Chase is right when she says the war brought the Rummage shop at 27 East Ohio street.

Tea Will Celebrate Twentieth Anniversary.

The shop was opened on Nov. 29, 1918, just a little over two weeks after the signing of the armistice, so next Tuesday the shop will celebrate its 20th anniversary. To mark the occasion the committee that runs the shop has issued invitations to a tea at 4 o'clock next Tuesday at the Casino. Something to be sold at the shop is the card of admittance. The 20th is the china anniversary, but the committee is not soliciting china especially; any and everything will be welcome.

Promptly at 4:30 o'clock a program of entertainment will be started. Three professional dancers will demonstrate the rhumba and the Lambeth walk and meantime tea will be served from the club's attractive little bar. Mrs. Frank Hibbard, chairman of the committee that has planned the party, is going to have a bevy of buds assisting in serving the tea.

It was somewhat of a surprise to old friends of the Rummage shop to discover that the invitations were just ordinary ones except for nine little white elephants with trunks held high marching across a black border at the top of the invitation. Mrs. Chase usually writes rhymed invitations for the committee. Mrs. Chase was one of the original committee that founded the shop and so was Mrs. Hibbard. As a matter of fact, most of the others on today's committee were on the original one, too, among them Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, Mrs. Augustus K. Maxwell, Mrs. Edward F. Carry, Mrs. John A. Spoor, Mrs. Frederick W. Upham, Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine, Mrs. Secor Cunningham, Mrs. Charles K. Foster, Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mrs. Harold A. Howard, Mrs. Frederick H. Rawson, and Mrs. Joseph H. King.

Pianists' Rivalry.

Mention was made of Paderewski and the movie in which he appears, Moonlight Sonata, and Ezio Pinza who, with Carleton Smith, dropped into Mrs. Ford Carter's little cocktail party at the Casino told of the time both Paderewski and the late Vladimir de Pachmann gave concerts the same evening. Paderewski played to a crowded house; de Pachmann to a small audience. They had supper together afterward.

"Ah, it is I who can play piano, you who draw the crowd," sighed de Pachmann to his supper companion.

La Salle Street Sloucher.

Next time you walk down La Salle street look about you for examples of the La Salle street slouch. This is a peculiar manner of walking affected by many men whose business keeps them on the famous street. . . . When walking they lean forward or backward from the waist, with their heads cocked sideways. Their hands are sometimes clasped behind either under or over their coats. . . . The final identification is the hat, generally gray or brown, with an exceptionally wide brim turned up all around. The crown is the symbol of the sloucher's dress that voices his rebellion at having to be so meticulously dressed daily. It is carefully thumped into a misshapen mass until its grotesque shape rivals some of the sillier Paris creations for women.

Mississippians.

The second grade pupils of Jenner school were making a farm project on the sand table, busily working on the buildings, crops, and animals. Two small boys, recent arrivals from Mississippi, didn't seem to enter into the spirit of the enterprise. When the teacher asked why, one of them said: "Well, teacher, I can't see where you all are a growin' the cotton or storin' the sorghum."

"An' you certainly need a mule," offered the other.

Cuff Notes.

Madame Flagstad, the greatest living dramatic soprano, is the Garbo of the opera . . . because her privacy is so closely guarded. . . . Edwin McArthur, her tall, spectacled accompanist, who made his bow as opera conductor in Lohengrin last night, is a buffer between her and the public. He studied Lohengrin under Wilhelm Furtwaengler at Bayreuth, by the way. . . . Yesterday at noon Madame Flagstad received a very few friends in her suite at the Blackstone and they drank champagne to the success of the evening's performance. . . . Prettiest corsage of the week, the madonna lily corsage Mrs. Pierpont Morgan Hamilton wore on her silver fox wrap at luncheon at the Arts club yesterday. . . . Eyetaking—the short bright plaid jacket Gertrude Lawrence carried as an extra jacket, and her cufflinks, large gold letters "G." and "L." in the respective cuffs. . . . Knute Rockne's widow shopping for gifts. . . . Admiral Byrd eating pheasant at the Pump room. . . . Short story writer Scott Corbett hastening to a train, a portable typewriter in his hand. . . . Innumerable readers have visited Bird-in-Hand, Pa., yesterday's mail discloses. It's a little village, named for an old inn which once served travelers between Lancaster and Philadelphia. To visit it now one must choose between passing through Paradise, Pa., on U. S. 30, or taking the old road north through White Horse and on to Bird-in-Hand. The two villages and a third, Intercourse, named for the meeting of two rivers since dried up, are populated by Amish people, with their plain clothes and long beards.

Flagstad Debut as Elsa Reveals Silvery Voice

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Isolde is angry or wildly excited much of the time and is compelled to voice her anger or excitement in the stormiest sort of chromatics. Therefore those members of last night's Civic Opera house audience who had heard Kirsten Flagstad only in "Tristan and Isolde" were astonished at the lyric loveliness of her Elsa. This, by the way, was the first Chicago "Lohengrin" in which Mme. Flagstad has participated.

One of the passages in which the silvered smoothness of the voice was most apparent came when Elsa emerged onto her second act balcony before dawn [nobody in "Lohengrin" seems to get any sleep]. There was some of this silver in the first act "Dream," of course, although Mme. Flagstad kept it more heroic than lyrical. A confident, striding rhythm characterized much of the song.

Among the evening's most expressive bits of singing was the ecstatic observation which signalized Elsa's realization of the fact that her knight had pricked the other knight and that she was, according to the quaint judicial notions of the time, cleared of all suspicion of crime. The phrase carried so great a burden of sudden happiness that almost any voice but Flagstad's would have cracked under the load.

Rene Maison, a scrupulous artist whose distinction of style more than compensates for the lack of chocolatey voice quality, played a courtly and heroic Lohengrin. George Czaplicki made Telramund histrionically dignified and musically rich. Eleanor La Mance's Ortrud boasted a passionate sweep and a profusion of splendidly textured vocal effects. The passionate sweep it is true, occasionally swept her a trifle away from the pitch.

John Gurney discovered in the King's music opportunities for songful, grateful delivery which some of our Kings have missed. Daniel Harris was a good herald, although a little more resonance on his part would have given the fellow's pronouncements a greater effectiveness.

Edwin McArthur, Kirsten Flagstad's accompanist, made at this performance his Chicago debut as conductor. His fine rhythmic sense moved the excited bits along in capital fashion. He dwelled appreciatively on the opera's purple patches, but not to the extent of sentimentalizing them. The brasses and woodwinds of the orchestra did not invariably behave for him as brasses and woodwinds should.

The ballet-opera program for tonight has been canceled.

BY CECIL SMITH.

If the administration down in Washington has a leg left to stand on this morning, so far as the 3,500 Chicagoans who wedged themselves into a packed Auditorium theater last night are concerned, it is not the fault of George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart, who wrote "I'd Rather Be Right," or of George M. Cohan and the group of skilled associates who hurled the authors' lampoons out into the audience with unerring aim.

A brilliant array of spectators foregathered to witness the opening performance of this much heralded transmutation of national politics into the shape and form of satiric musical comedy. Former Gov. Alfred M. Landon was on hand to see himself on the stage in the guise of President Roosevelt's mother's butler. Mayor Kelly, in the fourth row, laughed with hearty humor as the Democratic party was stripped of all dignity and divorced from all reason.

Square in the center of things from beginning to end is George M. Cohan as the President of the United States. His performance is an unbelievable masterpiece. Keeping every word and every movement the quintessence of good taste, he accomplishes the impossible in creating a figure of the President who is always the man we know, even in his zaniest moments, and yet who is always equally the effervescent, frolicsome song-and-dance man we expect George M. Cohan to be.

He remains perfectly in character as the self-destructive remarks the authors have given him fall from his lips with the most casual naturalness. Yet at the same time he takes the audience into his confidence in the most intimate way, reminding every one by a twinkling eye, a sidewise glance, a crook of his finger, or a twirl of his cane, that the whole business is to be taken as a good-natured spoof. Then, just before the first act curtain, he spins into a period of old time hoofing so engaging, so deft and utterly carefree that some of us youngsters realized that we really became acquainted with the theater too late.

And so, as you may have guessed, it turns out to be Mr. Cohan's show much more than Mr. Kaufman's and Mr. Hart's. The book itself hangs on so slender a thread of plot that it probably could not have existed long on its own intrinsic merits. The notion of peopling a musical satire with dignitaries importantly in the focus of national attention is boldly amusing to begin with, to be sure. But the very weight of the political subject matter itself is too cumbersome for the framework on which it hangs.

Out in Central Park, New York, a boy and a girl bewail their inability to get married until a well balanced national budget comes to pass, enabling the boy's boss to raise his salary above $18 a week.

The incidents of the play all stem from President Roosevelt's futile attempts to get the budget balanced, for no better reason than to enable two stock juvenile characters, for whom we have no more than the most conventionalized sympathy, to get married. During cabinet meetings, discussions and casual backtalk, the boy and the girl stand vacuously on the sidelines, uttering methodical and repeated expressions of despair.

Without the enormous and legitimate audience appeal of its wittily handled subject matter, "I'd Rather Be Right" would seem the most static musical comedy in the history of the stage. The song and dance episodes—too few in number—are lugged in artificially, tossed off with expert showmanship, and quickly forgotten as irrelevancies to the main business at hand.

The political conversations would have been given a more reasonable milieu by such an author as S. N. Behrman, and the musical elements cry aloud for a context in which they can really be part of the story.

The net result, then, is that "I'd Rather Be Right" provides an enormously enjoyable evening in spite of being one of the clumsiest and most unnatural jobs of dramatic construction I can remember running across. Every important member of the cast is exceedingly good, with Taylor Holmes as Secretary Morgenthau and Bijou Fernandez as Madam Secretary Perkins bringing down the house with particular aplomb.

Charles Weidman's comic choreography for the routine in the "Spring in Milwaukee" number, a brief shaft at WPA theatricals, is danced with gorgeous travesty by Margaret Sande, Don Cater and an excellent ensemble. Georgie Tapps gets in some flamboyant tap dancing. Except for a few minutes here and there, I fear the musical score of the usually scintillant Richard Rodgers will have to be classed as a pot-boiler.

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

Behind the Scenes

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 21.—One of the truly fine performances of the year slipped by quite unheeded. I'm referring now to the performance of Bob Burns in "Arkansas Traveler," a Paramount picture directed by Alfred Santell. Agreeing that the story wasn't airtight, you must concede in addition, that Burns, in this flicker, turned in one of the grander portraits of the celluloid year. Inevitably Burns must be compared with Will Rogers, and while comparisons in general are odious, the comparison in this instance flatters the living man, because Burns in this was greater than Rogers. No deeper compliment can be extended than that.

What was most impressive in Burns' work in this picture was his artistic honesty in interpreting the character of the tramp printer. The temptation to trick it up with vaudeville coloring must have been great, but Burns instead underscored it, to achieve a character study of warmth, honesty, and deep appeal. It is an amazing thing that this vaudeville veteran, never more than a musical monologist, has advanced so far in the space of a few Hollywood years. You can lay it to the very certain theatrical instinct that he has. He has theatrical "savvy."

Vaudeville has been praised time and again as a stage incubator. No doubt but that it was a great training school. No doubt either that vaudeville turned out more pure "ham" than any other incubator. Performers overacted abominably; it was a school of physical and emotional exaggeration. Actors thought nothing of bringing out their mothers, their fathers, and even their little children at the end of a vaudeville act, to win applause. So the amazing thing to me is that vaudeville graduates such as Bob Burns show no ill effects of their matriculation in the school of two-a-day vaudeville. Will Rogers, for instance, was not so lucky. He had certain "corney" characteristics of vaudeville: The cowlick over the forehead, the so-called sly grin, other little affectations that were pure "corn" and very popular. To the discriminating, however, Bob Burns is the greater performer of the two because he avoids these things.

Not so many months ago I spoke at a dinner at which Bob Burns was the pièćé de résistancé of the evening, and curiously enough, he chose as his topic—Will Rogers. "When Rogers died," started Burns, "a lot of professional weepers got on radio programs and informed the country how close they were to Will. Of course, they rehersed the weeping in the afternoon so that they could weep better on the air that night. I've always felt a little better because I didn't try to cash in on my acquaintanceship with Will Rogers. You see, I played in a picture with him, 'Connecticut Yankee,' but I never tried to capitalize on that accident of casting. It made me feel a little cleaner."

He used to be a waiter at the Trocadero, and he and I became friendly during a year of dropping in on my part. Then he lost his job and I didn't see him again until one night, some weeks back, when we attended the Phil Harris opening at the Wilshire bowl. There was my Italian waiter, and the enjoyment was mutual. He was bursting with excitement. He finally had saved enough money and the following week [he fairly shouted it] he was going to open his own restaurant. "Spaghetti, of course?" "The very best, Mister Sullivan." "Antipasto?" "Such as will melt in your mouth, Mist' Sullivan." There was only one drawback: He had not had enough money to secure a liquor license, so for the first year he would have only red wine and light cocktails.

The other night six of us went to the Chianti restaurant [the address is 7383 Melrose avenue] and found our Romeo Salta waiting proudly at the door of the little corner store which his savings had converted into a restaurant. The Italian dinner he served was a gastronomic treat. The spaghetti was homemade and as light as an April wind. The chicken caccatori melted in your mouth, and the red wine must have come from a harvest of particularly happy grapes. He fairly danced to the epicurean praise of Groucho Marx and Al Ritz. We're going back there again this week, because the food is really wonderful, and it's nice to get the Romeo Saltas of the world started in their own businesses. Some day, when he is a famous restaurateur, he will remember to save us a corner table.

A Door Closed Softly

By Alice Campbell

[Copyright, 1938, By Alice Ormond Campbell.]

SYNOPSIS.

David Beddoes, young American, and his cousin, Alison Young, going to a party at Lady Wibbe's, stumble by mistake into the house next door. While they are talking to the spinsterish woman who receives them they hear a woman scream and a body fall. The spinster explains it is a parrot. Young Penelope Wibbe says their strange neighbors have no parrot. But they acquire one next day. David learns his former love, Betsy Greentree, lives in the mysterious house. Betsy's father died after losing his money. While traveling in Europe with her aunt, Fanny Rush, Betsy met and married an Englishman, Geoffrey Scarpath. David sends a letter to Betsy which is unanswered. He confronts Scarpath who explains that Betsy is suffering from a chronic nervous condition and can have no visitors, that she is being cared for by his sister Evie. David gains a secret interview with Betsy and learns she is miserably unhappy. When the specialist, Dr. Broderick, insists on her taking the medicine which always makes her feel worse, Betsy grows desperate. Alison's friend, Dr. Colin Ladbroke, leaving her flat one night, finds Betsy unconscious on the threshold. Revived she explains Penelope helped her escape. Under their care Betsy rapidly improves. Colin learns Dr. Broderick is a drug addict. Fanny Rush arrives and stays with Geoffrey, whom she admires. When Geoffrey learns she intends to disinherit Betsy he kills her. Broderick has the body cremated. Under pretext that Fanny is dying and calling for her, Geoffrey gets Betsy to go off with him. Drugged and unconscious she is taken home and from there by ambulance to a private nursing home, with Evie as nurse. Penelope Wibbe sees them leaving. David, Colin, and Alison trace the ambulance to the home. They see Evie in an upper back room.

INSTALMENT LVI.

DANGERS AHEAD.

Now Alison understood the men with whom they were dealing, and felt a deadly sickness at the pit of her stomach. This crazy attempt they were planning—how could it come to anything when triumph, even of a negative sort, must hinge entirely on the actual witnessing of malpractice.

As Colin said, one creak, one shadow, and like lightning every wrong sign would be cleared away. Extremely doubtful if they so much as set eyes on the victim. A rumpus would mean the police, automatically siding with the husband and physician. Three invaders clapped into jail. Before they were formally charged, Elizabeth would be dead—of natural causes.

To be caught at all spelled wreckage. Without having saved Elizabeth, David would forfeit his job—be hounded back across the Atlantic in penniless disgrace. She, Alison, would find herself in like case, though that didn't worry her. The worst sufferer would be Colin.

He must be aware of her torment on his account, for in the car, at midnight, he said quietly, "Now, none of that! Think I'd be doing this if there was any other way?"

"I know! O, I know! But if you do slip up?"

He did not answer—for the best of reasons. Had he not admitted he might never secure one iota of proof? It was true Bream had discovered, an hour ago, the doctor who had furnished the other signature on Fanny's death certificate—a thoroughly reputable man called Barkstone, but if Barkstone, viewing the remains, had felt any qualms, was it likely at this date he would confess to them? It would ruin him.

No, the one accomplished murder was sealed up—for eternity. Since the two criminals were as safe as in a fortified castle, there was every promise the second murder would be equally water tight.

The mist had cleared, leaving the night moonless and densely dark. One tiny point in their favor. Cat burglars, thought Alison ruefully, must be feeling the same satisfaction. Still too early. An hour to be got through—and what an hour, dawdling over coffee in a dreary hotel lounge far up in Highgate, where Bream was waiting for them, smoking in jerks, watching the clock!

"She'll snuff out like a candle. . . ."

More than sixteen hours ago Colin had said this. Was that why he had not spoken two sentences, why at this moment he was sitting here with the look of doom in his face, stubbing out one half smoked cigaret after another? Alison stole a glance at him—and felt another, quite different pain in her breast.

It was so what at first she had suspected. Now she knew what had so changed him, why he was risking all he had built up. It was not just any life he was wanting to save. It was Elizabeth's life. He, no less than David, had fallen miserably, despairingly in love—and that love would shipwreck him.

"And I believed . . . but how could I be such an imbecile?" She choked down the reflection with might and main. "That'll do! Is this the time to be wasting tears on my unimportant little self? I'll go on. She, poor infant. . . ."

"One o'clock. Let's go."

It was Bream who gave the signal, closing his watch with a snap. They blundered out to the car, and swiftly, with sureness this time, made for the nursing home. They came to a halt thirty yards beyond.

"Now follow me," bade Bream, casting his eye along the empty road. "And mind the gate. It creaks."

The gate in question led to the deserted premises adjoining the nursing home, and was propped open to insure a noiseless entry. In they filed, took the left fork of a paved path, and round the lee of the house found two ladders—on short, one long—hired by Bream from a local builder and stowed here after dark.

"No one saw me," the detective affirmed. "In fact, there's nothing to suggest those next door have the remotest suspicion they've been tracked. It's our sole advantage, but it won't get us inside if we make a single sound. Wait here till I have a look at the back windows."

His rubber soled shoes bore him softly into the blacker shadows. Alison's heart pounded, her mouth felt parched. Would it be possible to cart this long ladder all that distance without giving an alarm? In the other garden were invisible pitfalls—rough tussocks, dead flowerstalks. A stumble in the dark . . .

Colin, low voiced and stern, was driving home last minute orders to David.

"You understand, don't you, it's absolutely vital for me to go first?"

"O, I've got it! But if they turn rough?"

"If you expect to save her, wait till I shout. Here's Bream. Well, what's the verdict?"

"Dim light in the middle windows?" whispered Bream. "May mean a watcher who's awake. Sashes both raised, curtains pushed back. Is it what you were expecting?"

Colin nodded significantly, and hauled David down.

"Better give them longer. I'm hoping to catch them asleep."

They continued to crouch in the cold and damp. Alison's teeth started to chatter. Colin wound his woolen scarf round her shoulders and handed her his pocket flash.

Again Bream crept away, and again returned with a sign which brought them to their feet, stiff and aching with cramp. The light still burned, it appeared, so they must take their chance. David and Colin took off their coats and passed them to Alison. Both wore dark sweaters, and loomed there like a couple of thugs.

"Get back to the car," muttered Colin, and Alison, dismissed, stole wretchedly out to the street.

Huddled behind the wheel, she peered forward, straining her ears. Her practical mind foresaw only ruthless consequences for all concerned. Catch the plotters off guard? No fear! They were astute men, and each had everything to lose.

She had a crushed conviction that those entering the room would find a small body laid out for burial.

"With not a sign to show murder's been done."

Poor little Elizabeth! She had grown so genuinely fond of her. Not her fault these terrible things had come about. Gay, unselfish Betsy—fashioned for life and love and fiendishly cheated out of both! Alison, herself cheated, bit her cold knuckles and sobbed under her breath.

. . . .

Hoisting the longer ladder over the wall was nothing compared with the tortuous process of lugging it silently to the house. A good forty yards to be covered—all in the open. The ground looked uneven, and the central glimmer of light had not been extinguished.

The trio halted for a final survey of the dangers ahead, and through the right hand window saw a pendant electric bulb, encased in a brown paper cone. It swayed in the wind which had risen, but no eclipse occurred to suggest movement inside the room. Dead quiet reigned. At a gesture from Colin they picked up their burden and crept forward.

You Are Seated Third of Day, So Watch the Posture

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Probably more relaxation in connection with beauty care is achieved when we women sit than at other times. When we sit down, we are concentrating on work, say, or sewing, reading, etc. We forget the advice about the importance of the sitting posture.

When you think of how many there are of us who sit virtually eight hours out of the twenty-four, which is exactly one-third of our day, you can see how sitting posture sins and penalties mount up. Sitting every day, every week, for eight hours huddled over the desk or typewriter with rounded shoulders, curved spines, chest, and abdomen constricted, is not very helpful, you'll admit, to exuberance, vitality, what you need.

"Offhand," says one of our authorities, "there doesn't seem to be much that can be done in the way of adding to one's fitness during the working hours. But you can, if you will, observe the following correct sitting position:

"Sit well and firmly back on the seat, with the weight of your trunk supported by your hip bones and thighs, with your neck and spine in a straight line. You should be able to draw in and hold a deep breath without the slightest feeling of discomfort or restriction. Now contract the abdominal muscles. This is the perfect sitting position for health. By sitting this way the lungs are permitted to expand properly and the stomach organs are kept in proper place, thus avoiding many digestive disturbances."

Our authority recommends relaxing exercise as part of every sedentary worker's campaign for fitness while he or she works. Clasp the hands behind the back, then stretch the arms upward. This will counteract the tendency to be round shouldered and will relieve the feeling of strain on the shoulders and arms. To relax the neck muscles, tilt the head backward as far as possible and turn gently from side to side. Both exercises may be done while sitting.

BLAKE ANSWERS

Better Be a Good Loser.

"Dear Miss Blake: I have sent my friend three letters since she went away. She hasn't written. I love her. What should I do?

HEARTBROKEN D."

If she were at all interested in you she'd have answered your first letter. Better be a good loser.

Good Morning!

KIND: Comedy, intended, I imagine, as a satire on psychology.

DIRECTION: Adequate.

SETS, SOUND, PHOTOGRAPHY, ETC.: Satisfactory.

STORY: A famous doctor is summoned to the country estate of the wealthy Mrs. Berry to psychoanalyze her adolescent son, Randolph, who refuses to get out of bed. . . . The doc recommends for the overprivileged patient a dose of underprivileged youngsters. . . . They arrive—six lads from New York's east side, wanted by the police for wrecking a factory, and seizing on the opportunity offered by Mrs. Berry, who applies at a settlement house, as a chance to escape crusading officers. . . . Does choas descend on the home of that worthy lady!

The story has moments of interest, but, really, just doesn't get anywhere.

Family Addicted to Drink Can Do Harm to Daughter

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

"I am very much in love with a girl of 17. I am 23. For the past five months I have been going around with her and have been introduced to her parents and brother and sister. To my utter dismay, I discovered that her parents are habitual alcoholics.

"I feel sorry for the girl. She never touches a drop, does not smoke and is of fine moral character. But here's my problem:

"My parents have been introduced to my girl. They like her but all they know of her background is what I tell them and I have never revealed the home condition to them.

"In spite of their failings, the girl loves her parents and would deeply resent criticism. What shall I do?

APPRECIATIVE."

That is a situation, Appreciative! What infinite harm drinking parents do their young! If only they could understand that their vice may stand in the way of their girl's future happiness! It is a terrifying prospect a sweetheart or fiancé faces.

The saving grace in your particular situation, Appreciative, is that the girl is but 17 and that is an age at which we think is not quite fair to ask of her a life decision.

She may change within the next year or so. You may.

But we feel that if you choose to continue with her and realize that one day your parents will find out the truth, it were better to come from your lips with an appeal from you to help remove the girl from her sad environment.

sador East. Mrs. George Senseney is in charge of the party, at which a Rhett Butler and Scarlett O'Hara will be chosen.

Going on the theory that it will be at least 10 or 12 years before the picture is produced, the entries in the contest will be boys and girls of not more than 12 years.

Children of the members of the various committees have been invited, and ice cream and cake will be served. The talent scout who will choose Rhett and Scarlett is Freddie Batholomew, here from Hollywood on a personal appearance tour.

Mrs. Robert S. Pirie, who arrived yesterday from New York to spend Thanksgiving with her mother, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, is not seeing much of Mrs. Carpenter. Mrs. Carpenter is busy with her duties as chairman of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society benefit. The benefit is to be the opening night of the Ballet Russe on Dec. 19 at the Auditorium.

Mrs. Carpenter will take time off from her work on Thanksgiving to have her entire family for dinner. Mr. Pirie is joining his wife for the holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. Pierpont Morgan Hamilton were to fly back to their home in New York last night following the performance of "Lohengrin" in the Civic Opera house. They came to Chicago especially to hear their friend, Kirsten Flagstad, sing the rôle of Elsa, and to see another friend, Edwin McArthur, conduct.

Mrs. Phillip Maher is leaving today for Boston to spend Thanksgiving with her son, who goes to Milton academy. She will spend the week-end in New York with the former Betty Field and her husband, Edward Finan.

Abbe Dimnet to give Benefit Lecture Today.

The committee in charge of the benefit lecture-luncheon to be given today for Orphans of the Storm has arranged it so that the affair will be concluded at 2 o'clock, enabling Tuesday concert subscribers to reach Orchestra hall by 2:15. The benefit is to be given in the grand ballroom of the Drake hotel. The Abbé Ernest Dimnet, well known as a lecturer and an author, will be the lecturer and his subject will be "What the Map of Europe Says."

Mrs. Robert R. McCormick and Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin head the committee that planned the benefit. Miss Mildred FitzHugh has been their chief assistant, and among those who have worked with her are Mrs. J. Lithgow Mitchell, Mrs. Owen B. Jones, Mrs. Proehl Jaklon, and Miss Sylvia Peter. Miss Peter has enlisted the aid of a group of young women to usher and to sell cigarets. In the group are Mrs. Jay Morse Ely Jr., Mrs. Charles H. Morse Jr., Mrs. Jefferson Currier, Mrs. Robert F. Carr Jr., Miss Phyllis Peter, and Miss Valeria Harris.

Tonight the abbe will be one of the special guests at the Society of Midland Authors' first dinner of the season at the Tavern club. Members of the society who just have published books also will be especial guests. They are Kenneth Horan, the new president of the organization, Margaret Ayer Barnes, Dorothy Aldis, Frances Doocan, and Florence Atwater.

Clothes for Girl and Doll

GIRL'S DRESS AND DOLL CLOTHES.

We are offering two patterns today, one for the style conscious little girl and the other for her doll. Because Christmas is not very far away, we suppose that both mothers and daughters are more interested at the present time in togs for the doll, so we'll begin by describing her ensemble. The pattern includes a complete wardrobe for dolls measuring 14, 16, 18, and 20 inches. [See pattern envelope for yardage requirements.] The perky flared sleeved dress has a tied neckline. The combination undergarments cut in one piece. The suspender dress has a tailored shirt blouse. The jumper also is a one piece affair. For outdoors, Dolly may wear a coat with raglan sleeves and a bonnet to match.

The girl's dress consists of three pieces—a flared skirt, contrasting tailored blouse, and a brief bolero. An interesting scheme is to fashion the skirt of plaid woolen, the bolero of harmonizing velveteen, and the blouse of light sheer with soft ruffling for trimming.

The pattern for doll clothes is No. 2965.

Pattern No. 2077 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10, 12, and 14 years. Size 8 requires ⅞ yard of 39 inch material for the skirt, ¾ yard of 39 inch fabric for the bolero jacket, and 1⅛ yards of 35 inch material for the blouse, with 2¼ yards of ruffling.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Try those pretty new paper place mats if you do your own laundry and see how much time and work you can save yourself. These mats are so inexpensive and attractive, and they're specially treated so they may be wiped off a few times with a damp cloth. You can get paper napkins to match.

There is a charming little design with children's figures on it for youngsters' parties. And if you have the lovely old blue and white willow-ware china, you'll like to choose the place mats having this same design. Again matching napkins are available.

For dinette or kitchen use you'll select the gay Swedish figures in light blue, yellow and red on a white background. For an informal luncheon there is an artistic pattern of willow trees. They are all so cheap you can keep an ample supply on hand.

Cut a pomegranate in two sometime and serve it for dessert, one half to a person. A spoon should accompany each portion. Both seeds and juice are eaten when pomegranates are served in this way.

The pomegranate seeds often are sprinkled over fruit salads or fruit desserts as an edible garnish. But the pomegranate juice contained in the seeds is better liked than the seeds themselves.

The juice may be extracted with an orange and lemon juice extractor for use as a cocktail beverage. The color is a deep, beautiful red, and the flavor is quite tart. Alone or combined with orange or pineapple juice, pomegranate juice is a very appetizing drink. Sometimes a cocktail is made by boiling the seeds in water until color and flavor have been extracted, straining out the seeds, then adding a little sugar and a dash of lemon juice and chilling the beverage very thoroughly. The juice usually goes farther this way because it is more dilute.

Jellied salads and desserts are lovely in color and pleasant in flavor when pomegranate juice is used as part of the liquid in them. I prefer plain, unflavored gelatin rather than the prepared gelatin mixes for such salads and desserts because the sweet, ready flavored, prepared gelatins mask and spoil the flavor of the pomegranate in most instances. If a flavored gelatin is used, lemon gives pretty good results.

Pomegranate Fruit Salad.
[Serves six.]

1 tablespoon plain, unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold water
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup hot water
¾ cup pomegranate juice
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 3-ounce cake cream cheese
1 avocado, thinly sliced
1 persimmon, thinly sliced
1 fresh or canned pear, sliced
2 slices pineapple, cut in pieces
½ cup halved, seeded Morocco grapes
½ cup cream, whipped

Soak gelatin for five minutes in cold water. Add hot water to gelatin, sugar and salt, and dissolve completely in the top of a double boiler over hot water. Remove from heat and add pomegranate juice and lemon juice. Soften cream cheese with a little of this mixture and mix until creamy. Let first mixture stand in a cold place until it begins to thicken, then fold in cream cheese and whipped cream, which have been combined. Add fruits, pour into a ring mold or individual molds to chill. Turn out on salad greens and serve with a dressing composed of equal parts mayonnaise and whipped cream.

The foregoing salad is one I served last Thanksgiving, and one or two of my guests still remember it. Therefore I do not hesitate to recommend it for other Thanksgiving feasts. Pomegranate Ice is another welcome dish at Thanksgiving dinner. It may be served with the meat or as dessert.

Freezermade Pomegranate Ice.

3 cups water
2 cups sugar
2 cups pomegranate juice
½ teaspoon vanilla
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Few drops red coloring.

Boil sugar and water together for ten minutes. Add other ingredients, strain and freeze, using three parts ice to one part salt.

This ice may be made with good results in the freezing tray of the refrigerator if it is beaten or thoroughly stirred several times during freezing.

LAST TUESDAY'S QUESTION.

Question 33: With only East-West vulnerable, the bidding proceeds:

West	North	East	South
1 spade	Pass	Pass	?

You are South and hold:

♠ 10 5 ♥ A J 8 ♦ K 10 9 8 4 ♣ K 10 3

What call do you make?

[Answer at end of this article.]

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question 39: You are West, defending against three no trump. Your hand and dummy are as follows:

Dummy
♠ 6 3 2
♦ A J 10 9 5

You, West
♠ Q 10 9 8 5
♥ Q 6
♦ K 8 2
♣ K 10 7

You originally led the spade ten. Your partner played the seven and declarer won with the jack. Now declarer leads the diamond seven. What card do you [West] play, and why?

TODAY'S HAND.

East, dealer.

NORTH
♥ 9 7 4
♦ A Q 10 5
♣ K 9 8 5

WEST
♠ 10 8 6 4
♦ J 7 4 3 2

♠ Q J 3
♥ A J 10 8 6
♦ K 9 8 6
♣ A

SOUTH
♥ K Q 5
♦ None
♣ Q J 10 7 3 2

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 heart	Double	Pass	2 diamonds
Pass	3 clubs	Pass	4 clubs
Pass	4 spades	Pass	5 clubs [final bid]

West opened the three of hearts East won with the ace and promptly returned the heart jack. Declarer won with the king and, instead of blindly leading trumps, considered the implications of the first two tricks. It was completely obvious that West originally had held a doubleton heart. East had bid the suit and West had opened the three spot, playing the deuce to the next trick. Since East must have started with at least four hearts, West's three undoubtedly was his top card and the deuce his only remaining heart. The ace of clubs was marked in East's hand because of the opening bid. If declarer now led a trump, East would win and return another heart. If West had started with two clubs [which was very likely, since he was short of hearts] declarer's heart queen would be ruffed away for defenders' third trick.

Certainly there was nothing very difficult about this reasoning and, once having reached the proper conclusion, declarer went about protecting himself. Instead of leading a trump, he cashed the ace and king of spades, then ruffed a spade with dummy's club eight. The diamond ace then was cashed and declarer discarded his good heart queen. Only after that white elephant had been discarded did declarer lead a trump. East's ace won and a heart was returned, but now it was a simple matter for declarer to ruff in with a high trump and the rest of the play was automatic.

Tomorrow's Hand

SOUTH

♣ 7 4 3

Mr. Culbertson will discuss this hand in tomorrow's column.

ANSWER TO LAST TUESDAY'S QUESTION.

Answer: You should double. True, you have only two-plus honor tricks, but these are sufficient for a double in this particular position, i. e., after the one spade bid has been passed all around. It is quite possible that partner [North] is anxious to play against one spade doubled, and since the opponents are vulnerable, if he chooses to convert your double into the penalty variety by passing, a substantial penalty should result. [Ten points demerit for two diamonds; 15 points demerit for passing; 25 points demerit for any other call.]

Ears Reappear, So They Must Have Earrings

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Earrings and dog collars have come back not only to accentuate the new coiffure and the sudden appearance of uncovered ears, but to take the money from the appreciative shoppers.

Have you seen the clever new earrings that are made with tiny bows of colored velvet ribbon? These are beguiling feminine fripperies, priced so low that any one can indulge a whim for ear ornaments. All colors and black are available, and one pair can be used, for the velvet bows can easily be changed to match the dress.

Dog collars dangling with looped pearl beads are exceptionally effective; so are the dog collars of plain velvet bands about an inch wide that are to be worn with the velvet bow earrings described above. Every color imaginable is obtainable. Other dog collars are colorful with dangling star shaped stones of simulated sapphires, rubies, and topaz strung on fine gold chain.

All have a distinctly Victorian flavor, just the necessary fillip for the gowns cut in the new fashion with fitted waistlines, long bell shaped skirts, and all the ruffles, flounces, and bows that trim these definitly feminine creations.

Other sentimental costume jewelry includes decorative clips and brooches of seed pearls, some in bow knots, some in twisted lover's knots, some in necklaces that are tied with velvet bows and paired with bracelets also tied with velvet.

Old-fashioned lockets of dusky gold are made to hold photographs. These come in silver, and the cameo affairs are almost as popular as the onyx beauties outlined with seed pearls. Hearts are other finds. They come thin and flat or pudgy and thick, they hang from bracelets, they form brooches in pairs, and they serve as necklace pendants in filegree or etched gold and silver or flashing affairs of rhinestones.

Thanksgiving to the Child Is Happy Thought

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Thanksgiving and Christmas are lovely holidays. They add richness and color to life. Red letter days they are indeed to children, different, but each quite superlative in its ways.

Thankfulness is an emotion that has very different significance to children and adults. We who are grown up and know what possibilities of unhappiness and deprivation life can hold, do feel thankful for the health of those we love, for their very presence in the world, for certain material benefits, for more things big and little than I can name, and for peace in our beloved country.

At Thanksgiving time many parents feel that there is a spiritual gain to a child in experiencing the feeling of thankfulness, and in expressing it. There is, in deed, but their thankfulness is and should be different from ours. I do not believe there should be any emotion aroused such as: "Think of all the poor little children who haven't enough to eat! Think of all the boys and girls who have no father and mother. You should be thankful for such a lovely dinner and such a lovely home."

A child's thankfulness should be rather a happy awareness, an appreciation of the beauty or fun of the season, of the love of family and friends, a feeling of "How nice all this is! How happy I am!"

For those who like a grace said by one of the children [or one of the grownups, for that matter] at the Thanksgiving dinner table, or merely learned for this season of the year, we are printing:

WE THANK THEE.

Author unknown.

For mother love and father care,
For brothers strong and sisters fair
For love at home and here each day.
For guidance lest we go astray
Father in heaven, we thank Thee.
For this new morning with its light,
For rest and shelter of the night,
For health and food, for love and friends,
For everything His goodness sends,
Father in heaven, we thank Thee.
For flowers that bloom about our feet,
For tender grass so fresh, so sweet,
For song of bird and hum of bee,
For all things fair we hear or see,
Father in heaven, we thank Thee.
For blue of stream and blue of sky,
For pleasant shade of branches high,
For fragrant air and cooling breeze,
For beauty of the blooming trees,
Father in heaven, we thank Thee.

And here is a short one for a younger child:

GRACES.

We thank Thee, Lord, for the world so sweet.
We thank Thee, Lord, for the food we eat.
We thank Thee, Lord, for the birds that sing.
We thank Thee, Lord, for everything.

MOUNT CARMEL, FENGER POINT FOR TITLE DUEL

100,000 Expected at Saturday's Game.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

It's to be Fenger vs. Mount Carmel in the big game in Soldiers' field next Saturday afternoon. It's to be the south side vs. the south side in Mayor Kelly's big charity game, no matter how the west siders figured prior to last Saturday that it was to be west side vs. west side—Harrison vs. Fenwick.

But Fenger, you know, beat Harrison Saturday, 32 to 18, and Sunday afternoon Mount Carmel nosed out Fenwick by the skimpiest margin, 7 to 6. Tough on Harrison and Fenwick. A great honor for Fenger and Mount Carmel. A great honor because the city prep championship will be at stake. A greater honor because the boys will earn many thousands of dollars for Chicago's Own Christmas fund. In case you hadn't heard, the money derived from the game and other promotions directed by Mayor Kelly, is used to buy new, warm clothes and shoes for children of destitute Chicago families.

Fenger Is a Newcomer.

It will be Fenger's first appearance in the championship game. Fenger long has been a favorite in the vicinity of its home location, 11220 South Wallace street. But until now competition in the championship match has been denied.

Mount Carmel, which is at 6428 South Dante avenue, has been in the championship battle three times, winning for the Catholic league in 1927, losing in 1931, and again taking the title in 1933, the last year before the game was taken over by Mayor Kelly.

In 1934, the first year of the charity régime, 36,000 watched Lindblom beat Leo. The next year the same schools played to the same score, but before a gathering of 60,000. Many supposed the attendance peak had been reached when 80,000 looked on as Austin and Fenwick played to a 19-all tie in 1936. But last year's game was the bellringer, in so far as attendance was concerned.

They Really Turned Out.

Game day last year was as beautiful a piece of weather as late autumn ever produced in Chicago. Patrons of the game who had tossed their ticket allotments far back in the cash register or desk drawer promptly dug them out and distributed them to their friends. Thousands of others who had waited for weather observations rushed to purchase tickets.

As a result of these and other favorable combinations of circumstances, 115,000 were packed into Soldiers' field, a stadium which at the time had normal facilities for 35,000 fewer guests. Though the top price was $1 and thousands of student tickets were sold for 25 cents, the receipts of the game were $103,000.

Expect Throng of 100,000.

The four games under the auspices of the mayor and his committee have produced $310,000 for wholly worthy charity enterprise. With a continuance or resumption of weather which has been typical in Chicago this fall, the game Saturday will draw 100,000, with receipts of $90,000, according to official estimates.

Thus far the reputations of the stars who will play in the game haven't been smoked up as much as was that of Bill De Correvont, Austin star in the last two games. But there are plenty of sparkling youngsters on the two squads. James Segreti, prep expert of THE TRIBUNE, has been following the standouts with an eagle eye and is fixing to tell the wide world about the kids to watch.

REPORT TUBBS GIVEN OFFICIAL NOTICE AT IOWA

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—Irl Tubbs, head football coach at the University of Iowa, was dismissed today by Athletic Director E. G. Schroeder, it was reliably reported on the Iowa campus tonight. Schroeder, it is said, called in Tubbs this afternoon and made known to him the athletic board's decision to hire a new coach next fall. Tubbs then held a meeting of his assistants and notified them of his release, it was said.

Tubbs declined to comment, merely insisting that all statements would have to come from Schroeder or other athletic officials, none of whom would discuss the situation.

An earlier report that Dr. Eddie Anderson, former Notre Dame end, who has been successful at Holy Cross for several years, would be the new coach was spiked by Anderson's announcement in the east that he had not been interviewed by Iowa officials. Anderson intimated he was not interested in making a change.

STADIUM OPENS 6 DAY SKATING SHOW TONIGHT

Company of 60 Appears in Ice Follies.

Bess Ehrhardt, Evelyn Chandler, Roy Shipstad and company of sixty of the outstanding figure skaters in the country will open a six day engagement in the Chicago Stadium tonight with the first of seven presentations of the "Ice Follies of 1939." The engagement closes Sunday with matinée and evening performances.

Twenty-five acts compose the program, most of which will be seen in a motion picture scheduled for release in January, which the troupe recently completed in Hollywood before opening its nation-wide tour in Cleveland.

Numbers from Movie.

Outstanding among these acts are an Indian number, a swing number, six couples in a Russian dance, and a Scotch ballet, all from the motion picture. The Scotch number, in which twenty-four girls skate, is the finale. It also closes the movie in which Miss Ehrhardt and Shipstad are starred.

Other numbers which attracted wide attention in Hollywood, where the troupe played to 90,000, and in Cleveland, are the Flower ballet and a French ballet. Most of these acts are being presented in Chicago for the first time.

Shipstad, his brother Eddie, and Roy Johnson supply the comedy in the show, offering two new acts. This trio is one of the leading comedy teams in show business. It will present a portion of the routine which was arranged for their movie debut.

Does Axel Paulson Trick.

Miss Chandler, a veteran figure skater, is known on two continents for her acrobatic feats on ice. One of her better known stunts is the Axel Paulson. This trick, named for its originator, calls for a somersault and a half in the air, done several times in rapid succession.

The troupe will leave for New York immediately after Sunday's performances to open a week's engagement in Madison Square Garden.

Yale to Keep Pond Despite a Poor Season

New Haven, Conn., Nov 21.—(AP)—Yale athletic officials announced today the retention of Head Coach Raymond W. [Ducky] Pond and his staf and the election of Joseph W. [Bill] Stack of East Lansing, Mich., as captain.

In the wake of a disastrous campaign, Chairman Malcolm Farmer of Yale's Athletic association issued a statement lauding the work of Coach Pond and his assistants and said "no changes are contemplated."

The Yale eleven won only two of its eight games, one of the worst records in the university's history. It conquered Navy and Brown, but lost to Harvard, Princeton, Dartmouth, Pennsylvania, Columbia, and Michigan.

President Charles Seymour of Yale, Pond, Bill Platt, this year's captain; Stack, and Farmer spoke at the annual team banquet tonight when Robert Taft of Cincinnati, son of United States Senator Elect Taft of Ohio and a grandson of the late President Taft, was presented the Norman Hall award. This is a plaque given each year to the member of the junior varsity football team for meritorious service.

Pitt Loses Regular Guard for Duke Game Saturday

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Pitt will face the Duke eleven in Durham next Saturday without Al Lezouski, veteran left guard, who was hurt in the Penn State game. Lezouski, a mainstay of Pitt's line for two seasons, was taken to a hospital today for treatment of a torn leg cartilage and Pitt authorities announced his football career was ended.

THE WAKE dedicates the next few lines to those long suffering martyrs of the sports realm who, because of unusual spelling, seldom see their names set down correctly in the public prints. . . . Gay laughter in the afternoon,
Where did you hide this morning?
Did gray skies stifle the buffoon,
The mirth that died a'borning?
Ring out! your melody's contagious
To my guests—Discouragement and Gloom—
Think not your conduct's bold, outrageous,
To these shadows cluttering up my room—
Unwelcome, they—no invitation
Was tendered for their company's boon,
So frolic in your rapt elation,
My rude heart dances to your tune.

BEARS, WITH NO TITLE HOPE, ARE IMPORTANT TEAM

They Can Wreck Detroit's Chances Thursday.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

The Bears returned home yesterday very important factors in the National Football league's championship picture. Triumphant over the Dodgers in Brooklyn Sunday, they now find themselves in a position to decide the western division race, from which they were eliminated two weeks ago.

After two days of practice, they will take to the road again tomorrow night to meet the Lions in Detroit in the annual Thanksgiving day game. In this game the Bears will have an opportunity of avenging a previous defeat by eliminating the Lions from the race and making Green Bay the undisputed champion. The possibilities have their drawbacks. The Bears never are in favor of doing Green Bay a good turn.

They'll All Be Ready.

Coach George Halas reported the squad had survived the Brooklyn game without a serious injury and that the entire personnel would be available Thursday, although Del Bjork, right tackle, may be handicapped somewhat by an injured wrist.

Green Bay, still smarting under its defeat in New York, where it did everything except cross the Giant goal line, remained in the east, awaiting the outcome of Thursday's Bear-Lion game, and negotiations for an exhibition date to fill in between now and the championship game on Dec. 11.

Lions Aren't So Tough.

Both the Bears and Packers were heartened by reports of Detroit's game against the Cardinals in Wrigley field, where the lowly Chicagoans nearly whipped the Lions on Sunday. The loss of Bill Shepherd and the Lions' inability to score from the 3 yard line on two occasions increased the Packers' hopes of a Bear victory Thursday.

Coach Milan Creighton and his Cardinals will go back to work today, preparatory to closing the season against the Cleveland Rams in Wrigley field Sunday. The Cardinals' only victory was scored over the Rams, 7 to 6, early in the season.

All-Star Game Nets $27,093 for Charities

Chicago charities have been enriched by $27,093.87 as a result of the fifth annual All Star football game played in Soldiers' field, Aug. 31, between the College All-Americans and the Washington Redskins.

Checks for $9,031.29 each were forwarded yesterday by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., sponsor of the game, to the United Charities, the Catholic Charities, and the Jewish Charities of Chicago.

The net profits were slightly under last year's, due to the increased traveling and training expenses of the professional team. Washington is the first team from the eastern half of the National Professional league that qualified for the game.

The 1939 game will be played in Soldiers' field on approximately the same date between the All-American collegiate squad, chosen by the fans of the nation, and the championship team of the professional league. Four clubs still are in the running for the honor of playing in Chicago, the New York Giants and Washington Redskins in the eastern half of the league and the Green Bay Packers and Detroit Lions in the western division.

Major items of expense in the presentation of the game included $12,822 rental for Soldiers' field; $13,500 compensation to college players and coaches; $9,240 rooms and meals for college players; $4,345 training expenses for the Redskins, $4,064 transportation for college players; $2,870 transportation for Redskins; $3,748 for equipment, and $3,855 for material and labor at Soldiers' field.

INDIANA ELEVEN NAMES HAAK AS MOST VALUABLE

Joe Mihal Is Honored by Purdue.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—Robert [Spanky] Haak, 230 pound tackle from Hammond, Ind., tonight was voted the most valuable player on the 1938 Indiana university football squad. The election featured the annual Indiana football banquet, which was attended by 600 in the university union building.

McMillin Praises Haak.

"I think Haak is the best tackle in the country," said Coach Bo McMillin, who was head coach of the 1938 college All-Star squad which beat the Washington Redskins in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's annual charity game last summer. "Bob has been a power on both offense and defense," McMillin continued. "And a fine influence on the squad as a whole. This season he played more minutes than anybody else on the squad."

In announcing the election of Haak, McMillin recalled that Indiana has had the last two winners of the Big Ten's most valuable award—Vernon Huffman, quarter back, and Corby Davis, full back.

Haak is regarded as one of the outstanding offensive tackles in the Big Ten. Despite his weight, he has been Indiana's fastest lineman and one of the speediest men on the squad. Nimble and quick on his feet, he is equally effective on offense and defense. Haak possesses a knack of quickly diagnosing plays and stopped many formations behind the line of scrimmage during his career at Indiana.

An Outstanding Wrestler.

Haak has won three letters at tackle. A two sport man, he is rated one of the leading contenders for the Big Ten and national collegiate heavyweight wrestling titles this winter.

Haak will receive his degree next June in physical education and plans to coach football and wrestling. He is a member of Sphinx club, honorary upper classmen's organization, and of Sigma Pi social fraternity. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Haak of Hammond. His father is a printer.

PURDUE PICKS MIHAL

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—Joe Mihal, 225 pound senior left tackle from Gary, tonight was chosen the most valuable player on the Purdue university football eleven by unanimous vote of his team mates. Mihal thus becomes eligible for consideration by the committee which selects the Western conference's most valuable player and awards THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's silver trophy.

Mihal's selection was a feature of the annual banquet for the squad.

The letter men voted to choose a captain for each game next year and an honorary captain at the close of the season. This step was taken because of the large number of players who will be seniors in 1939.

COTTON BOWL SPONSORS PLAN DOUBLE-HEADER

Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—Sponsors of the annual Cotton bowl football game today adopted the double feature idea so popular with motion picture theaters by announcing that an attempt will be made to book four teams for two bowl games.

J. Curtis Sanford, game director, said, if his plan could be worked out, one game will be played on Saturday, Dec. 31, and the other on Monday, Jan. 2. He said he would like to book Texas Tech for the first contest and Texas Christian for the second. Both teams are unbeaten.

Elliott Roosevelt, son of the President, who is in business in Fort Worth, made a proposal, accepted immediately by the sponsors, that his father be invited to the games.

ILLINI CHOOSE JAMES HODGES, STAR LINEMAN

Here Are Choices

THREE Western conference football teams named their most valuable players last night. The athletes now become candidates for The Tribune award which is given to the most valuable player of the entire conference. Last night's choices follow:

Illinois—James Hodges, guard.
Purdue—Joe Mihal, tackle.
Indiana—Robert Haak, tackle.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—James D. Hodges, star guard on the University of Illinois football team, tonight was named the squad's most valuable player for the 1938 season. Hodges now becomes a candidate for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's most valuable player football trophy, an annual award to an outstanding Big Ten conference athlete.

Players at each of the nine other schools will be named within the next few weeks. After the candidates for the trophy have been elected, coaches and athletic directors in the Western conference and officials will vote for the trophy winner. Each player will receive a small gold foot ball.

Gets Praise of Coaches.

Hodges' alert line play and sure tackling made him valuable on defense, although he is not heavy as Big Ten linemen go, weighing only 188. On offense, his speed enabled him to pull out and run interference. Hodges shared the kickoff duties with George Rettinger, full back.

"Hodges improved considerably this season," Coach Bob Zuppke said. "He is a real competitor, conscientious, hard working, and loyal. He deserves the honor his teammates have given to him."

Justa M. Lindgren, line coach, supported Zuppke's praise. "Jim was a spark plug all season," he said. "He was valuable on offense and defense. Despite his lack of beef he turned out to be our best guard. Jim was a fighter every minute and no player felt defeat more keenly."

Hodges is a native of Rock Island, where his father is a retired grocer. He played one year of high school football at Rock Island, because he had been too light previously. He attended Augustana college at Rock Island and played tackle on the varsity football team.

Brewer Named Captain.

After his year of football at Augustana, Hodges dropped out of college and was employed for two years by the International Harvester company. He registered at Illinois in 1936 and won his numerals in freshman football. Last year he won his varsity letter as guard.

Melvin Brewer, quarter back, was elected captain of the football team for next season. Brewer, a junior, won his varsity letter as a sophomore guard. This season he was moved to quarter back. He was injured in the Indiana game and was unable to play until the Ohio State game.

"An Inevitable Cycle."

Called out of the city, President Willard sent the following letter which was read: "My faith in the traditional athletic policies of the University of Illinois and in my good friend, Robert Zuppke, is unshaken.

"As one who has observed Illini football fortunes sink to the depths and again rise to the heights during the last quarter of a century, I feel the present era is simply one phase of an inevitable circle.

"Other institutions, especially those the policies of which are the same as at Illinois, have had similar experiences. Even in adversity Illinois has been respected for its courage, its sportsmanship, its ideals. This is a tradition worth cherishing."

Capt. Jim McDonald, in behalf of the squad, gave Coach Zuppke a desk set inscribed: "To Zup, from those who know him best and admire him most—the 1938 football squad."

McDonald Praises Coach.

"We know more about things than these wolves' we hear about," McDonald said. "You are one of the finest men we have ever known and we are for you 100 per cent."

Jack Watson, toastmaster, who was captain of the 1915 championship team, in introducing Coach Zuppke, said: "Illinois football does not need a major operation. We hope Zuppke will coach Illinois many years to come."

Rising to its feet, the crowd applauded the coach, who thanked the team for its gift and expression and commented only briefly on criticism of his coaching. "Coaches, like every one else in life, must expect criticism," he said.

GOPHERS NAME WIN PEDERSEN CAPTAIN IN 1939

37 Members of Squad Get Varsity Letters.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—Win Pedersen of Minneapolis was elected captain of the University of Minnesota's Big Ten football champions today. Pedersen will be a senior next year and was the iron man of the squad at tackle.

Thirty-seven members of the squad were awarded varsity letters in impressive ceremonies, in which Francis Twedell, 1938 captain, passed a lighted torch to Pedersen, his successor. Coach Bernie Bierman reviewed the season and President Guy Stanton Ford addressed students on behalf of the university. The football team's next task is to select its most valuable player, who becomes a candidate for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S silver football.

OHIO PICKS ANDRAKO.

Andrako, a center, started the season as a substitute to Charley Maag, but gradually won his way into the front rank and was one of the bulwarks of the Buckeye line at the finish.

True Happiness.

I used to think that happiness
Lay all wrapped up in wealth, success.
But now I've learned my heart can sing
Over just the simplest little thing.

A baby's smile, a handclasp true,
Some kindly little thing you do.
The green of spring, the splendor of fall,
I seem to see clearly through it all.

The hand of God, sustaining, kind,
And then there passes through my mind
How glad that I should really be
For the day's good gifts He gives to me!

A home where love dwells, kindness, too,
Because I share it, dear, with you.
Warmth and shelter, enough and to spare
Perhaps to ease another's care.

No, I shall never, never pray
For wealth and fame to come my way.
At least I've learned how a heart can sing

Wildcats Open Training for Dinner Season

While equipment managers packed uniforms in mothballs and Coach Lynn Waldorf pored over train schedules in prepartaion for an extensive speaking tour, members of Northwestern's football team disbanded yesterday until the call for spring practice next May.

The team will assemble for the last time at the football banquet to be given by the Northwestern University club of Chicago in the Stevens hotel, Dec. 3, at which time the captain for 1939 will be elected and the most valuable player for the 1938 season will be selected as a candidate for THE TRIBUNE award.

Expect 2,000 Alumni.

Nearly 2,000 alumni will attend the dinner in honor of the 1938 team and the coaching staf. Members of the freshman team also will be the guests of the club. Varsity letters and freshman numerals will be awarded at that time.

Coach Waldorf will open a two months speaking tour in Peoria tonight when he addresses the University club. He will interrupt his speaking engagements long enough to attend the Pennsylvania-Cornell game in Philadelphia on Thanksgiving day and the Army-Navy game Saturday in the same city.

NOTRE DAME RESTS

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—Notre Dame's undefeated football team turned its attention to its studies today, and to the final game with Southern California in Los Angeles on Dec. 3.

The Irish will leave Monday for the Pacific coast. Their first practice for that game will be Wednesday afternoon.

Notre Dame came through Saturday's game in good physical shape. Lou Zontini, Joe Thesing, Ben Sheridan, and Steve Sitko were suffering from bumps and bruises.

ARMY AND NAVY GET READY FOR ANNUAL BATTLE

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—Army's football squad practiced in its new fieldhouse today, as Coach Bill Wood started the last week of drill before the Navy game in Philadelphia Saturday. There were no injuries as a result of the game with Princeton and the entire squad was on hand.

Coach Wood said there would be no more contact work. However, the coaching staf has trained a jayvee team in Navy plays, and it will be used every day this week to familiarize the cadets with the style of play the middies have been using. Practice today included long defensive drill against the rival plays, and there was a period devoted to forward passing and running plays.

The cadets worked hard on the passing game, indicating that they are planning a balanced attack, which will include the threat of passes by Wilson and Long.

NAVY SPIRIT RISES.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—Slogans, the major note of which was "Beat Army," sprung up in every corridor at Bancroft hall today, and cartoons in which the goat persistently had the better of the mule adorned the rotunda.

For the first time this season football men were excused from the Monday military drill and all were on the field early. Coach Hardwick and his aids sent the squad through a general offensive and defensive session, blocking and tackling being stressed.

GLOVER'S MANGE MEDICINE

GRIFFIN, LATEST PREP SENSATION, IS A MODEST HERO

Fenger Ace Blushes, but He's No Sissy.

BY JAMES SEGRETI.

"That 'bird' was just too tough for us."

The speaker was Coach Bob Dougherty in Harrison Tech's dressing room in Soldiers' field late Saturday afternoon after the Hornets had been routed, 32 to 18, by Fenger for the Public School league football championship. And the "bird" Dougherty had in mind was Don Griffin, Fenger's quarter back, who had scored four touchdowns.

All the residents in the community of Roseland on Chicago's far south side will tell you Griffin will lead Fenger to the city title against Mount Carmel Saturday afternoon.

Not Like a Lot of Heroes.

A modest, studious chap, Griffin blushes when interviewed and reveals an urge to run away from it all. He has scored twenty-two touchdowns in eight league games. In addition, the 180 pound junior scored two touchdowns when Fenger tied Washington High of South Bend, Ind., 20 to 20, and four more against St. John's Military academy in Delafield, Wis., when the champions triumphed, 32 to 0.

Griffin is happy only when he is reading a good book or playing football. One of Fenger's brightest students, Griffin also likes basketball, swimming, and baseball, but went out only for the Fenger football team. He reported to Coach Chuck Palmer last fall and after playing on the sophomore team in 1937 amazed Fenger's coaches as he shifted and dodged his way to touchdowns in practice last spring.

He Attains His Goal.

After celebrating his fifteenth birthday anniversary last fall, Don had two things in mind. One was to obtain a regular position on the football squad and the other was to purchase a $10 model T Ford. He did both. He made sufficient money to purchase a dilapidated auto by selling newspapers and is just as proud of it as any owner of an expensive streamlined machine, despite its many rattles and broken fenders.

There is no comment from Griffin when his record is compared with Austin's Bill De Correvont, who scored thirty-five touchdowns in ten games last season. It brings a boyish grin and a blush to his face. But Coach Palmer, who recalls happily he will have Griffin again next year, adds:

"He is the greatest high school quarter back I have ever seen."

MOON MULLINS—SLIGHT OF HAND

A Ross and a Mandell Win C. Y. O. Battles

Suburban boys made their bid for C. Y. O. boxing tournament honors last night in Catholic High school gymnasium, Joliet. Candidates from Joliet, Kankakee, Lockport, and Chicago Heights battled through the first matches of a two night stand to pick the boys who will represent the suburban section in the all-city semifinals Nov. 29 and 30 in the C. Y. O. center.

Topping the field at the conclusion of last night's competition were two youngsters whose skill and prowess were reflected in their names. One was a novice bantamweight, Jimmy Ross, fighting under the colors of the Lewis Holy Name Technical school, Lockport. Ross knocked out in two furious rounds Tommy Malnar, St. Mary's parish, Joliet. Weds Hoosier Star

Dorothy Jean Feder of El Dorado, Kas., who was secretly married to Capt. Paul Graham of the Indiana university football team recently. The couple announced the marriage yesterday.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—The secret marriage of Paul Graham, captain and quarter back of the 1938 Indiana university football team, and Dorothy Jean Feder of El Dorado, Kas., was announced here today. The bride is a daughter of Will Feder, sports editor of the El Dorado Times, and Mrs. Feder. She is a graduate of El Dorado Junior college.

The marriage, performed some time ago in Oklahoma, followed a high school romance in El Dorado, home of Capt. Graham, a brother of Ralph Graham, Indiana back field coach.

Hawks Work to Gain Shape for Road Trip

The Blackhawks' lead in the National Hocky league will disappear tonight because of their idleness while the New York Rangers are playing the Bruins at Boston. A victory for the Rangers will send the New York team into the lead a half game ahead of the Hawks. A tie will place them even. Should Boston win, the Bruins will share the top rung with the Chicagoans.

The Hawks drilled at the Chicago Arena yesterday. Two more daily workouts will be held prior to their departure for the east tomorrow night. They play in Detroit Thursday and at Madison Square Garden Saturday against the Americans. Sunday they tackle the Rangers, the only team to defeat them this season.

Karakas Gets Rest.

The Hawks went through the sixty minute drill without the services of Mike Karakas, who was given a much needed rest. Karakas has been under a strain since the automobile accident which sent his wife to an Urbana, Ill., hospital a month ago. Mrs. Karakas still is in the hospital.

Aside from Baldy Northcott, the team is in good shape. Northcott, always slow to reach condition, has been handicapped since the season's start by swollen knees, which have slowed down the Northcott-Blinco-Robinson line. Dr. Meacham, the Hawks' physician, believes three days of skating aside from the daily drills with the team and daily diathermy treatments will put the scrappy left wing into condition.

Seibert Is Hawks' Star.

The work of Earl Seibert, the Hawks' giant defense man, is the subject of comment throughout the league. Seibert has been playing nearly forty minutes a game. The fact that he is used on all power plays makes him one of the league's outstanding defense men.

Gottselig Leads Scorers.

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—Johnny Gottselig, Chicago Blackhawk wing, leads National Hocky league scorers with seven points on six goals and an assist, official statistics reveal.

Rice Breaks Record to Win Harrier Title

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—The midwest, paced by Gregory Rice, Notre Dame veteran, captured the honors in the First National Collegiate and the thirteenth Central Intercollegiate cross-country run today over Michigan State's four mile course.

Rice finished strong against a stiff wind to beat William Feiler of Drake for the individual title. Rice's time for the four miles was 20:12.9, a new record for the event. The old record was held by Jim Smith of Indiana, who covered the distance in 20:15.7 last year.

Indiana won the team title with 51 points, although Mel Trutt, its star and present Big Ten title holder, could finish no better than fourth. The Notre Dame team was second, with 61 points.

Rice, Trutt, Feiler, and Jim Whittaker of Ohio State raced the entire four miles on nearly even terms. Rice and Feiler stepped out near the finish.

William Smith, sensational Penn State runner, who last week won the I. C. A. A. A. A. title at New York, was outdistanced and finished fifth.

McMillin Urges That Coach Do Quarter Backing

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—Bo McMillin, Indiana football coach, came out tonight with the recommendation that the job of quarter backing be taken away from college players and "placed where the responsibility belongs—with the coach."

McMillin, himself one of football's greatest quarter backs, said he will urge the national football coaches rules committee, of which he is a member, to back his recommendation at the committee's meeting to be held in Chicago next month.

"By letting the coach call the plays, it would speed up the game and make it much more interesting," McMillin said. "And another thing—some of these coaches are supposed to be so smart—let's see what they can do running a team on the field."

McMillin's suggestion is that the coach should go into a huddle with the team, call the plays and then leave the field before the play is executed. He pointed out that the team's quarter back often has other players wanting to decide what play shall be called.

Canzoneri Takes Comeback Attempt Into N. Y. Tonight

New York, Nov. 21.—[Special.]—Tony Canzoneri will continue his comeback attempt tomorrow night when he meets Howard Scott in the Coliseum. It will be Canzoneri's first bout since he failed in his fifteen round bid to regain the lightweight crown he lost to Lou Ambers on May 7, 1937. Tony hit the comeback trail a few weeks ago.

MARQUETTE WILL DRILL FOR TECH ON MINE CAMPUS

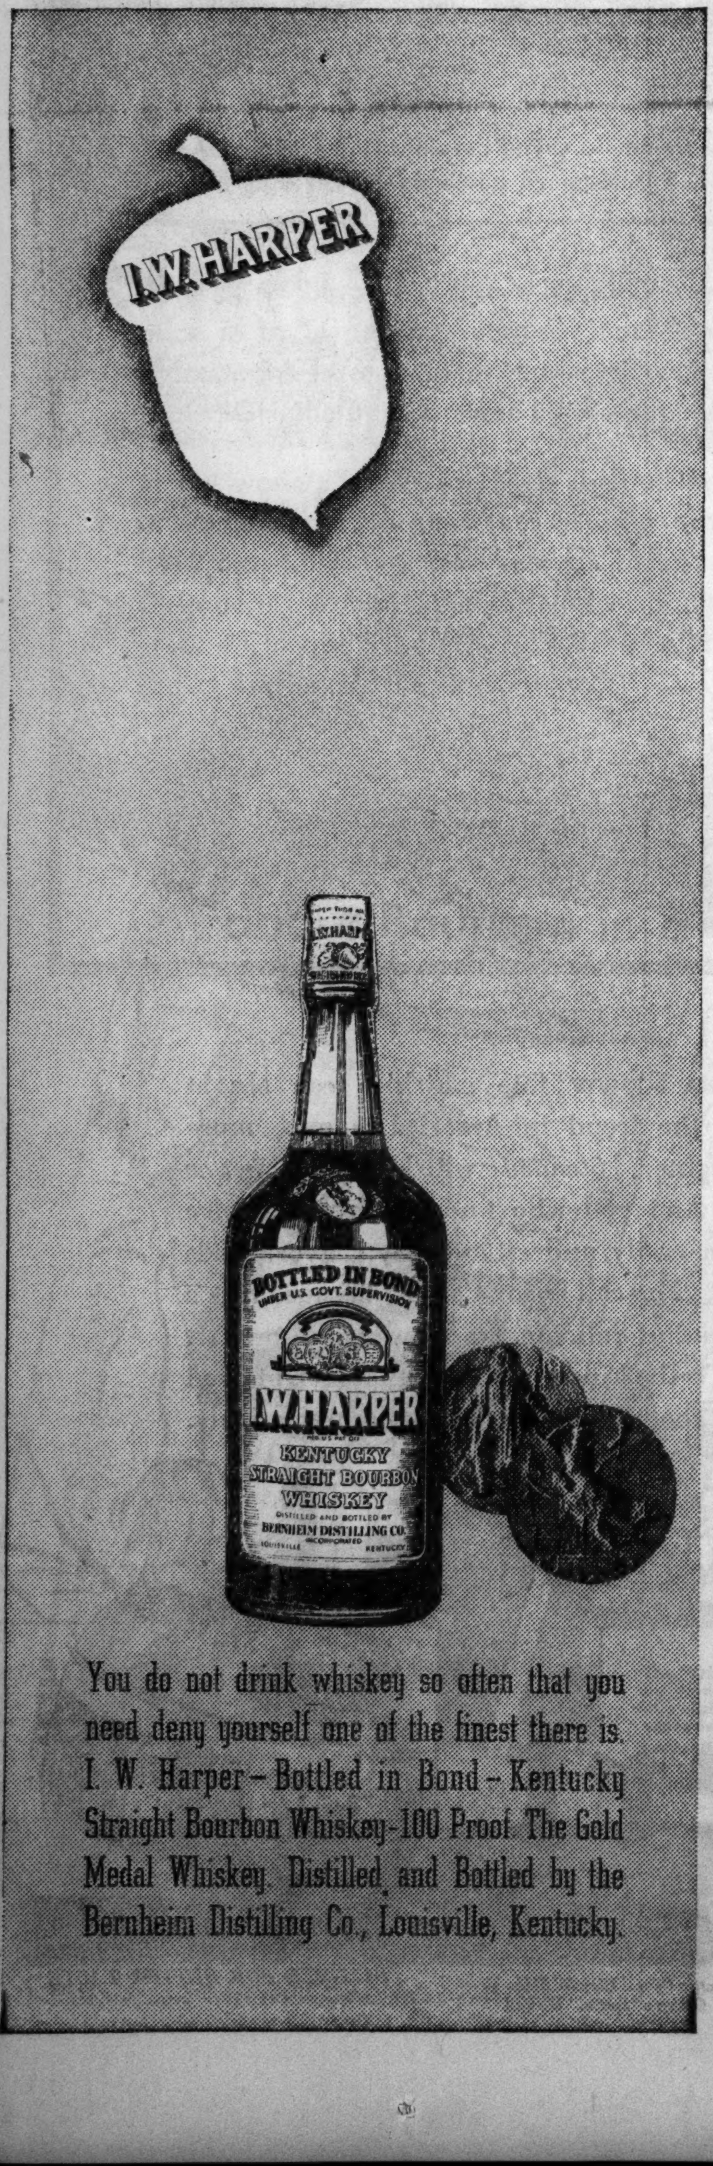
Coach Paddy Driscoll will drill his squad tomorrow and Wednesday on the field of the Texas School of Mines. Backfield Coach Joe [Red] Dunn joined the party tonight after scouting Texas Tech's victory over New Mexico on Saturday.

There are two casualties on the squad, but Trainer Eddie Rozmarynoski expects both to be ready Saturday. Half Back Johnny Maltsch has a cut on his upper lip, from which two stitches will be removed on Thursday. Jim Briggs, reserve center, is limping with a bad knee.



ARON MAKES IT TWO IN ROW OVER JACKIE BURKE

Wins Split Decision in 10 Rounds.

Milt Aron, Chicago welterweight, who whipped Jackie Burke two months ago, defeated the Ogden, Utah, boxer in their return contest of ten rounds last night in Marigold Gardens.

It was another split decision. Judge Romaine A. Goudie called the match a draw. He was outvoted by Referee Norman McGarity and the other judge, Carl Witt.

Aron's two-fisted offensive to the head and body gave him a lead in the first five rounds. In the sixth, however, Burke held the Chicago fighter even.

Aron's Eye Closed.

A right caused Aron's left eye to swell in the next round. In the eighth Burke took advantage of his foe's tired condition to earn another even round.

Burke gave Aron a beating in the ninth, driving both hands to the body. At the bell Milt staggered to his corner, his left eye closed tight.

Aron came back in the final round, scoring heavily with lefts and rights, dropping Burke to a knee for no count.

Kettles Wins Again.

Alex Kettles, South Bend heavyweight, scored a three round technical knockout over Selman Martin, 217, in the secondary feature, set for five rounds. Dan Swenson, St. Paul junior welterweight, and Tito Taylor fought six rounds to a draw in the best fight on the card. They slugged toe to toe throughout.

Battling Monroe, Detroit light heavyweight, and Emil Campagna also fought to a draw in four rounds. In a lightweight match, also booked for four rounds, Billy Gardner knocked out Mickey Sullivan in the first round.

Jim McMillen stepped back into the wrestling world after campaigning for county treasurer in Lake county to defeat Ignacio Martinez in 32 minutes last night in White City. Jim clamped an Indian leg lock on his foes. Frankie Hart scored a 30 minute decision over Jack Hagen and Swede Nelson wrestled to a 30 minute draw with Hans Schnabel. Walter Palmer tossed Tony Bomerita in 22:03. Bull Burly beat Fritz Schnabel in 19:31.

It will be the aggressive little invader's most important fight since his arrival in America a few weeks ago. The 22 year old Leone earned the assignment by winning five Chicago matches, his victims including Eddie Dempsey, Johnny Balmer, Joe Law, and Gene Spencer.

If he wins tomorrow Efrati will be in line for a title contest with Joey Archibald, recognized as champion by the New York Athletic commission, and Leo Rodak, National Boxing association representative, who disputes Archibald's claim. Supporting bouts include:

Willie Joyce vs. Sammy Musco [10], 130.
Eddie Dempsey vs. Gene Spencer [4], 130.
Sammy Sullivan vs. Joe Law [4], 128.

U.C.L.A. COACHING OFFER IS NEWS TO STUHLDREHER

Madison, Wis., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—Harry Stuhldreher, Wisconsin's football coach and athletic director, today denied vigorously a report published here that he has turned down an offer to become football coach at the University of California at Los Angeles. "No offer ever was made to me," Stuhldreher said. "I talked with that school's graduate manager, but he wanted my advice on certain other men they had in mind. He talked to me because of my connection with the coaches' association. [Stuhldreher is president of the National College Football Coaches' association.] "We went over about twenty persons he had listed as possible selections."

ABOLISHMENT OF FOOTBALL URGED BY DAILY MAROON

The Maroon claims that the university's reputation as an outstanding educational institution is periodically dimmed by the "notoriety" of its football team.

Lew Hamity, captain of this season's eleven, is quoted as saying in opposition: "The men on the football team play because they love it and naturally don't want to see football abolished here. I don't favor playing a schedule with small colleges, although a lighter schedule might be advisable."

La Salle Rejects Brill's Resignation as Coach

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Marty Brill, former Notre Dame star, will continue as football coach at La Salle in 1939, it was announced today by Brother E. Anselm, F. S. C., head of the college athletic board. Brother Anselm said the board was pleased with Brill's work far the last six seasons and would make no change. Brill submitted his resignation a month ago after his team had lost three of four games.

Run American Derby Again at Washington

Washington Park race track officials announced yesterday that the American Derby, Chicago's oldest stake race, will be revived next season. The event, which was run for the first time in 1884 at the old Washington Park track, was reinstated several years after racing was restored to legal standing in Illinois but was allowed to lapse last season.

Next year's American Derby will carry a value of $25,000 added. The 1937 race was run for the same amount. The date of the event is indefinite, pending the allotment of meetings by the state racing commission.

Prizes for Jockies.

President Walter L. Gregory of Washington Park also announced that the track will pay prize money to jockies in every race every day, $25 going to the boy who rides the winner, $10 to the second place holder, and $5 to the third.

"Jockies play a most important part in the conduct of racing. It is our opinion that consideration should be given to their importance and to the great hazard involved in their work. In recognition of this the Washington Park management has decided to award the jocky who rides the winner of each race run during the meeting $25, the second horse $10, and the third horse $5.

$9,600 in Prize Money.

"Each day the Washington Park management will pay the jockies $320. During the thirty day meeting the aggregate amount will total $9,600. We feel confident that this will attract to Chicago a large number of competent, experienced jockies and will reward them more adequately and result in better efforts."

High School Team Spurns Gift of St. Louis Title

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Soldan High school rejected the St. Louis interscholastic title today. The team had been awarded the championship because Cleveland High, to whom Soldan lost, 20 to 6, last month, had used an ineligible player. Under such circumstances, Soldan students did not want the tile. The forfeited game then was ordered replayed to determine the titlist.

SEE LITTLE HOPE FOR EXTENSION OF DUCK SEASON

Illinois Hunters Plead for More Shooting.

BY BOB BECKER.

It is quite unlikely that Illinois duck hunters and goose hunters who have sent petitions to Washington asking an extension of the 1938 waterfowl season will see their requests granted.

Dr. Ira Gabrielson, chief of the federal bureau of biological survey, intimated last night when queried about the Illinois petitions, that he was not inclined to grant additional privileges to Illinois hunters. The unusually warm weather and low water levels have hurt their hunting this season.

"I do not expect to recommend any change in the season," Dr. Gabrielson said. "Arrangements may be made to start the season later next year, but then good weather might not last as long as it has this fall."

He pointed out that the bureau's regulations governing waterfowl hunting were drawn up to provide six weeks of hunting for residents of every state, and that it would be unfair to hunters from other states to change the Illinois season now.

"In a very short time there would be no ducks left for anybody if the six best hunting weeks were left open in every state," Gabrielson said. "But the regulations are meant to give hunters in every locality good chances to hunt under normal weather conditions."

Dates for the women's amateur will be announced later.

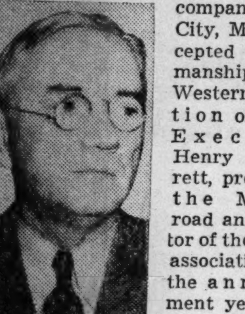
JOHNSTON TAKES WESTERN RAILS' EXECUTIVE POST

Will Act as Arbiter on Rates, Train Schedules.

Charles E. Johnston, president of the Kansas City Southern Railway company, Kansas City, Mo., has accepted the chairmanship of the Western Association of Railway Executives. Henry A. Scandrett, president of the Milwaukee road and a director of the Western association, made the announcement yesterday.



Charles E. Johnston.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

Johnston will start on his new duties on Jan. 1. In addition to the chairmanship of the association, he will assume the position of commissioner of westeran railroads. He succeeds in both positions Harry Guy Taylor, who died last Aug. 10. Taylor had held the positions since 1932.

Will Act as Rail Arbiter.

As commissioner of western railroads, Johnston will act as arbiter for the roads in matters of rates and train schedules. The commissioner acts strictly in an advisory capacity, however, and has no power to compel railroads to follow his decisions.

Johnston was born in St. Elmo, Ill., in 1881. He began railroad work in 1897 in the engineering department of the old Chicago, Paducah and Memphis railway, now a part of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad.

Worked for Several Roads.

He worked successively in various engineering positions with the St. Louis Southwestern railway, the C. & E. I., the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad, and the Missouri Pacific before joining the Kansas City Southern in 1906. He was appointed general manager of that road in 1917 and became vice president in 1924. He has been president of the road since Jan. 1, 1928.

Offices of the Western Association of Railway Executives are at 516 West Jackson boulevard, Chicago.

BUSINESS DONE BY CHECKS GAINS IN MIDDLE WEST

Checks written against individual deposit accounts in Chicago banks in the week ended Nov. 16 made their fourth consecutive increase, the weekly report of the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago showed yesterday. Checks written for the entire 7th district gained sharply over the total in the preceding week.

The total for Chicago banks was $604,556,000, compared with $576,683,000 in the preceding week. This was still below the volume for the corresponding 1937 week, when checks written amounted to $639,835,000.

Debits to accounts in the 7th district increased to $1,113,623,000, up 16.5 per cent from the $955,762,000 in the preceding week.

Great Western Sugar.

Investors' Guide: Please tell me the financial standing of the Great Western Sugar company and the rate of dividends paid in the last five years. —O. D. P.

Answer: Great Western Sugar company is the largest producer of beet sugar in the United States. It owns 22 beet sugar factories in Colorado, Nebraska, Wyoming, and Montana. Capacity for slicing beets is 42,000 tons daily, about twice that of any competitor.

The company also owns the 90 mile Great Western railway in Colorado, which does a general freight and passenger business, and owns quarries producing limestone used for purification of sugar juices. A wholly owned land company operates irrigation systems and 2,300 acres of farm property and real estate.

Beets are obtained mainly through contracts with growers who cultivate land near the company's factories. Payments are adjusted according to the quality of the beets and prices of sugar.

At the start of the current year the company was faced with low sugar prices and reduced demand, coupled with favorable crop conditions and a large carry over from the preceding year. No interim reports have been published so far.

Higher payments to beet growers and declining prices for refined sugar narrowed the company's margin of profit during the fiscal year ended Feb. 28, 1938. Net income declined to $6,596,165, equal to $3.03 a common share after preferred dividend requirements. This compared with net income of $7,398,279, or $3.53 a share the preceding year, and net income of $5,515,240, or $2.48 a share in the year ended Feb. 29, 1936. In the 1934-'35 year net income was $6,414,063, or $2.62 a share. Losses of $1,017,000 in 1931-'32 and $480,418 in 1930-'31 are the only unprofitable operations reported in recent years.

Financial position is strong. Current assets on Feb. 28, 1938, totaled $40,782,210, against current liabilities of only $6,741,142. The company has no funded debt.

Capitalization consists of 150,000 shares of 7 per cent $100 par preferred stock and 1,800,000 no par common shares. Regular dividends are being paid on both classes of stock. Disbursements on the common stock totaled $3.30 during the last fiscal year, including an extra payment of 90 cents. Total payments of $2.40 each were made in the two preceding years, and in 1932-'33 cash dividends amounted to 60 cents. No payments were made in 1930-'31, or 1931-'32.

PLAN TO SOLVE COTTON SURPLUS BY LARGER USE

Leaders of Industry Seek to Expand Consumption.

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—Plans for solving the cotton surplus problem through increasing consumption were outlined today by Oscar Johnston, former manager of the United States cotton pool and a the United States cotton pool. Johns affects the welfare of 15 million persons.

The presence of the largest cotton surplus together with low prices in the country's history, he said, directly affects the welfare of 15,000,000 people.

Increased consumption, he said, will be sought through scientific research for new cotton uses, improved manufacture of cotton goods now used, and intensive advertising.

Will Seek Markets Abroad.

Cultivation of good will for American cotton in foreign markets, and stimulation of international trade with other industrial nations also are planned.

"Today the cotton industry faces the most acute condition in history," Johnston said. "No matter whether the governmental efforts to solve the cotton situation are good or bad, our cotton industry is, nevertheless, facing a most serious crisis. We are confronted with the following indisputable facts:

"We have the largest surplus of cotton in our history. We have the lowest world price in our history.

"Despite the fact that world consumption of cotton is increasing, world consumption of American cotton, both at home and abroad, is decreasing."

Urges Revision of Tarif.

He also pointed out that 400,000,000 pounds of synthetic fiber substitutes for cotton will be produced this year in the United States. Vanishing foreign markets can be saved he asserted, if the nation will undertake an "intelligent" tarif program, but not

He also pointed out that 400 million one which would tear down tarif walls with resulting ruin to many industries.

State councils from fifteen cotton producing regions are attending the council meeting, which is expected to make plans for more effective organization of the council. The representatives include producers, warehousers, merchants, ginners, and crushers.

ILLINOIS BUILDING PERMIT VALUES DROP IN MONTH

Building permits for projects estimated to cost $5,873,054 were issued in Illinois in October, the Illinois department of labor reported yesterday. The volume was about 9 per cent less than in September and 10 per cent less than in October, 1937.

New residential building in October was estimated at $3,537,318, a decline of 10 per cent from the September volume, but an increase of 41 per cent over October last year. Nonresidential construction, valued at $1,156,369, dropped 26 per cent from September and 58 per cent from October, 1937. Of the residential projects 145 were in Chicago and 221 in Chicago suburbs.

The number of building permits increased to 2,620, about 7 per cent more than in September and 2 per cent less than in October, 1937.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

by HOMER NEISZ

Prepare for Spring

November 21, 1938.

GARDENERS at the Du Page county farm are busy preparing land for next year's crops of fresh vegetables and flowers. They are plowing garden plots that are to be planted next spring. The plowed ground will be left in the rough over winter.

This method of preparing garden soil is followed each year at the farm and has been found successful for growing both vegetable crops and annual flowers. Barnyard manure or other organic material is spread on the ground and plowed under. The manure not only adds humus and plant food as it decays, but it tends to make the soil work better the next year and helps to make available plant foods already in the soil.

Plows Go Deeper.

Garden plots at the farm are plowed much deeper than land to be used for growing field crops. The gardens are plowed 12 to 16 inches deep. The gardeners have found that vegetables need a deep, rich seed bed in order to make the quick growth that is necessary to produce crisp, tender plants. Slow growing vegetables usually are fibrous and tough.

Complete commercial fertilizers are put on the gardens early in the spring to supply quick acting plant food. Leafy vegetables require lots of nitrogen and extra supplies of potassium and phosphorous are needed for root crops.

Manure is not applied in the spring. It always is spread on the ground in the fall and plowed under. The gardeners say it is not advisable to put manure on the plowed ground in the spring because young vegetable plants do not grow well when the roots are in contact with fresh manure in the surface soil. Once the plants are well established, the roots push down into the soil to the manure that was plowed under the previous fall.

Build Up Seed Beds.

In establishing a garden plot on ground that has not previously been used for growing vegetables, the gardeners follow a system of gradually working up a deep seed bed by plowing a little deeper into the subsoil each year until they finally get down to a depth of 12 inches or more. The plowing is done in the fall, the same as in an established garden. Manure is plowed under each time.

The first year the plow is set to run about one inch into the subsoil. This is in the case of ordinary ground that usually has six or seven inches of black soil on top. Then the ground is plowed about an inch deeper each year until the desired depth is reached.

Deepens Black Soil.

The inch of subsoil turned up at each plowing becomes thoroughly mixed with the surface soil as the ground freezes and thaws during the winter and through cultivation the following spring. This gradually increases the depth of black soil without ever turning up enough subsoil to interfere with the growth of plants.

In established garden plots, the ground is plowed to the bottom of the seed bed each year.

ASKS U. S. MOVE TO ENCOURAGE PROFIT SHARING

Tax Credit Proposed by Sears Head.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21.—Gen. Robert E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago, today urged that the government encourage corporation employé profit sharing plans. He would permit such contributions to be credited against social security taxes.

Wood said this may prove an incentive to more employers to share profits with their employés. He and two other business leaders testified before a subcommittee of the senate finance committee studying the feasibility of an incentive tax that may result in increased sharing of profits.

The other witnesses were M. B. Folsom of Rochester, N. Y., treasurer of the Eastman Kodak company, and Richard R. Deupree of Cincinnati, O., president of the Procter & Gamble company, soap makers.

Describe Plans in Use.

Each of the witnesses described successful profit sharing plans which their companies have in operation. However, with the exception of Wood's suggestion, they were cool to the idea of a special incentive tax.

Folsom said that if the government levied a special tax to force a distribution of profits it might result in lower wages. The wages and wage dividends combined might not leave the employé any better off than before, he said. Both Folsom and Wood declared that profit sharing must be a supplement to and not a substitute for good wages.

The witnesses were unanimous in the belief that no uniform plan could be offered by the government for profit sharing. Too much depends upon the type of business and conditions peculiar to each, they said.

Tells Penalties Being Paid.

Wood, speaking informally from prepared notes, told the committee about the penalty his company must pay since the social security act became effective.

The Sears plan, in operation for twenty-two years, calls for the employés to contribute 5 per cent of their salaries up to $5,000. The company contributes 5 to 7½ per cent of its profits per year before taxes. After ten years the employés may withdraw their savings, plus interest, in cash or Sears common stock.

Sears has maintained its contributions to the fund since the advent of social security legislation and intends to continue the plan regardless of whatever governmental steps are taken, Wood said. But he added that the company now faces the added burden of social security taxes.

Pays $2,500,000 in Year.

Last year Sears paid $2,500,000 into the profit sharing fund and paid social security taxes of $2,600,000. The profit sharing contribution is treated as expense for income tax purposes, which allows a 15 per cent deduction.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.], a member of the committee, asked Wood whether there should not be a tax compensation of some sort to equalize against competitors who have no profit sharing plan. Wood agreed there should be such a tax.

Wood expressed belief in profit sharing "not only as good ethics but as good business." He said it results in good relations between employer and employé and improved work, through a feeling of joint responsibility. The Sears profit sharing fund is the largest individual stockholder of the company, he said, holding 11 per cent of the outstanding common stock.

Workers Get 4 to 1 Return.

The Sears executive said there are 38,440 employé members of the profit sharing fund at present. They have contributed $10,678,000 and the market value of stock in the fund now amounts to $42,622,000, giving them a 4 to 1 return.

The company has had only one strike in more than 40 years, he said. That was two years ago and it lasted only eight days.

The plan has been particularly successful with Sears because of a period of sustained profits, he said. It could not be used generally because certain lines of business could not support it, he said. He cited the railroads, in which there is a high ratio between capital investment and pay rolls.

Wood also suggested that a new and growing business would do well to deposit part of its common stock—perhaps 10 per cent—in a special account for the benefit of employés later on. If the business prospered the employés would benefit from

Du Pont Votes $1.50 Dividend for Year-End

A year-end dividend of $1.50 a share was declared yesterday on the common stock of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. Directors of the Delaware chemical maker ordered the dividend paid Dec. 14 to stockholders of record Nov. 29.

Du Pont has paid three previous dividends this year on the common stock. On March 14 and June 14 payments of 50 cents a share were disbursed, and on Sept. 14 a dividend of 75 cents a share was paid. The present declaration brings total payments for the year to $3.25 a share. In 1937 a year-end dividend of $2 a share was paid. Total payments last year were $6.25 a share.

ENGINEER DENIES TVA FERTILIZER IS COMPETITIVE

Muscle Shoals, Ala., Nov. 21.—(AP)—A chemical engineer for the Tennessee Valley authority told a congressional committee here today the TVA did not compete with private manufacturers of phosphates for fertilizers. The authority's work, he said, is "purely experimental."

The engineer, who testified before the opening session of a committee studying phosphate resources, was A. M. Miller, director of the TVA's chemical engineering department. He said the TVA program developed methods of manufacturing cheaper, more effective fertilizers and then placed these new methods at the disposal of private producers. Phosphate fertilizers produced by TVA, he continued, are not sold but are given to land grant colleges and farmers for experiments.

Miller also testified an "intermediary product" of the authority's phosphate plants is elemental phosphorus, used in making a smoke screen chemical and incendiary bombs.

The committee will begin a hearing at Knoxville, Tenn., Nov. 24.

VALUE OF DOLLAR HIGHER AGAINST FOREIGN MONEYS

The value of the dollar increased slightly in foreign exchange dealings yesterday. The British pound sterling lost 7-8 cent, closing at $4.69⅛. Other principal European currencies, except the Holland guilder and the Belgian belga, also moved lower.

The Federal Reserve bank of New York reported engagement of $7,619,000 gold in England for shipment to the United States. Gold was quoted in the London open market yesterday at 147 shillings 11½ pence. This was ½ penny higher than Saturday's price and equivalent to $34.77.

Texas Firm Gets Permit to Import Mexican Oil

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21.—(AP)—The treasury said today a permit had been granted the Eastern States Petroleum corporation of Houston, Tex., to import Mexican oil for refining and re-export. The oil comes from properties expropriated by Mexico from American and British companies. Treasury officials said the Eastern States corporation is receiving about 15,000 barrels a day. Several domestic producers have protested against alleged "dumping" of the expropriated oil in this country, officials said, and an investigation is under way.

Stocks Rally from Decline; End Irregular

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 21.—Support in the last hour flagged a declining stock market and brought about an irregular close. Midday losses ranging from fractions to 2 points were reduced and in many instances replaced by plus signs. Aviation issues showed independent strength and registered advances running to around 3 points.

Trading was slow at 942,020 shares Caution was the dominating note in the financial district. This was attributed partly to the holiday later in the week and partly to the desire of many traders to await developments because of the extent of last week's reaction.

News Influences Conflicting.

Although the international situation was regarded as more reassuring, evidence of a pause in the business upturn was a restraining influence, according to observers. They mentioned the dip in estimated steel operations this week. Although small, the setback was judged to be significant.

Curtiss-Wright, reputedly because of its low price, invited buying in large blocks and took volume leadership. The stock closed at 7, up ¼ point.

Steel shares recovered after a slump on the steel operations announcement. United States Steel and Republic wiped out substantial losses and edged fractionally higher. Bethlehem advanced 1⅞ points.

Motors Close Steady.

Leading motors closed unchanged. Chrysler was down 2 points at one time. General Motors dropped to 48⅞, then returned to 49½.

Key copper issues closed mixed. On the upside were American Smelting, Phelps and Anaconda. The last named gained 1⅛ points. Kennecott and International Nickel steadied around previous finals.

Rubbers converted losses running to 1 point to fractional gains. Leaders were United States Rubber, Goodyear and Goodrich. United States Rubber preferred jumped 2 points to a new 1938 high on dividend expectations.

Oils were mixed in a narrow range. Favorite mail order stocks, including Sears-Roebuck and Montgomery Ward, firmed fractionally higher.

PAY-HOUR HEAD ASKS EMPLOYERS TO CO-OPERATE

O. J. Libert, acting supervising inspector of region III [including Chicago] under the wage and hour law, yesterday asked coöperation of all employers in the area, covering twelve states. He said the regional office in the federal building is ready to assist in four ways:

1. Giving information about the act and rulings by Elmer F. Andrews, administrator, under the act.

2. Advising employers on questions regarding the jurisdiction of the administrator.

3. Receiving and examining complaints of violation or evasion of the act.

4. Making inspections in accordance with instructions of the area director.

Tighten U. S. Rules on Oil Speculators' Activities

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21.—(AP)—The interior department issued regulations today designed too protect investors from "unscrupulous oil speculators." The rules provide that assignments of royalty interests in prospecting permits shall not be approved by the department prior to a valuable discovery of oil or gas. They also prohibit the filing of assignments until such a discovery is made.

Steel Mills to Slacken Production This Week

MORGENTHAU'S AIDS ARE HAVING TROUBLE DRAFTING TAX PLANS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. indicated again today that tax experts are having difficulty in agreeing on a program for next year.

He said drafting of tax proposals for the 76th congress is awaiting further development of President Roosevelt's national defense program. This program will switch WPA funds to defense purposes and is expected to call for many millions more.

Morgenthau gave an abrupt "no" to a reporter's question whether the tax proposals have been completed. He added that his emphasis indicated the difficulty treasury experts are having in their task.

Asked if national defense plans are holding up the tax program, Morgenthau replied:

"That's fairly obvious."

The secretary refused to reveal the nature of discussions by the four member economic board appointed by the President last Friday, other than to say taxation had not been discussed yet.

Morgenthau said the treasury will have an announcement Dec. 5 concerning the Dec. 15 financing program.

SEC CHIEF FINDS 'GOOD JUDGMENT' IS BEING REVIVED

New York, Nov. 21.—(AP)—A revival of "good business judgment" tonight was cited by William O. Douglas as "the real story behind an encouraging improvement in the relations between business and government." Douglas is chairman of the Securities and Exchange commission.

He told the National Association of Accredited Publicity Directors in a prepared address that administrative agencies such as the SEC are "here to stay." The choice of whether those agencies shall develop as business forces or police forces rests, Douglas said, with business itself.

He received the association's second annual award for outstanding service in publicity.

Business men who take the lead in suggestions for regulation of their own enterprises fare best at the hands of government, Douglas said. He cited the New York Stock exchange as an institution "which has firmly taken its destiny into its own hands."

URGE 11 STATES ASSESS TAXES ON SAME DATE

Adoption of a uniform tax assessment date by midwestern state legislatures to reduce personality tax dodging was recommended yesterday at the midwest regional assemble of the Council of State Governments. The assembly is meeting in a two day session at the Shoreland hotel.

A committee recommended that eleven middle western states use Jan. 1 as the date for tax assessments. The states are Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, Iowa, Minnesota, Kansas, Kentucky, Tennessee and Missouri.

The committee reported that the differences between the tax assessment dates of the various states provide the tax evader with a loophole to move his goods across state lines until after the assessment date.

Advises Liquor Men to File Fair Trade Practice List

Representatives of all wholesale branches of the liquor industry in Illinois were advised yesterday to compile a list of fair trade practices for their industry to be presented to the state legislature in January. Arthur S. Smith, chairman of the state liquor control commission, told 200 wholesale representatives yesterday in a meeting at the Hotel La Salle that special discounts to retailers and premiums used to stimulate sales must be discontinued.

Stockholders Urged to Join, Guard Rights

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—J. Newcomb Blackman, a stockholder of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, today urged his "fellow suffering stockholders" to combine their strength to protect their investments from unjustified attacks on business. Speaking before the forty persons attending the B. & O.'s annual meeting, Blackman made his appeal to the nation's 15,000,000 shareholders

He asserted that "selfish demands" by labor and increasing government "strangulation" are forcing the railroads steadily into bankruptcy. The time has come, he said, when railroad stockholders, as well as railroad labor, should have collective bargaining rights through organization.

He Gets Only One Dividend.

Blackman spoke as a B. & O. stockholder and as a vice president of the American Federation of Investors, Inc., with headquarters in Chicago. He said he had held B. & O. preferred stock for fifteen years and was also a shareholder in six other roads. This year, he said, he had received dividends from only one of the seven roads.

The railroads cannot cut expenses or lower rates to meet increasing competition from other transport services without first getting permission from the Interstate commerce commission, Blackman pointed out.

"It takes governmental bodies months, or perhaps years to give their decision on business problems," he declared. "Railroad regulation has become strangulation.

Urges Shackles Be Removed.

"The business man's answer would be, 'free the railroads of everything but the most necessary regulation. Unshackle them. Permit them to meet competition.' Then, as stockholders, we would soon find out whether men like our [B. & O.] chairman, Mr. [Daniel] Willard, and other outstanding railroad executives have the capacity to rehabilitate the railroads. I believe, with few exceptions, they have."

Attacking labor for its resistance to the proposed 15 per cent reduction which was denied the roads this fall, Blackman said:

"I am convinced that there has been an utter lack of coöperation on the part of railroad employés."

Over 775,000 Sunday Circulation

FINANCIAL, as well as retail and national advertisers, find the Sunday Times an increasingly profitable sales medium. One reason for this is the fact that the Sunday edition of The Times reaches the type of reader best able to buy what he or she wants. Another reason is the range of this Sunday audience which includes leading families in more than 11,000 cities and towns throughout the country.

The net paid average circulation of the Sunday Times in the twelve months ended September 30, 1938, reached the highest figure for this period in the history of The Times at 775,123. For local, national and financial advertisers, The Times supplies one of the outstanding, responsive one-paper markets in America.

WALGREEN CO. HAS $2,067,846 PROFIT IN YEAR

Outlook Improving, Stockholders Told.

The Walgreen company, drug store chain, yesterday reported consolidated net profit of $2,067,846 for the fiscal year ended Sept. 30. This was equal to $1.25 a share on 1,292,485 common shares and compared with $2,755,822, or $1.87 a share, on 1,292,791 shares in the preceding fiscal year.

Net sales for the fiscal year totaled $67,725,358, compared with $67,890,138 for the preceding year.

Charles R. Walgreen, president, commented on the downward trend in business experienced early in the year. "As you know," he said, "a downswing in general business conditions commenced about the same time as did our last fiscal year, and became more intense during its course. We reduced overhead and other expenses, but we did not reduce wages.

Sees Evidence of Upturn.

"There has been some evidence of improvement in conditions in the last two months or so. Total costs of doing business are currently a little lower in ratio to sales than a year ago. It therefore appears reasonable to hope that some restoration of the income of our stockholders may be considered before too long, if the present trend continues."

Net income of the Texas corporation dropped to $1.89 a share in the first nine months of this year from $3.91 in the first nine months of 1937, T. Rieber, chairman, reported. The per share figures indicated that net earnings of the large oil producer and refiner totaled approximately 20½ million dollars for the nine months, against 42 million dollars last year.

Indicated per share profit in the third quarter was 62 cents, compared with $1.43 in the same 1937 quarter. The board of directors declared the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents, payable Jan. 5 to stockholders of record Dec. 9.

Another Oil Firm Has Loss.

Another oil firm, the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport company, reported for the September quarter a net loss of $118,807, in contrast to net income of $1,698,587 in the September quarter of last year. Net loss in the three months ended June 30, 1938, however, totaled $529,840.

Net operating loss of the Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., increased to $129,697 in the third quarter, compared with $107,380 in the same 1937 period. This was after depreciation charges, but before nonoperating income or losses. After including nonoperating items, loss amounted to $210,988, compared with $63,689 in the September, 1937, quarter.

Seaway Pact with Canada Is Assailed

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—The Mississippi Valley association's battle against a St. Lawrence seaway treaty was led today by Congressman Claude V. Parsons [D., Ill.]. He also argued for his pending Chicago water diversion bill at the afternoon session of the association's twentieth annual convention.

Representative Parsons.

Parsons told 450 Mississippi waterway leaders that the latest versions of the proposed treaty would permanently throttle the diversion of Lake Michigan water into the Illinois river and Mississippi river waterways.

"The treaty provides diversion can never be greater than that allowed by the Supreme court decree without the consent of Canada," he said. "If the treaty goes through, that will be as permanent as the lakes themselves."

Warns of Waterway Handicap.

Parsons said the Mississippi waterway needs the water diverted from the lakes at Chicago. Government engineers, he said, figure stoppage of the diversion will produce a navigation hazard in the Mississippi river between St. Louis and the mouth of the Illinois river.

The congressman traced the history of the Supreme court decrees limiting the water diversion at Chicago and declared the high court acted "with quite a good deal of animosity toward certain sections of this country and individuals."

He pointed out the court decree, which will take effect on Jan. 1, 1939, limits the Chicago diversion of Lake Michigan water to 1,500 cubic feet per second. This includes, he said, the drainage of the Chicago river watershed, a factor he predicted will cut the actual Lake Michigan diversion to 350 or 400 feet in the summer months.

Urges Larger Water Diversion.

"A 5,000 cubic feet per second diversion at Chicago is essential to make the Illinois and Mississippi rivers an absolutely dependable and sanitary route from the lakes to the gulf," Parsons said. "All competent army engineers say 5,000 feet will be sufficient after the present locks and dams are in operation."

He pointed out that Illinois and Mississippi river trade has increased by 100 per cent each year for the last four years and predicted it would continue to increase at that rate if given its rightful facilities. He termed the lake states' opposition to the waterway and diversion "a vicious attitude."

Restrictive regulation of water carriers would "either throttle expansion or kill commerce on newly developing inland waterways," O. Slack Barrett of Cincinnati, president of the Ohio Valley Improvement association, warned.

"Our people need and want more, not less transportation facilities," he declared. "We need and want lower transportation rates."

CALL LABOR ACT UNFAIR, BUT FIX ELECTION TERMS

Binghamton, N. Y., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Describing the Wagner labor relations act as "one-sided," officials of the Endicott Johnson corporation today outlined the terms under which they would approve a vote by 20,000 employés on unionization.

In a formal statement, George F. Johnson, chairman of the board of directors; George W. Johnson, president, and Charles F. Johnson Jr., general manager, said the "company is afraid of the kind of election or referendum that might easily be set up by agitators—that is, an unfair referendum, favorable to one side only."

"As the law is one-sided," they said, "we would naturally expect the election or referendum to be one-sided also."

The three officials said they would "not be afraid of" a consent election under which "every employé of Endicott Johnson would have the right to vote, from the president to the office boy."

CHEAPER WAY TO REORGANIZE RAILS IS URGED

Conference Favors Simpler Rules.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21.—[Special.]—Two score spokesmen for railroads, other transportation groups, and shippers today unanimously approved proposals to aid distressed roads. They supported suggestions that the roads be permitted to reorganize under the interstate commerce commission without going through the expensive technicalities of bankruptcy proceedings.

This action was taken by the transportation conference, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. The conference opened its meeting today. The proposals on which it will act were outlined at a meeting last September. The conference will continue tomorrow.

The group met under the chairmanship of Arthur M. Hill, president of the Atlantic Greyhound corporation. He said the sole purpose of the conference was to "try to approach from a practical standpoint" the problems of the railroads. He added that no attempt is being made to work out a concrete legislative program, but said "our conclusions certainly will be the basis of support for legislative proposals."

Follows B. & O. Suggestion.

The program for financial reorganization as adopted follows in substance plans submitted to the interstate commerce commission by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad and the Lehigh Valley road, Hill said. As adopted, it read:

"To facilitate reorganizations there should be legislation to permit a carrier and its stockholders and creditors to secure approval by the interstate commerce commission of an agreed plan of reorganization which, when so approved, may be made promptly effective against small minority interests by a bankruptcy court, without the appointment of a trustee."

Hill and John J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, said in response to questions that "small minority interests" generally are understood as including groups numbering less than one-third of holders of various classes of securities.

Agrees on Other Proposals.

The conference agreed on a number of other proposals, but put over until tomorrow final disposition of such questions as railroad rate provisions, the related questions of consolidations, and abandonments, and most of the questions grouped under the topic of "federal financial aid."

Outstanding among proposals for "relief from burdens and restrictions" on the railroads was one originally drafted to suggest relieving carriers of the undistributed profits tax. This was redrafted to recommend that it "be applied to all business."

In addition, the conference recommended repeal of the land grant statutes, relief of railroads from the cost of eliminating grade crossings "in excess of net direct benefits to them," removal of restrictive measures applying to train operation, and various amendments to the railway labor act.

One item on the program of finance which was adopted advocated the authorization of government loans for purchase of new rail equipment.

New York Bonds.

New York, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Trading was light and prices mostly lower in the bond market today. Secondary rails and a few foreign dollar issues, notably German, were in the forefront of the irregular decline.

United States government loans were inactive, only sixteen of the more than thirty listed issues appearing on the tape. Closing prices ranged from a gain of 4-32ds of a point to a decline of 5-32ds.

That the market in general was in a waiting mood was attested by the light turnover of $5,597,300 par value, the smallest since Sept. 27.

German government 5½s and 7s yielded ¼ and 1⅛ respectively after showing early steadiness. Two Polish government issues were equally backward and some of the South American dollar loans, including the City of Buenos Aires 4⅜s, which dropped 5 points to a new 1938 low at 52⅝, were in supply.

Chicago Stocks.

Reflecting strength in aviation stocks in yesterday's market, Aviation corporation advanced 1¼ points to a new 1938 high of 6½ on the Chicago Stock exchange. The closing price was 6⅜. Aviation and Transportation, volume leader, moved up ⅜ to 3⅜.

Other stocks were irregularly lower. Marshall Field, Zenith Radio, and Walgreen was off fractions. Kentucky Utilities preferred, however, closed at a new high for the year at 78, up 1¼.

The day's turnover was 23,000, compared with 32,000 shares last Friday. THE TRIBUNE average of twenty stocks slipped 0.04 to 11.48.

Bank Stocks.

Shares of the Chicago Title and Trust company and the City National Bank and Trust company advanced yesterday in light trading. Chicago Title and Trust closed $2 higher at $148 bid, $152 asked. City National advanced $1 to $106 bid, $109 asked. First National finished $2 lower at $234 bid, $238 asked. Other leading issues were unchanged.

Leading producers yesterday cut the price of zinc 0.30 cent a pound to 4.75 cents, East St. Louis. The reduction left zinc at its level of last September.

The price cut was said to be a direct result of the new Anglo-American trade treaty, which will reduce the American duty on zinc 0.35 cent a pound. The newly adjusted price is expected to make possible the meeting of foreign competition.

Copper also weakened yesterday, with the export quotation falling to about 10.62½ cents from 10.75 cents on Saturday. Scrap copper slipped ⅛ cent to 10.62½ cents a pound.

Zinc contracts lost 0.19 to 0.25 cent a pound, and copper futures closed with losses of 0.02 to 0.08 cent. Tin contracts ended 0.15 to 0.20 cent a pound lower. Lead eased 0.12 to 0.15 cent.

Rubber, wool tops, cottonseed oil, cocoa and hides joined in the decline. Rubber contracts fell 0.34 to 0.45 cent a pound. The spot price of smoked ribbed rubber sheets slipped to 15.68 from 16.06 cents a pound on Saturday. Hides futures lost 0.07 to 0.17 cent a pound.

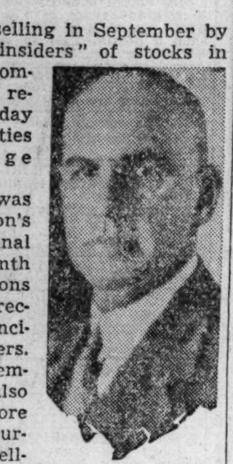
'INSIDERS' SELL MORE STOCK IN OWN COMPANIES

September Transactions Revealed by SEC.

Additional selling in September by corporation "insiders" of stocks in their own companies was reported yesterday by the Securities and Exchange commission.



Alvan Macauley sells Packard Motor shares.

The report was the commission's second and final one for the month on transactions by officers, directors, and principal stockholders. The first September summary also showed more sales than purchases. The selling edge has held since last October.

Sales reported yesterday included stocks of the Commercial Investment Trust corporation, Borg-Warner corporation, Crane company, and the Packard Motor Car company.

H. S. Auguste Reduces Holdings.

Harmon S. Auguste of New York, a director of Commercial Investment Trust, sold 5,000 common shares, reducing his holdings to 14,338 shares. Auguste, who is a vice president of the May Department Stores company, also sold 12,500 common shares held in that company through a trust. This left him 24,716 shares held in the trust and 5,425 directly held.

The sale of 2,000 common shares of Borg-Warner was reported by Dean D. Francis, Cleveland, O., a director. This left him 16,200 shares.

Cornelius Crane, director of the Crane company, reported that he sold 3,900 common shares which had been directly held. Another 600 shares which he held indirectly in trust under the will of R. T. Crane Jr., were sold.

Additional Stock Sold.

Harrison Williams, a director of the North American company, sold 10,000 common shares which had been held indirectly through a holding company. This left him 149,802 shares indirectly held and 7,690 shares held directly.

Frank Phillips, chairman of the Phillips Petroleum company, through the exercise of rights bought $305,000 par value of 3 per cent convertible debentures. The purchases were made indirectly through the Phillips Investment company.

EGGS FOR FUTURE DELIVERY RALLY FROM 1938 LOWS

Egg futures rallied strongly from their 1938 lows yesterday with gains ranging up to ⅞ cent a dozen. Expected colder weather, which would cut egg laying, was a factor in the upswing. Gains of ¼ cent in storage eggs in cash trading and heavier withdrawals of storage supplies also were influences.

Butter contracts closed unchanged to ⅛ cent a pound lower in a small trade. Although buying demand was lacking, a steady cash market and reports of heavier consumption of butter out of storage than last year were supporting factors.

Metals Used in Steel.

The United States has large reserves of iron ore, but it is dependent on foreign sources for a substantial amount of the other metals that are used in the manufacture of steel. Seven of the twelve principal nonferrous metals used in steel are derived chiefly from foreign countries according to the American Iron and Steel institute.

The three principal uses of nonferrous metals in the manufacture of steel are: [1] to assist in the chemical process of steel manufacturing; [2] to give special properties to alloy steels, and [3] to serve as a corrosion-resistant coating.

The reason for use of each of these metals in the steel making process, typical applications and the principal source of supply will be discussed in succeeding articles.

ASKS U. S. MOVE TO ENCOURAGE PROFIT SHARING

Tax Credit Is Proposed by Sears Head.

When asked for his opinion on an incentive tax, Wood declared that he was no tax expert.

"That's why we have hopes of getting somewhere," Vandenberg commented, smiling.

Senator Clyde L. Herring [D., Ia.], chairman of the subcommittee, said that since profit sharing increases efficiency of business it would also increase profits and give the government more to tax. Gen. Wood agreed.

Folsom told the committee that his company opposes the incentive taxation plan, as "it is unsound to impose or withhold taxes as a means to influence or direct action of this type; taxes should be levied for revenue purposes only."

Warns of Effect on Wages.

"It would be difficult if not impossible to apply a method of determining profit sharing that would avoid in all cases a possible tendency to lower wage rates to offset profit sharing," he said.

He added that Eastman Kodak's twenty-six years of experience with its system of wage dividends showed that it was "a very desirable and effective method of bringing about better coöperation among the workers, management, and the stockholders." He said the company has no labor troubles.

The company has maintained wage dividends since 1912 with the exception of 1934. The amount of the dividend depends on the company's earnings.

Factor in Long Peace Record.

Deupree said Procter & Gamble's profit sharing system has been an important influence in maintaining amicable labor relations for fifty years.

"Do you agree that it would be absurd ever to attempt to dictate a standard policy to American industry?" asked Vandenberg.

Deupree said he did, and thought a social minded employer was of more benefit than a social statute.

BANKERS OFFER NEW BOND ISSUE OF CONNECTICUT

The Bank of Manhattan, associated with Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co., and C. J. Devine & Co., yesterday was awarded the $25,000,000 issue of Connecticut funding and building bonds. The bank bid 100.0528 for the 1939-'43 maturities as 1¾s and the 1944-'58 maturities as 1½s. Net interest cost to the state was 1.5128 per cent.

The bonds were reoffered publicly by the banking syndicate. The syndicate reported later in the day that more than half the issue had already been sold.

Directors of the Commonwealth Edison company yesterday fixed Dec. 2 as the record date for determining stockholders entitled to receive subscription warrants for the proposed additional issue of convertible debentures. The subscription will expire Dec. 21. Stockholders will be given the right to subscribe to $3.12½ of debentures for each share of stock held. The debentures are to be convertible into stock at the rate of four shares for each $100 of debentures.

GRAINS SLUMP; WHEAT IS NEAR SEASON'S LOW

Wheat and corn futures on the Chicago Board of Trade declined about ¾ cent a bushel at one time yesterday, but rallied. Liquidation by holders of December contracts featured trading. December wheat sold at 62¼ cents, or within 1 cent a bushel of the seasonal low.

A moderate rally followed the break, largely as the result of short covering. Wheat closed ¼ to ½ cent lower and corn was ¼ to ⅝ cent lower. December corn went to 4 cents a bushel under the May contract, the widest discount in a number of years.

Arrangements were reported to have been completed yesterday whereby about 3,000,000 bushels of cash corn owned by the Commodity Credit corporation will be transferred to the Federal Surplus Commodity corporation. The latter will turn the grain over to processors in exchange for corn meal and other products for relief distribution.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Bonds.

New York, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Trading was light and prices mostly lower in the bond market today. Secondary rails and a few foreign dollar issues, notably German, were in the forefront of the irregular decline.

United States government loans were inactive, only sixteen of the more than thirty listed issues appearing on the tape. Closing prices ranged from a gain of 4-32ds of a point to a decline of 5-32ds.

That the market in general was in a waiting mood was attested by the light turnover of $5,597,300 par value, the smallest since Sept. 27.

German government 5½s and 7s yielded ¼ and 1⅛ respectively after showing early steadiness. Two Polish government issues were equally backward and some of the South American dollar loans, including the City of Buenos Aires 4⅜s, which dropped 5 points to a new 1938 low at 52⅝, were in supply.

Chicago Stocks.

Reflecting strength in aviation stocks in yesterday's market, Aviation corporation advanced 1¼ points to a new 1938 high of 6½ on the Chicago Stock exchange. The closing price was 6⅜. Aviation and Transportation, volume leader, moved up ⅜ to 3⅜.

Other stocks were irregularly lower. Marshall Field, Zenith Radio, and Walgreen was off fractions. Kentucky Utilities preferred, however, closed at a new high for the year at 78, up 1¼.

The day's turnover was 23,000, compared with 32,000 shares last Friday. THE TRIBUNE average of twenty stocks slipped 0.04 to 11.48.

Bank Stocks.

Shares of the Chicago Title and Trust company and the City National Bank and Trust company advanced yesterday in light trading. Chicago Title and Trust closed $2 higher at $148 bid, $152 asked. City National advanced $1 to $106 bid, $109 asked. First National finished $2 lower at $234 bid, $238 asked. Other leading issues were unchanged.

Leading producers yesterday cut the price of zinc 0.30 cent a pound to 4.75 cents, East St. Louis. The reduction left zinc at its level of last September.

The price cut was said to be a direct result of the new Anglo-American trade treaty, which will reduce the American duty on zinc 0.35 cent a pound. The newly adjusted price is expected to make possible the meeting of foreign competition.

Copper also weakened yesterday, with the export quotation falling to about 10.62½ cents from 10.75 cents on Saturday. Scrap copper slipped ⅛ cent to 10.62½ cents a pound.

These markdowns brought a corresponding drop in futures prices. Contracts for future delivery of most other staples also declined.

Zinc contracts lost 0.19 to 0.25 cent a pound, and copper futures closed with losses of 0.02 to 0.08 cent. Tin contracts ended 0.15 to 0.20 cent a pound lower. Lead eased 0.12 to 0.15 cent.

Rubber, wool tops, cottonseed oil, cocoa and hides joined in the decline. Rubber contracts fell 0.34 to 0.45 cent a pound. The spot price of smoked ribbed rubber sheets slipped to 15.68 from 16.06 cents a pound on Saturday. Hides futures lost 0.07 to 0.17 cent a pound.

'INSIDERS' SELL MORE STOCK IN OWN COMPANIES

September Transactions Revealed by SEC.

Additional selling in September by corporation "insiders" of stocks in their own companies was reported yesterday by the Securities and Exchange commission.

Alvan Macauley sells Packard Motor shares.

The report was the commission's second and final one for the month on transactions by officers, directors, and principal stockholders. The first September summary also showed more sales than purchases. The selling edge has held since last October.

Sales reported yesterday included stocks of the Commercial Investment Trust corporation, Borg-Warner corporation, Crane company, and the Packard Motor Car company.

H. S. Auguste Reduces Holdings.

Harmon S. Auguste of New York, a director of Commercial Investment Trust, sold 5,000 common shares, reducing his holdings to 14,338 shares. Auguste, who is a vice president of the May Department Stores company, also sold 12,500 common shares held in that company through a trust. This left him 24,716 shares held in the trust and 5,425 directly held.

The sale of 2,000 common shares of Borg-Warner was reported by Dean D. Francis, Cleveland, O., a director. This left him 16,200 shares.

Cornelius Crane, director of the Crane company, reported that he sold 3,900 common shares which had been directly held. Another 600 shares which he held indirectly in trust under the will of R. T. Crane Jr., were sold.

Additional Stock Sold.

Harrison Williams, a director of the North American company, sold 10,000 common shares which had been held indirectly through a holding company. This left him 149,802 shares indirectly held and 7,690 shares held directly.

Frank Phillips, chairman of the Phillips Petroleum company, through the exercise of rights bought $305,000 par value of 3 per cent convertible debentures. The purchases were made indirectly through the Phillips Investment company.

Other Transactions Reported.

Other transactions reported to the commission included the following:

AMERICAN CENTRIFUGAR—Wilfrid G. Rose, secretary and treasurer, New York, sold 900 common shares, leaving 2,400 held.

CORN EXCHANGE BANK AND TRUST OF NEW YORK—John J. Phipps, director, New York, indirectly sold 635 shares of capital stock, leaving 16,657 held.

EGGS FOR FUTURE DELIVERY RALLY FROM 1938 LOWS

Egg futures rallied strongly from their 1938 lows yesterday with gains ranging up to ⅞ cent a dozen. Expected colder weather, which would cut egg laying, was a factor in the upswing. Gains of ¼ cent in storage eggs in cash trading and heavier withdrawals of storage supplies also were influences.

Butter contracts closed unchanged to ⅛ cent a pound lower in a small trade. Although buying demand was lacking, a steady cash market and reports of heavier consumption of butter out of storage than last year were supporting factors.

Metals Used in Steel.

The United States has large reserves of iron ore, but it is dependent on foreign sources for a substantial amount of the other metals that are used in the manufacture of steel. Seven of the twelve principal nonferrous metals used in steel are derived chiefly from foreign countries according to the American Iron and Steel institute.

The three principal uses of nonferrous metals in the manufacture of steel are: [1] to assist in the chemical process of steel manufacturing; [2] to give special properties to alloy steels, and [3] to serve as a corrosion-resistant coating.

The principal nonferrous metals used are aluminum, chromium, cobalt, copper, lead, manganese, molybdenum, nickel, tin, tungsten, vanadium, and zinc.

The reason for use of each of these metals in the steel making process, typical applications and the principal source of supply will be discussed in succeeding articles.

ASKS U. S. MOVE TO ENCOURAGE PROFIT SHARING

Tax Credit Is Proposed by Sears Head.

their efforts, as the stock would increase in value. If the business failed the employés still would lose nothing.

When asked for his opinion on an incentive tax, Wood declared that he was no tax expert.

"That's why we have hopes of getting somewhere," Vandenberg commented, smiling.

Senator Clyde L. Herring [D., Ia.], chairman of the subcommittee, said that since profit sharing increases efficiency of business it would also increase profits and give the government more to tax. Gen. Wood agreed.

Folsom told the committee that his company opposes the incentive taxation plan, as "it is unsound to impose or withhold taxes as a means to influence or direct action of this type; taxes should be levied for revenue purposes only."

Warns of Effect on Wages.

"It would be difficult if not impossible to apply a method of determining profit sharing that would avoid in all cases a possible tendency to lower wage rates to offset profit sharing," he said.

He added that Eastman Kodak's twenty-six years of experience with its system of wage dividends showed that it was "a very desirable and effective method of bringing about better coöperation among the workers, management, and the stockholders." He said the company has no labor troubles.

The company has maintained wage dividends since 1912 with the exception of 1934. The amount of the dividend depends on the company's earnings.

Factor in Long Peace Record.

Deupree said Procter & Gamble's profit sharing system has been an important influence in maintaining amicable labor relations for fifty years.

"Do you agree that it would be absurd ever to attempt to dictate a standard policy to American industry?" asked Vandenberg.

Deupree said he did, and thought a social minded employer was of more benefit than a social statute.

BANKERS OFFER NEW BOND ISSUE OF CONNECTICUT

The Bank of Manhattan, associated with Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co., and C. J. Devine & Co., yesterday was awarded the $25,000,000 issue of Connecticut funding and building bonds. The bank bid 100.0528 for the 1939-'43 maturities as 1¾s and the 1944-'58 maturities as 1½s. Net interest cost to the state was 1.5128 per cent.

The bonds were reoffered publicly by the banking syndicate. The syndicate reported later in the day that more than half the issue had already been sold.

Directors of the Commonwealth Edison company yesterday fixed Dec. 2 as the record date for determining stockholders entitled to receive subscription warrants for the proposed additional issue of convertible debentures. The subscription will expire Dec. 21. Stockholders will be given the right to subscribe to $3.12½ of debentures for each share of stock held. The debentures are to be convertible into stock at the rate of four shares for each $100 of debentures.

GRAINS SLUMP; WHEAT IS NEAR SEASON'S LOW

Wheat and corn futures on the Chicago Board of Trade declined about ¾ cent a bushel at one time yesterday, but rallied. Liquidation by holders of December contracts featured trading. December wheat sold at 62¼ cents, or within 1 cent a bushel of the seasonal low.

A moderate rally followed the break, largely as the result of short covering. Wheat closed ¼ to ½ cent lower and corn was ¼ to ⅝ cent lower. December corn went to 4 cents a bushel under the May contract, the widest discount in a number of years.

Arrangements were reported to have been completed yesterday whereby about 3,000,000 bushels of cash corn owned by the Commodity Credit corporation will be transferred to the Federal Surplus Commodity corporation. The latter will turn the grain over to processors in exchange for corn meal and other products for relief distribution.

"Where Has This Been All My Life?"
"To think we put up with the usual apartments for so many years! I never dreamed hotel suites could be so individual and homelike until we came to the Seneca. Imagine a luxurious home like this just 5 minutes from the Loop. Every convenience for carefree living. G. E. electric kitchen, ample closet space. And for entertaining—a delightful cocktail lounge and smart dining room. Yet it costs so little to live so well at the Seneca."
